WETS PLANNING TO GIVE CAPITAL FREE RUM REIN

O'Connor Says District Will Not Be Left Only Dry Area.

TACTICS TO BE USED YET TO BE DECIDED

Beer Cause Is Advanced in Congressional Circles as Action Is Planned.

By J. BERNARD McDONNELL.

Elated wets, among the leaders of whom is Representative John J. O'Connor (Democrat), of New York, plan to give the Capital the same freedom from prohibition as is given to the country as a whole.

Washington will not be left the only official Sahara in the Nation when the Volstead law is amended and the prohibition amendment is repealed, Representative O'Connor said yesterday.

Corporation Counsel William W. Bride and other District law leaders will be consulted by Representative O'Connor to make certain that the Capital shall not be left as the outstanding dry citadel of the Nation in which defeated prohibition leaders shall be able to gather in the comfort of that much saved from the deluge.

Seeks Same Privilege.

"There is no reason why the Congress shall not give the people of the National Capital the same privilege they are going to give to the people of the Nation as a whole, and I intend to draft legislation after consultation with Mr. Bride and other legal authorities in the District, which shall wipe off the statute books of the National Capital the sumptuary and improper prohibition laws," Representative O'Connor said.

Meanwhile the cause of beer advanced in congressional circles. Representative O'Connor has announced he will introduce a bill providing for legalized beer immediately the next session convenes, and whatever legislation is necessary to meet local conditions. This may be accomplished by a phrase in the general bill and the course of wisdom may dictate such a course. The tactics to be employed are to be decided.

Representative Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, Democratic leader and prospective Speaker of the next Congress, yesterday said sentiment for amendment of the Volstead law apparently has grown to such an extent that action might be expected at the coming short session.

Won't Predict Passage.

Although he has been classed as a dry, Mr. Rainey never has been classed as a rabid dry and in the whole course of his long legislative career never has made a speech in

Young's Efforts to Halt Insull Failure Described

Chicago, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—The part Owen D. Young took in the last attempts to save two now bankrupt Insull utility holding companies was outlined today at a Federal court hearing.

Edward A. Brown, executive vice president of the First National Bank of Chicago, said the Eastern capitalist acted as "peacemaker" a year ago in negotiations with New York banks which had loaned huge sums to Insull Utility Investments and Corporation Securities of Chicago.

Sahara Is Flown By Amy Johnson

British Aviatrix Is Ahead of Husband's Record in Cape Town Trip.

Dakar, French West Africa, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Amy Johnson, who is flying a tiny plane from England to the cape in an effort to better the record of her husband, Capt. J. A. Mollison, successfully crossed the Sahara Desert yesterday and today she was speeding toward Douala, on the Gulf of Guinea.

Miss Johnson made the 1,400-mile flight from Oran, Algeria, to Cao, on the upper Niger in French West Africa, in a little more than 13 hours. She landed at Gao at 12:30 p. m. yesterday. The flight to Douala from Gao is 1,200 miles.

Douala is on the African West coast at the point where the coastline turns southward to Cape Town. It is 6,200 miles from England to the cape and more than 4,500 miles from England to Douala. Capt. Mollison's record for the Cape Town flight is 4 days 17 hours 19 minutes. Reaching Douala without delay Miss Johnson would be almost 24 hours ahead of her husband's record at that point, as she omitted one of his desert stops.

SPEAKERSHIP AIM.

RAINEY ANNOUNCES FOR SPEAKERSHIP

Byrns, McDuffie, Bankhead and Rankin Are Others Mentioned for Post.

(Associated Press.)

The race for the Speakership of the House in the new Congress began yesterday with the formal announcement of Representative Rainey, of Illinois, Democratic floor leader, that he would be a candidate.

The vigorous veteran of 28 years in the National Assembly told newspapermen:

"I think I am in line for the Speakership and will be a candidate."

The Speakership will become vacant next March 4 when John N. Garner, of Texas, leaves the House to take up his new post as Vice President. At least five candidates for the Democratic Speakership nomination expect to announce their intentions soon.

Rainey, Byrns, of Tennessee; McDuffie and Bankhead, of Alabama, and Rankin, of Mississippi, are outstanding contenders.

Rainey said he had received pledges of support from members-elect from Northern and Midwestern States. He rejected the suggestion that he remain to be chairman of the ways and means committee, of which he has been a member for many years.

"I prefer the speakership," Rainey said. "I am confident of strong support." He said the Presidency had gone to the Northeastern section, and the Vice Presidency to the Southwest and added, "It is felt by many that the Middle-West should be represented in the House organization by the speakership."

Rainey, a farmer and lawyer from Carrollton, Ill., entered the House in the Fifty-eighth Congress, and served continuously since with the exception of the Sixty-seventh, when he lost his seat in the Harding landslide of 1920.

During his service he specialized on tariff and revenue legislation and last spring drafted the manufacturers' sales tax that was defeated by the House. He also voted for resubmission of prohibition although he represented a district classified as dry.

Rainey is 73 years old and is unusually vigorous. He is a student of international affairs and several years ago made a first-hand survey of the communistic government in Russia.

PENNY SHOWER ADDS $187,144 TO CHEST ROLL

Campaign Is Still Behind in Efforts for Quota by Wednesday.

DAY'S GIFTS AVERAGE $22.26 PER PERSON

Colladay and Frohman Talk at Report Meeting and Stress Needs.

CHEST RECEIPTS

Metropolitan...	1,526	34,193.86
Governmental..	3,652	37,267.69

Previously reported	6,601	389,909.23
Total to date..	15,007	$577,053.80

Showers of pennies, 18,714,457 of them, to be exact, descended on the Community Chest yesterday as a result of the "how many pennies a day" method of solicitation enforced this year. Despite this gratifying "shower," the Chest was still behind in its campaign to raise $2,419,787 by next Wednesday night.

Every worker in the army of 5,000 now soliciting funds for the Chest must get more and larger contributions if the campaign is to be a success.

This flat statement was made at yesterday's report meeting by Newbold Noyes, campaign chairman, and was reiterated by H. L. Rust, jr., chairman of the Metropolitan unit. Both of them pointed out that one-third of the time set for the campaign has lapsed and that less than one-fourth of the goal has been attained. In other words, the contributions to date will supply the budgets of the 83 agencies in the Chest for 87 days, leaving 278 days, at the rate of $6,629 per day, for which the funds must still be contributed.

$22.26 Per Person.

An interesting analysis, based on the "pennies per day" method of solicitation, was made yesterday by the auditing unit. With reports showing 15,007 gifts amounting to $577,053.80, the average gift amounts to $38.45 per person, or approximately 10.5 cents per day. Yesterday's 8,406 gifts amounting to $187,144.57 showed the average gift for the day to be $22.26 per person, or 6.1 cents per day.

The average gift of all the units is held up, of course, by that of the specific gifts committee which, with 79 givers, yesterday reported a total

Franco-U. S. Wine Trade Is Prepared

American Chamber Forms Group to Arrange for Looming Market.

Paris, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—The American Chamber of Commerce of France announced today that, as a result of inquiries about possible exports of French wines to the United States, a special committee had been appointed to follow developments both in America and in France.

The committee will be entirely advisory, operating in the general interests of Franco-American trade.

Information will be requested from chambers of commerce and trade associations in the wine-growing regions of France in order that inquiries received from prospective exporters and importers may be answered.

Russians Look to New Plan

Higher Living Standards Expected to Be Included in Next Five-Year Drive Spur Hopes of Workers Now on Strict Ration.

This is the second of two articles by Stanley R. Richardson, Associated Press staff correspondent, summarizing past accomplishments and future aims of Soviet Russia's industrialization plan.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Moscow, Nov. 16.—The food scarcity in Soviet Russia has meant new and tighter ration regulations for staple commodities already classed as luxuries by most of the people.

In 1933 the second five-year plan starts. Its inauguration is expected to bring vigorous activity looking toward doubling or tripling the standards of living of the people.

In the matter of food there appears to be at present in the large centers at least plenty of bread, both the black bread and the slate-colored, which passes here for white. But there is a shortage of virtually every other article, with the possible exception of most seasonable vegetables.

Such things as butter, meat, fish and sugar are rare delicacies in the average Russian home diet. Each of the workers who, with the Red army, comprise the most privileged class so far as food is concerned, is entitled to 1 kilo (2.204 pounds) of butter and sugar, and between 2 and 3 kilos of meat a month in his ratio allowance. But even this meager quantity sometimes is not to be had at the government cooperative stores, where food supplies are distributed at low fixed prices.

The average citizen consequently must go to a private market, where peasants are permitted to sell their surpluses at any price they can command. Here the prices usually are so high that his wages will not permit him to buy as much as he would like and in some cases as much as he needs. It is not unusual to see many

Capone Faces Court In Fight for Liberty

Taken From Atlanta Prison for Three Hours While Move for Freedom Is Argued; Judge Delays Decision.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Al Capone emerged from his enforced retirement in the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary long enough today to hear Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood take under advisement the Government motion to dismiss the habeas corpus petition brought by attorneys for the burly former gangster.

For three hours and fifteen minutes Capone sat in court with his counsel and listened to a maze of legal arguments involving his right to freedom under the statute of limitations.

Then Chicago's former public enemy No. 1 was hustled back into a prison car and hurried once again behind the steep gray walls where his identity is screened behind the number 40,886.

William E. Leahy and William J. Hughes, jr., Washington attorneys, appeared to argue Capone's contention that the three-year period under the statute of limitations had expired before Capone was indicted for violation of the Federal income tax laws.

The Government sent G. A. Youngquist, Assistant United States Attorney General, in charge of prohibition and income tax prosecutions, and District Attorney Dwight H. Green, of Chicago, to assist Assistant District Attorney Hal Lindsey, of the Northern District of Georgia, in combating Capone's bid for freedom.

Capone was convicted of violating the income tax laws of 1926, 1927 and 1928 more than a year ago in Federal court in Chicago and entered the Federal penitentiary here last May to

3 SLAIN IN MYSTERY VIRGINIA SHOOTINGS

Civil War Veteran, 97, One of 4 Arrested; Another Is Near Death.

Rocky Mount, Va., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Gunfire snuffed out the lives of three men in Franklin County yesterday afternoon and early this morning, while a fourth is in serious condition, with a fractured skull received, it is believed, from a blow from a shotgun.

The dead are Ernest Shelton, Henry Holly and "Dump" Adkins. Ike Prater was taken with a fractured skull to the Martinsville Hospital. Dr. N. T. Greer, coroner, who, with Commonwealth's Attorney Carter Lee, investigated the tragedies, said his condition is serious.

Sparrell Adkins, 97-year old Confederate veteran, who was held in connection with the death of "Dump" Adkins, his grandson, was placed under a bond of $5,000. He was not brought to Rocky Mount because of feeble health.

Harold Quinn, charged with the slaying of Henry Holly, is being held in jail here, but it is expected bond will be arranged this afternoon.

Also held as material witnesses are Robert Holland and Ora Turner. The slayings took place near Union Church, in a sparsely settled part of the county.

Adams was killed, officers said, near the home of Ike Prater. The

PAPEN IS EXPECTED TO QUIT POST TODAY

Dr. Schnee Is Mentioned as Possible Successor as Crisis Nears.

Berlin, Nov. 16 (U.P.).—A crisis in the government of Franz von Papen appeared imminent tonight, with political quarters discussing the likelihood that Dr. Heinrich Schnee, former governor of German East Africa, will succeed to the chancellorship.

Dr. Schnee, who was the German member of the Lytton commission investigating the Sino-Japanese problem, was accorded the most prominence in speculation as to Von Papen's successor.

He is known to advocate the inclusion of Adolf Hitler's National Socialist party in the government.

Von Papen is scheduled to confer with Presidet Paul von Hindenburg tomorrow. It was freely pre-

Plot on Hoover Train For Reward Admitted

Janesville, Wis., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Henry Vance, Beloit Negro, arrested November 5 while carrying a crowbar along the railroad tracks shortly before President Hoover's special passed, admitted tonight, authorities said, he and others planned to remove a number of spikes from the right of way and then notify police in hope of earning a reward.

BROWN FAVORS ANOTHER YEAR OF FURLOUGHS

Budget Estimates to Be Based on Lower Pay Schedule.

DECIDING OF ISSUE IS PUT UP TO HOUSE

Congress Waits President's Word on Consolidation; Support Pledged.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Continuance of the 8 1-3 per cent Government pay cut for another year was recommended before the House appropriations committee yesterday by Postmaster General Walter F. Brown.

The Postmaster General testified at opening hearings of the Postoffice-Treasury subcommittee. His statement bore out earlier reports that the President will advise against suspension of the furlough at this session.

Earlier, Budget Bureau officials informed department heads by phone that salary estimates in the 1934 budget would be shaved 8 1-3 per cent to conform with the cut ordered in current appropriations.

Hoover's Word Awaited.

The understanding heretofore had been that the Budget Bureau would base estimates on normal pay scales, inasmuch as the furlough was enacted only for one year.

Meantime Congress is waiting for definite additional recommendations from the President, covering major phases of the White House plan for reorganization of Government bureaus through consolidations and elimination of overlappings.

House Democratic Leader Henry T. Rainey yesterday said the President's reorganization proposals will receive the support of the Democratic House.

"If the President doesn't make suggestions, we certainly shall at the next session, and carry them through," he said. "The people demand curtailed expenditures."

Responsibility Thrown on Democrats.

The Postmaster General's furlough recommendation, and the position said to have been taken by the President, throws upon the Democratic House the burden of responsibility for any action confining the pay cut to the current year.

Views already expressed by House Democratic leaders leave little hope for the Government worker in that direction. Appropriations Chairman Joseph W. Byrns and House Democratic Whip John McDuffie are among those who have thrown cold water on suspension prospects.

In support of the administration stand for a year's continuation of the

Hoover Applauded By Capital Crowd

President and First Lady Shake Hands With Many at Union Station.

Back in the Capital yesterday after his campaign tour and visit home, President Hoover was given an echoing reception by members of his official family and well-wishers. He immediately plunged into the intensive studies of the debt problem.

With the President was Mrs. Hoover. Upon their departure from the train they were met by Vice President Curtis and Mrs. Dolly Gann and members of the Cabinet.

The President and Mrs. Hoover shook hands with the lines of well-wishers at the station to greet them. A large crowd gave the President resounding applause as he made his way to the presidential waiting room.

PRESIDENT, BACK, STARTS WORK ON WAR DEBTS ISSUE

Meets Leaders to Get Sentiment On Delay.

REED TELLS OF HOSTILITY

Reply to Powers Is Discussed With Stimson.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

President Hoover's first concern on getting back to his desk at the White House yesterday was to sound out Cabinet members and the supporters of his administration in Congress on the problem of European war debts to the United States.

Senator David A. Reed, administration spokesman in numerous battles in the upper House, remained with the President for more than a half hour, and is believed to have relayed to him the rapidly crystallizing sentiment in both houses against any continuation of the Hoover moratorium.

The President even before his arrival in Washington had indicated his intention of being guided solely by the attitude of Congress in all future debt negotiations. Even while the presidential train was speeding across the continent, the reaction against further facilities of delay to the European debtor nations was rapidly increasing in Congress.

Firm Against Cancellation.

With the anticancellationist policy of the Congress the President is known to be completely in sympathy. On the various occasions where he has had occasion to refer to the treatment of war debts he has invariably closed the door to any possibility of cancellation. The appeal recently received from Great Britain, France and Belgium for the continuation of the Hoover moratorium until the entire debt question could be reviewed in the light of present conditions has apparently fallen on deaf ears in Congress.

The attitude of Congress by the very statement of the President automatically decides the fate of the foreign appeal. The only possibility that some sort of concession may be offered the debtors whose notes fall due on December 15, congressional sentiment revealed, is the payment of the obligations on that date and the discussion of other terms afterward.

Senator Reed was abroad this summer and informally sounded out the leaders of the various countries who now are petitioning for delay. This,

3 EUROPEAN POWERS FORM REVIVAL POOL

France, Germany and Britain Join in Consortium to Speed Recovery.

Paris, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—The creation of an economic consortium by France, Germany and Great Britain, which is designed to assist in coping with the unemployed problem, was announced today by Raymond Patenotre, who will be in charge of its operations.

"We foresee," said M. Patenotre, "a return of prosperity by the natural process of the development of industrialization.

"The unemployed in the smaller depressed countries will be given work, while the jobless in the larger countries will be relieved by the operation of factories."

The plan was described as a combination of French capital and German industry, with guarantees covering the subjects of insurance, security and noncompetition.

M. Patenotre, who was born in the United States and whose father served as French Ambassador at Washington, is France's undersecretary for national economy. As vice president in actual charge of the operations of the consortium he will have headquarters in Paris. The German minister of national economy will serve as German vice president of the organization.

The first project will be the offer of a loan of 17,000,000,000 francs (currently $680,000,000) for the electrification of railways in Poland, Roumania, Irak and Portugal.

The Paris edition of the New York Herald Tribune said France and England would provide 40 per cent of this loan, each, and Germany would furnish 20 per cent.

The consortium will consist of three syndicates — Franco-German financial experts; British, French and German bankers, and a Franco-German syndicate designed to carry out recommendations of the banking group in the electrification projects.

M. Patenotre said the organiza-

Nicholas Murray Butler Asks Veterans Fund Cut

Couple Leap to Safety As Train Wrecks Auto

When their 1926 model automobile balked on the B. & O. track at the Wells avenue crossing at Hyattsville, Md., last night, with a freight train puffing down the line, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin P. Johnson, of Rosslyn, did not tarry or hesitate in leaving the car to its fate.

The car was demolished.

Better Financial Outlook Is Seen by F. H. Sisson

New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Belief that the country's financial outlook is "unmistakably encouraging" was expressed by Francis H. Sisson, president of the American Bankers Association, tonight.

Mr. Sisson, speaking at the Bankers Forum dinner, said the current situation shows a "very satisfactory" improvement over conditions of a few months ago, "and it is now apparent that the Federal Reserve Banks have successfully withstood the most severe test since their creation in 1913."

Stranger Occupying Grave, Man Plans to Remove Body

Well-Known Bridgeport, W. Va., Resident Tries in Vain to Learn Identity of Corpse and Has Posted Notice He Will Take Action.

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Nov. 16.—W. K. Thompson, a well-known resident of Bridgeport, is peeved, and one can hardly blame him. For years he carefully planned for his eternal resting place, and now some mysterious strangger has usurped it.

The situation has given Thompson considerable worry. For the last six months he has endeavored without result to learn the identity of a corpse which is occupying his grave in his family burial plot in the Odd Fellows Cemetery at Bridgeport.

Cemetery records and those of undertaking establishments within 100 miles have failed to shed any light on the mystery. Nobody can be found who assisted at a burial at the plot, or who has any record of such burial.

The plot, which is one of standard size, is already occupied by the remains of one child and Mr. Thompson's mother-in-law. The grave with the unknown occupant in it is the place Mr. Thompson had planned to occupy after his death.

Mr. Thompson this week decided to proceed legally to oust the trespasser and has posted the following over the grave: "Notice—Information wanted. Anyone knowing the name of the party buried in this grave will notify W. K. Thompson as body was placed by mistake. Body will be removed according to law if not identified."

"At The Post" in The Post

Race goers yesterday profited handsomely by following the selections of Walter Haight in his Bill Bennings column "At the Post," a daily feature of The Post's turf page.

Five winning selections out of seven races was Haight's record at Bowie yesterday and this remarkable handicapping followed his success on Tuesday when four of the "At the Post" selections galloped home in front including Drombo at a $40 mutuel.

Haight started off yesterday with One Chance, paying $9.70. He missed the second race, but his second choice, Welcome Gift, rewarded with a $10.10 mutuel, for place. Pompeius was his choice in the third, paying $9.70. Halcyon, his selection in the fourth, ran second, and then Haight picked the winners of the fifth, sixth and seventh races: Mad Frump at $3.90; The Doctor at $5.20 and Impeach at $13.

Nine winners in fourteen races is Haight's record of the last two days. Follow the races with Haight in The Post.

Skeleton Seen Revealing 20,000-Year-Old Murder

Details of Minnesota Find Support Scientists' Belief Modern Man Lived in North America When Last Glaciers Were Melting.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—A startling discovery that a skeleton found in Minnesota about two years ago is probably that of a prehistoric 17-year-old American girl slain violently 20,000 years ago, was reported to the National Academy of Sciences today.

The details appear to confirm one of the great goals of scientific research for proof that modern man lived in North America when the last glaciers were melting and to furnish a dramatic account of the first American tragedy, possibly a crime of passion, a seeming "murder" that waited 20,000 years to "out."

The "evidence" was presented in pictures by Prof. Albert E. Jenks, of the University of Minnesota. The skeleton was found in 1931, in Otter-tail County, Minn. It lay on the bottom of what Prof. Frank Leverett, University of Michigan geological authority, told the academy was a glacial lake 20,000 years ago, now dried up, and in the intervening years covered with about 11 feet of soil. Road builders turned up the skeleton about at the bottom of this 11 feet.

Study of the formation of joints, Prof. Jenks said, indicated that the bones were those of a girl of about 17, her head features were Mongolian, with a specially apish shape of the nose bones. Unusually fine preservation by the tightly packed

ROOSEVELT GETS UP AND STUDIES DEFICIT

Traces of Cold Are Gone as He Plunges Into State Budget Problem.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Gov. Roosevelt, in a gray business suit, up from a sick bed after five days' illness, worked on the State budget at the mansion today, seeking ways of making up a deficit of "something under $80,000,000" in this year's revenue.

The President-elect held his regular press conference and saw a few visitors, among them Louis B. Wehle, a relative of Supreme Court Justice Louis B. Brandeis. Wehle, a former Louisville resident, now is an attorney in New York. His was a social call.

Mr. Roosevelt, appearing rested and without an apparent trace of the cold that sent him to bed a few days after his election, said he felt "fine."

Undecided on Date.

"Tomorrow I'll be down in my study on the first floor and perhaps the next day I'll go outside," he remarked. He is scheduled to go to Hyde Park on Saturday and to leave for Warm Springs, Ga., early next week. He will stop off at Washington for an informal talk with President Hoover, who invited him to the White House to discuss the foreign debt situation.

"No, I don't know when I shall call the President," he replied to a question. The governor asserted, in his answer to Mr. Hoover's invitation, that he would telephone him when he decided to leave for Georgia.

When the newspapermen entered the governor's bedroom he was seated at a card table signing letters. Behind him on a bureau was a large model of a motor speedboat made by Harry Doremus, a convict at Great Meadow Prison. Doremus had named it the "Pardon Me." In his note to Mr. Roosevelt he said he had done all the work on the model.

"Isn't it a beauty; complete in every detail, even to a motor?" said Roosevelt.

"Oh, we'll balance the budget of the State," he declared, pointing out that a provision of the State constitution required that a deficit one year must be made up the next.

"How will you do it?" he was asked.

"By economies and perhaps taxes, but we haven't got down to that yet," he answered. The "we" referred also to Mark Graves, the budget director.

Inheritance Taxes Help.

On last September 1 the deficit was estimated at $100,000,000, but since then increases in taxes, the governor said, had reduced the prospective deficit to less than $80,000,000. Increased returns from stock transfer, corporation and inheritance taxes have helped the situation.

Mr. Roosevelt will present a complete budget to his successor, Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, he said.

"Col. Lehman can take it, change it, or make a new one if he cares to," he added. Lehman will be inaugurated on January 1 and the budget does not go to the Legislature until the end of the month.

of $84,739.10, an average gift of $1,072.65 per person, or $2.94 per day. The total gift to date of this unit, 265 for a total of $366,411.79, shows a somewhat higher average gift to date of $1,382.69 per person for an average of $3.79 per day.

The governmental unit yesterday reported 3,652 gifts for a total of $37,267.68, an average gift of $10.20 per person, or 2.7 cents per day. On the total to date, this unit showed 4,863 gifts, totaling $55,519.27, an average gift per person of $11.42, or 3.1 cents per day.

1,526 Give $34,195.

In the metropolitan unit yesterday's 1,526 gifts for $34,195.86 showed an average gift of $22.41 per person, or 6.1 cents per day. This compares with this unit's total to date of 3,530 gifts amounting to $85,368.27, an average gift per person of $24.18, or 6.6 cents per day.

The Group Solicitation Unit yesterday reported 3,149 gifts, amounting to $33,941.93, an average per person of $9.83 or 2.6 cents er day. This unit's total to date is 6,351 gifts, amounting to $69,754.47, an average gift per person of $10.98 or 3 cents per day.

Edward F. Colladay, twice campaign chairman for the Community Chest, was principal speaker at yesterday's report meeting.

"Washington has never needed your service more than it needs you today," Mr. Colladay said. "You have never had and never will have a better leader than Newbold Noyes. I have never seen a better attended Community Chest report meeting, and I infer that the spirit of this campaign is at the highest possible pitch. You are going to cover your territory to the fullest extent, and I believe that the final result will spell success for your efforts."

Frohman Makes Talk.

Daniel Frohman, dean of American theatrical producers, also was present and made a short talk.

Following the invocation by Rabbi T. J. Loeb, Adas Israel Congregation; selection by the Bernheim trio and bell ringing by C. W. Stetson, of the Community Chest, of Newark, N. J., Chairman Noyes announced the awarding of honor banners, as follows:

Clarence A. Aspinwall, chairman of the special gifts team, with the highest percentage of dollar quota; J. R. McAndrews, chairman of Team 143, Area I, Metropolitan Unit, for the honor team of that unit; Maj. Charles Demonet, chairman of Division 3, Area I, Metropolitan Unit, for the honor division; George Vass, chairman of Area V, Group Solicitation Unit, for the highest percentage of 100 per cent firms; W. B. Robinson, chairman of the United States Railway Administration Department of the Governmental Unit, for 100 per cent contributions of a department of less than 50 employes; Jess Watts, chairman of the Department of Labor, for the highest percentage of a department with between 100 and 1,000 employes, and F. C. Gardner, chairman of the Public Buildings and Public Parks Department, for the highest percentage of contributions in a department of more than 1,000 persons.

Guests Introduced.

Chairman Noyes then introduced the guests of honor, Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes and Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone, together with Mrs. Owen J. Roberts, hostess from the Information Unit, and James A. Councilor, who served as chairman of the auditing unit for the past two campaigns.

The Group Solicitation Unit yesterday reported nine firms, 100 per cent of whose employes have given to the Community Chest, as follows:

Acacia Life Insurance Association, Bank of Commerce and Savings, Y. E. Bobker & Co., Boss & Phelps, Goodbody & Co., Instructive Visiting Nurse Society, Northeast Savings Bank, Perpetual Building Association and D. J. Kaufman, Inc.

Among business establishments, 100 per cent of whose employes gave to the Community Chest, were reported yesterday by the Metropolitan Unit as follows:

Washington Board of Trade, Wharton's Barber Shop and the Doyle Printing Service.

Many interesting experiences are related by the solicitors, including unusual instances of sacrifice in giving.

Increases His Amount.

A letter from a master sergeant in the Field Artillery is of unusual interest. It says:

"Last night I listened in on your radio appeal for the Washington Community Chest. Your description of the squalor and misery that we have with us made me ashamed of myself. In past years, I have grudgingly kicked loose with $5 to the Chest, but after listening to your appeal, I see no reason why I can not come clean with a dime a day, which means I have just filled out my card for $36.50, and for no other reason than your forceful presentation of facts last night."

Edgar Poore, 5 years old, voluntarily gave $1 to the Chest. This money came from pennies and coins given him while he was in the hospital for an appendicitis operation. He has only recently returned from the hospital to Neighborhood House, where he is now convalescing.

At the U. S. Navy Yard there has been issued a bulletin which says:

"A nickel a day for each day you work is only 25 cents a week. Twenty-five cents a week is $13 a year. Four thousand times $13 equals $52,000. A nickel a day is one loaf of bread. A nickel a day!"

The bulletin is signed by Rear Admiral H. V. Butler, commandant of the navy yard.

List of Contributors.

Among the gifts of $100 and above reported yesterday were:

POLLARD TO ALLOW MARCHERS PASSAGE

Peaceful Moves on Capital Not to Be Molested, But Help Is Denied.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Gov. Pollard today said that "hunger marchers" en route to Washington, who "peacefully pass through Virginia will be protected in the exercise of their rights but they will not be permitted to invade the rights of citizens of this State or impose on us burdens that belong to others."

This announcement was made to the national committee of unemployed councils, Washington, who in a telegram from New York today asked "that these representatives of toiling population be afforded safe conduct and all facilities, such as food and shelter while on a mission of concern to millions of workers and poor farmers."

"Virginia will continue to do her best to care for her own, but I consider presumptuous your demand for food and shelter for those who may be leaving other States to come in great numbers to Virginia thus seeking to place on her those burdens that belong to other Commonwealths," the governor's reply said.

Meanwhile word of gatherings of the "hunger marchers" to march on Congress at its opening in December came to the Capital.

From Roanoke today came the announcement by George W. P. Piché, camp organizer, that December will mark the beginning of a bonus march on the Nation's Capital that will dwarf into insignificance the march that ended in destruction of camps scattered in and around Washington.

Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, chairman of the Board of District Commissioners, yesterday afternoon flatly denied that Corporation Counsel William W. Bride had been instructed to solicit the aid of the Department of Justice in preventing the marching of various disgruntled groups on Washington this winter.

A similar denial was made by Mr. Bride, but he admitted that he was working on several angles of the affair and expected to make an announcement through the Commissioners in the next few days. He would not say whether he had conferred with the Attorney General or his aids.

Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police, discussed the problems the approach of the hunger marchers and disgruntled farmers present with Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, police Commissioner, yesterday morning, but neither had anything to say regarding the conference.

Letters were received from the governors of Delaware and Massachusetts and from the chairman of the Chicago city council committee on employment in answer to the Commissioners' request for cooperation in discouraging marches on the Capital.

Gov. C. Douglas Buck of Delaware tersely informed the Commissioners that they need "expect none of Delaware's unemployed to march on the Capital." The other two executives promised cooperation.

Patriotic Society Will War on Reds

S. A. R.'s Next Assembly to Fix Line of Attack on Communism.

Aroused over the spread of Communism throughout the United States, the District of Columbia Society of the Sons of the American Revolution decided at a meeting last night at the Mayflower Hotel to devote their December meeting to a discussion and study of "the red menace."

A committee appointed by S. S. Williamson, president of the society, to investigate communistic activities, declared that the machinations of radicals demand action by patriotic groups. Attention was called to the fact that Washington is a magnet for "the reds" and that the Communists endeavor to slip into the city under the shield of marchers and other delegations.

William A. Miller, chief clerk of the copyright office, Library of Congress, addressed the Society on his personal experiences in the early days of the "Wild West." Mr. Miller also presented to the society a framed photograph of the marching unit of the society which took part in the Flag Day parade. Business of the meeting was interspersed with a musical program.

Bonus Army Chieftains Plain Conference Here

Boston, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—John P. Fahey, of Watertown, a leader of the New England delegation in the bonus army at Washington last spring, said tonight he and Samuel Sullivan, of Boston, would attend a conference of "bonus leaders" in Washington when Congress reopens.

At this conference, Fahey said, the question of organizing another march upon Washington would be decided. "Thousands are demanding such a march," Fahey said.

Two Die in Cabin Fire.

Danbury, Wis., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Dr. St. Clair Darden, 40, head of the Health Win Hospital at South Bend, Ind., and Frank Fritzer, 52, manager of the furniture department of a South Bend store, were burned to death in a fire which broke out in their cabin while they were asleep last night.

Stuart Peabody Heads National Advertisers

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Stuart Peabody, of New York, an executive of the Borden company, was elected president of the Association of National Advertisers at their twenty-third annual convention today. Mr. Peabody succeeds Lee H. Bristol, also of New York, who automatically becomes chairman of the executive board.

Other officers elected include Allyn B. McIntyre, of Boston, vice president of the Pepperell Manufacturing Co., of Boston; Bennett Chapple, of the American Tolling Mill Co., Middletown, Ohio, and Felix Lowy, of Chicago, of the Colgate-Palm Olive-Peet Co., all vice presidents, and Paul B. West, of New York, managing director and secretary-treasurer.

Income Tax Is No Joke To Minnesota Farmers

Madison, Wis., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Four Minnesota farmers who received sample Wisconsin income tax blanks as part of a campaign to defeat income tax referendum in their State took the matter seriously. Each filled out his blank and mailed it to the Wisconsin Tax Commission.

One of them had scrupulously corrected an error by scratching out a report of 16 geese sold and making it read 17 geese sold.

NONPARTISAN STEP IS URGED BY CHAPIN

Cooperation in Congress to Rout Slump Is Asked; Upturn Continues.

(Associated Press.)

Noting further improvement in business, Secretary Chapin, of the Commerce Department, yesterday called on Democrats and Republicans in Congress to unite in hauling the Nation out of its economic slump.

A strong spirit of cooperation by members of both parties, Chapin said, would have a helpful influence in bringing the best results from emergency measures now in operation.

"During the next few months, if a harmony program can prevail," he observed, "much can be done to keep us rising out of the slump which was so serious last summer and from which we have been slowly emerging.

"Let us hope that every opportunity will be grasped to present a united front for a lasting business improvement."

He added that the attitude of President Hoover in offering cooperation to Gov. Roosevelt, his successor-elect, and their forthcoming conference, "holds great possibility for the state of business this coming winter."

He said President Hoover had demonstrated that he had but one object in view—the use of his office to promote the happiness and well-being of the people, and that his attitude since election day had been one of "nonpartisan statesmanship."

For the week ending November 12 commodity prices advanced in 26 instances, while the week previous there were only 15 advances and 9 declines, Chapin said. He also noted October gains were in the aggregate in excess of normal seasonal improvement, and that for the third consecutive month there had been an increase in employment.

Paraguayans Lose Heavily, Is Report

Bolivia Claims Attack at Ft. Saavedra Repulsed; Battles Continue.

La Paz, Bolivia, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—The army general staff announced today that an attack on the right wing of the Bolivian salient at Fort Saavedra yesterday by Paraguayan troops was repulsed with heavy losses.

The Paraguayans were reported to have charged with bayonets. Fighting in other sectors in the disputed Gran Chaco territory was reported continuing uneventfully.

Fort Saavedra is about 60 miles north of Pilcomayo River. Paraguayans have claimed advances to the westward both north and south of the fort, indicating the Bolivians were holding a wedge there.

dicted tonight that the crisis may develop at that time.

The usually well-informed Vossische Zeitung said tonight that Von Papen is expected to submit his personal resignation when he meets with Von Hindenburg at 5 p. m. tomorrow.

Members of the Centrist and the Bavarian Folks party today refused to cooperate with the chancellor in reconstruction of his cabinet. They told Von Papen that they are willing to join in a national concentration government, "but not under the present leadership."

Since the Socialists advanced a similar refusal yesterday, and the Hitlerites have not yet answered Von Papen's invitation to cooperate, the situation had become unusually tense.

The chancellor canceled his scheduled departure tonight for south Germany, where he was to discuss the political situation with government leaders of Baden, Wuerttemberg and Westphalia.

"I consider it more important," he explained, "to remain in Berlin in view of the result of today's conversations."

Adolf Hitler arrived in Berlin this evening. There was little chance that he would confer with Von Papen.

EXPERT COMMITTEE TO STUDY FARM AID

U. S. Chamber of Commerce Starts Inquiry Into Relief Measures.

(Associated Press.)

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States yesterday said "a searching inquiry into the whole agricultural situation to determine what practical measures, legislative or otherwise, can be taken to rehabilitate the agricultural industry will be initiated at once by a special committee."

The first meeting will be held at Chicago next Monday. The committee chairman will be Gen. Robert E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co.

Other members were announced as follows:

Burton F. Peek, vice president, Deere & Co., Moline, Ill.; F. A. Theis, vice president, Simonds-Shields-Lonsdale Grain Co., Kansas City, Mo.; M. L. Wilson, head, Department of Agricultural Economics, Montana State College, Bozeman, Mont.; R. R. Rogers, assistant secretary, Prudential Life Insurance Co. of America, Newark, N. J.; H. A. Wallace, editor, Wallace's Farmer, Des Moines, Iowa; Earl C. Smith, president, Illinois Agricultural Association, Chicago.

Notables on Board.

Lyman Wakefield, president, First National Bank, Minneapolis, Minn.; Harper Sibley, managing director, Sibley Farms, Rochester, N. Y.; H. R. Safford, vice president, Missouri-Pacific Railroad, Houston, Tex.; Cornelius R. Berrien, vice president, Central-Hanover Bank & Trust Co., New York City; Wendell Endicott, Boston, Mass.

A. H. Stone, president, Long Staple Cotton Association, Dunleith, Miss.; A. C. Hardison, vice president and manager, Hardison Ranch Co., Santa Paula, Calif.; N. P. Hull, president, Grange Life Insurance Co., Lansing, Mich.; Sydney Anderson, vice president, General Mills, Inc., Minneapolis, Minn.; John A. Law, president, Saxon Mills, Spartanburg, S. C.

In announcing plans for the study, Henry I. Harriman, president of the national chamber, said the committee had been given a broad charter under the following resolution of the board of directors:

"The agricultural situation always has been a subject for consideration and action by this chamber. It seems now especially timely that there should be a study of the present agricultural situation, and any measures, legislative or otherwise, which might be taken for its improvement in the national interest. The president of the chamber is accordingly authorized to appoint a special committee to make such a study and to submit its report, with recommendations, at the earliest practical moment."

All Dependent on Farms.

"The plight of the farmer," Mr. Harriman continued, "can not be overestimated. Agricultural commodities have declined to such a low level that thousands of farmers on fertile farm lands are receiving an income insufficient to cover their taxes and interest, not to mention a return on their investments or adequate compensation for their labor. * * *

"Fortunately, the disaster which has overtaken agriculture has brought home to all of us the plain truth, that the welfare of our urban population is inextricably tied up with the welfare of agriculture. In fact, there is scarcely a person gainfully employed who is not directly or indirectly affected by conditions on the farm. Consequently, the farm situation is not the exclusive concern of the farmer himself. It is a major item in any plan looking to the economic rehabilitation of the country.

"Consequently, the national chamber has invited seventeen distinguished men, who are familiar with the problems of the farmer, to make a careful study of all phases of the agricultural situation, with a view to finding out what steps can be taken to rehabilitate this vital industry."

Capital Man Heads Drive For Cut in Radio Royalty

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Revision of the contract governing payment of royalties to composers and song writers was demanded by members of the National Association of Radio Broadcasters in a resolution adopted today at the final session of their convention here.

Plans were made to continue the fight with the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers over the royalty rates. Oswald F. Schuette, of Washington, D. C., was appointed to direct a united movement on behalf of the broadcasters for revision and reduction of the rates provided under the contract now in effect.

Telegraphic Dispatches

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Skies literally blackened with ducks flying ahead of the cold wave made a hunter's paradise of the marshes and rice fields of Arkansas today.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Gun-toting by the law-abiding is urged by Col. Calvin Goddard, director of the scientific crime detection laboratory of Northwestern University, as a crime deterrent. "Our laws against permitting self-respecting adults to carry guns are one reason for our terrific crime wave," he told the International Association for Identification in convention here yesterday.

Ormond, Fla., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—John D. Rockefeller, who arrived here last week for his customary winter stay in Florida, donned white clothes and a sun helmet yesterday and took a walk waving cordially to those who spoke to him. He has not yet played golf, his favorite sport, here.

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Prohibition agents couldn't identify voices they heard by tapping a telephone wire, so Federal Judge Mortineau today dismissed indictments charging Dr. Dewell Gann, Little Rock physician, and six others, with a liquor conspiracy. The jurist ruled evidence secured from tapped wires was insufficient unless those listening knew the voices beyond doubt.

Chicago, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Dr. Koliang Yih, Chinese Consul General here, has been appointed to the same post at New York. He will be succeeded here by Dr. K. S. Weigh, of the Chinese Legation at Washington, Vice Consul T. L. Quang, at Chicago, has been assigned to the same post at Galveston, Tex.

Nye Goes to Train By Wheel Chair

North Dakotan Expected to Enter Hospital When He Reaches Capital.

Chicago, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Carried to his Pullman drawing room on a wheel chair, Senator Gerald P. Nye (Republican), North Dakota, continued his journey to Washington today after a night trip from St. Paul.

Senator Nye is recovering from injuries received November 12, when his motor car was wrecked near Hudson, Wis. Although the senator's injuries were reported to be mare painful than serious, he denied himself to interviewers here.

A Chicago doctor visited the senator and it was indicated he would enter a hospital when he reached Washington. He was accompanied by Mrs. Nye.

HOOVER, BACK, STARTS WORK ON NEW WAR DEBTS PROBLEM

however, has not prevented him from taking a definite stand in the past against revision of the debts.

Confers With Other Leaders.

The Secretary of the Treasury, Ogden L. Mills, remained with the President for some time also. It is believed the conference between the President and Mr. Mills was centered chiefly around the forthcoming visit of President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt and the trend those conversations may take.

There still remains the possibility that a broader consultation between the President and the leading members of Congress may be convoked in advance of the visit of Gov. Roosevelt. It was recalled that such was the tenor of the Roosevelt reply to President Hoover's White House invitation dispatched from the presidential train en route to Washington.

The first meeting between the President and his Secretary of State was over the luncheon table, where Col. Stimson brought the first-hand report of the recent debt moves that have brought Great Britain, France and Belgium to ask for postponement of their $124,000,000 debt payments, due 30 days from today. No reply has as yet been transmitted to the foreign notes and as they call for a formal acknowledgment, it is believed that such a reply constituted one of the subjects of the luncheon.

Italian Move Denied.

The Italian government alone of the great powers has not yet taken any action toward postponing the payment of her installment, which amounts to a little more than $1,000,000. While this is not a great amount, and could easily be met by the Italian treasury, Mussolini may be hesitating to take such an individualistic attitude on account of the necessity of maintaining concerted action with the other European debtor nations.

On the other hand, it was recalled here that Italian public enthusiasm was so great on the completion of the Mellon-Volpi debt arrangements that a public subscription was opened for the payment of the first installment on the Italian debt to the United States and the necessary funds donated by every Italian for it. Mussolini may be preparing another gesture of Italian sympathy for the United States by depositing with the Treasury Department the necessary funds on the due date. Reports from Rome that an Italian note similar to the British, French and Belgian memoranda was in preparation met an official denial. This fact also adds credence to the possibility of an Italian payment.

Secretary Stimson declined to comment on his conversation with the President, and on returning to his office smilingly waved questioners aside.

Laval Defends Hoover For War Debt Action

Paris, Nov. 16 (U.P.).—Former Premier Pierre Laval today defended President Herbert Hoover against the accusation that he is responsible for the war debt impasse by virtue of his moratorium.

Laval, writing on the front page of his newspaper, Le Moniteur, at Clermont Ferrand, said:

"Influential provinces, particularly Auvergne, are calling attention that Mr. Hoover never urged France to abandon her claims on German reparations."

The former premier, in contradiction, reprints a paragraph from the Washington communique published after he spent a night in conference with President Hoover at the White House. In this paragraph it is stressed that Hoover and Laval agreed on the necessity "for an arrangement covering the period of the economic depression, the initiative to be taken by the principal European powers interested within the fra work of the Young plan before July 1, 1931."

Laval points out that the Lausanne conference went beyond the Hoover-Laval memorandum and scrapped the Young plan.

Viscount Quotes Roosevelt As Praising League's Work

Rome, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—In response to an inquiry made shortly before the American elections by the International Diplomatic Academy, President-elect Roosevelt was quoted today as saying, "We Democrats do not believe it possible and do not desire an isolated national existence" for the United States.

Mr. Roosevelt was further quoted as describing the League of Nations as the "greatest existing organization for the conservation of peace and the solution of problems formerly unknown to civilization," in the statement, which was read to 200 European statesmen, scientists and intellectuals at the Volto Institute convention by Viscount Louis de Fontenay, former French Ambassador to Italy and president of the International Diplomatic Academy.

"We are highly jealous of our sovereignty and consequently are equally respectful of such sentiments in other nations," the President-elect's statement said, as read by the viscount. But Mr. Roosevelt declared America should cooperate with Europe and the League of Nations, the viscount added.

"Without entering European politics, America should take an active and serious official part in all procedures undertaken in the interest of humanity and general welfare," Mr. Roosevelt was quoted as saying.

A statement was attributed to him expressing the opinion that a national development of the United States that would be "deaf" to the welfare of other peoples of the world, would be undesirable.

TRUMBULL FORMS GROUP IN AIR ROW

Aviation Control Contest Is Marked Also by Green's Attack on Cord.

New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—A new element entered the contest over control of the Aviation Corporation of Delaware tonight with the announcement of an independent committee of stockholders, "nonpartisan in the controversy" between the corporation management and E. L. Cord.

Announcement of the new committee, headed by former Gov. John H. Trumbull of Connecticut, came at the close of a day marked by fresh charges and countercharges between the two interests battling for proxies and by a statement, quoting William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, that there could be "no cooperation between labor, Mr. Cord, and any company which he dominates."

The announcement of the Trumbull committee said all stockholders would be solicited for proxies and that a letter to be written them would state that the members of the committee believe, with their background of experience in the aviation field and their ability to determine with reasonable certainty the merits of the controversy referred to, that they will exercise the powers of the proxies given them in the best interests of the stockholders.

The statement added that stockholders who had already given proxies to one side or the other might revoke them by the mere act of giving a later-dated proxy to the new committee.

Mr. Trumbull was one of the organizers of the Colonial Airways System, which was later taken over by the Aviation Corporation. He is a licensed pilot and as Governor of Connecticut he made frequent flying inspections of the State.

Cord, by telegraph and telephone from California, and his associate and partner, L. B. Manning, in New York, laid down a barrage of accusations against the Aviation Corporation management and President Cohu in particular, while the Cohu forces were equally vociferous in a battery of old, and some new, denunciations of the Cord motives in seeking control.

Green, in his letter to Cohu, charged Cord has shown a most antagonistic attitude toward labor, particularly organized labor.

FRANCE, GERMANY AND BRITAIN FORM POOL TO SPEED RECOVERY

tion was purely an economic arrangement. Premier Edouard Herriot will be its titular head in France and Chancellor Franz von Papen in Germany.

A report on the work of the Franco-German commission which negotiated the consortium was made by M. Patenotre at today's cabinet meeting. At the same session, which lasted almost four hours, Premier Herriot informed the members of the latest developments in foreign affairs. The question was not mentioned in an official communique issued subsequently, but it was assumed that the debt situation was discussed. The government position is that the next developments so far as the efforts to obtain an adjustment of war debts is concerned must come from Washington.

Plan Hailed in Berlin.

Berlin, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Plans for an economic consortium, involving France, Germany and Great Britain, were viewed favorably today by the government and by the press.

When negotiations over the consortium were concluded here last week it was explained that the purpose was to cooperate in construction work, notably in the building of public utilities, and to cooperate also in the financing of this work.

The newspaper Tageblatt hailed the scheme as a practical way of effecting Franco-German cooperation. A government spokesman said that here was something tangible toward that end, but he pointed out it still was too early to determine how such huge enterprises would be financed, asserting that the governments concerned obviously would have to give either joint or individual guarantees to assist in the financing. Four financial experts are working on this problem now and further progress will depend on their report.

The two big German building concerns of Julius Berger and Philip Holzmann are named as chief participants in the scheme.

Small Firms May Join.

According to the Tageblatt, if state guarantees are forthcoming it will be possible for smaller firms to join the consortium, which is expected to start its operations by financing moderately modest projects through French and British banks, with bigger undertakings to follow.

Former Finance Minister Andreas Hermes, who served as the German delegate in the negotiations, is enthusiastic about the scheme.

A consortium generally refers to a union of incorporated companies. In international affairs its usage mainly has been in reference to the joint economic activities of nations to aid other countries whose development would benefit those giving help.

Previous Consortiums.

A four-power consortium was formed by British, French, German and American banking interests in 1911 to participate in a reorganization and currency loan for China. Russia and Japan asked that their banks be allowed to cooperate in future general loans to China, and in 1912 a six-power consortium was formed.

In 1913, when Woodrow Wilson became President, American banks withdrew from this consortium after he expressed disapproval of terms and responsibilities involved.

In 1918-1921 the United States took the lead in establishing a new international banking consortium to control future foreign public loans to China. Great Britain, France and Japan entered in this agreement. Its purpose was to provide capital for constructive works in China.

CAPONE FACES COURT AGAIN IN MOVE TO GAIN FREEDOM

serve the ten-year sentence meted out there.

Last September his petition for a writ of habeas corpus was entered in the Atlanta Federal court in a surprise move. Hearing was postponed once because of a congested docket, but today Judge Underwood called the case promptly on the stroke of 10 a. m.

Assistant District Attorney Lindsey moved immediately for dismissal of the petition, and Youngquist said the petition "practically pleads itself out of court."

The Assistant United States Attorney General denied the contention of Capone's attorneys that there was any similarity between the Capone case and that of William Randolph Scharton, a Boston lawyer, whom the United States Supreme Court freed of income tax charges under the statute of limitations.

Youngquist said that in the Scharton case a "plea at bar" was made immediately on conviction, which, he declared, was the proper procedure.

"This was not done in the Capone case," he said. "The only move made by Capone's lawyers immediately after his conviction was a motion to dismiss on the grounds that the statute had run. Capone's attorneys called this a plea at bar, but it is not."

Leahy, of Capone's counsel, took the opposite view in arguing for granting the writ. He cited many cases involving the statute of limitations, going back in one instance to a case heard by the Supreme Court in 1870.

Leahy argued also that while the last offense listed in Capone's indictment took place on March 15, 1928, he was not indicted until June 5, 1931, more than the three-year period covered by the statute of limitations.

In taking the Government's motion to dismiss the petition under advicement, Judge Underwood gave opposing attorneys a week in which to file briefs.

Guarded From Curious.

In an effort to avoid curious crowds, Federal officials brought the big gangster in from the penitentiary shortly after 8 o'clock, and kept him closely guarded in a witness room near the courtroom until Judge Underwood convened court.

Spectators were kept out of the corridors until after Capone had been seated in the courtroom.

Capone, serious, and apparently intensely interested in the proceedings, leaned forward in his chair, his hands clasped in his lap. His attorneys, except for a handshake when he entered the courtroom, paid little attention to him. Directly behind him sat Warden A. C. Aderholt, who brought him into town from the penitentiary.

Second Trip Outside Prison.

When the hearing was ended, Capone was hustled again to the witness room, where he was kept waiting until the spectators had been cleared from the building. Then his handcuffs were again attached to his wrists and he was hustled to the penitentiary car for the return ride to his cell.

Capone hung his gray felt hat over his hands in an effort to hide his manacles from the curious crowds that pressed about his automobile as he was started back.

It was his second trip outside the big walls since he began his sentence last May. Today, as on last September 18 when his petition was entered in court, Capone wore a somewhat wrinkled blue suit, gray-checked tie and gray hat.

12,000 GUARD WALES ON VISIT TO BELFAST

Railroad Tracks Ripped Up and Signs Attacking Prince Are Shown.

Belfast, Northern Ireland, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Railroad tracks were ripped up today in an effort to prevent sightseers from coming to Belfast to see the Prince of Wales, who, guarded by 12,000 men, took part in a 5-mile parade to Stormont, where he dedicated the new Northern Ireland Parliament buildings.

Long sections of the railroad between Kells, County Meath, in the Free State, and Belfast, were torn up, and other parts of the road were mined. Rails also were ripped up in the vicinity of Cavan, also in the Free State.

At each end of the breaks in the tracks were placed notices reading, "Ireland belongs to the Irish, both north and south," and on the station at Kells there was a poster, "Warning. Line ripped up and mined in several places. The train must not proceed or it will be fired on."

Here and there along the damaged section of the railroad from Kells to Belfast there were signs reading, "Down with the Prince of Wales."

All telegraph wires on the Kells to Belfast route were cut. Red flags were placed at points where the rails were broken. Railroad officials discovered what had happened before a crowded Kells excursion train came to any harm.

Belfast received the prince with great enthusiasm, but thousands of police remained watchful tonight to stop any hostile demonstration.

Ulster Nationalists refused to have anything to do with the ceremonies connected with the prince's first visit to Belfast. They protested that in coming here he emphasized the breach between the counties which make up northern Ireland and the Independent Free State to the south. These protests, along with the recent sanguinary unemployment riots in Belfast, caused the authorities to take extraordinary precautions that the prince might come to no harm.

Nine bombing planes were aloft this morning as his ship entered Belfast Lough, and on the tops of the twenty-mile range of hills there were great bonfires. Dockside workmen waved flags and cheered and sirens screamed as the ship pulled in. A 21-gun salute came from two warships anchored in the harbor.

The prince, wearing the uniform of a colonel of the Irish Guards, was welcomed by the Duke of Abercorn, governor of Ulster; Viscount Carigavon, the prime minister, and Sir R. Dawson Bates, secretary for home affairs. Then he stepped ashore amid wild cheering.

Of the 12,000 men guarding him 4,000 were armed soldiers and police and 8,000 were volunteer Orangemen. The Ulster constables, revolvers strapped to their hips, and the soldiers, their bayonets fixed, formed walls of defense as the prince rode the 5 miles to Stormont. Armored cars rolled along at intervals in the parade, and extra police were held in reserve at strategic centers.

The prince recalled the heroic part played by Ulster in the World War when he made his speech of dedication.

"It is my father's earnest prayer," he said, "that you will meet all of those difficulties which confront the world as well as your own special problems with the courage, tenacity, loyalty and devotion which has always characterized the men of northern Ireland and made them famous in the annals of the empire."

Brief Illness Fatal To Mrs. Johnston

Brown Decides Against Abolishing Santa Claus

(Associated Press.)

Children and others can continue to get Christmas mail postmarked "Santa Claus."

Postmaster General Brown decided yesterday against proposals to abolish the postoffice of that name in Indiana.

For years the little postoffice has been deluged with mail at Christmas time from parents and others who wished to give the appearance of having the gifts come from St. Nicholas direct.

This has caused extra labor in the Postoffice Department, and last year, after it had set up equipment to handle the rush, there was a sharp decrease in the mail handled. This brought suggestions that the postoffice's name be changed, but Mr. Brown has said "No!"

THUGS ROB COUPLE OF $9,000 IN GEMS

Social Leaders Tied, Gagged and Threatened With Match Torture.

Philadelphia, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Two masked men today invaded Half-Way-Up, the suburban Chestnut Hill home of Mr. and Mrs. George Harrison Frazier, jr., bound and gagged the socially prominent couple and a maid and escaped with jewelry valued at $9,000.

The robbers were in the house for more than two hours, during which time they chatted affably but switched suddenly to terrorist tactics by threatening to torture the couple.

The intruders told the Fraziers, who, at first, refused to reveal where cash and their jewelry might be found, that they would kidnap their two sleeping children.

As the robbers apparently prepared to apply a lighted candle to the husband's bare feet, Mrs. Frazier told them where the gems might be found. Except for the jewelry, which is insured, the men obtained only $27, a pistol, two hats and an overcoat belonging to Frazier, a prominent figure among the city's younger clubmen.

Mrs. Frazier said that the robbers drank several bottles of near beer, discussed politics, and "seemed quite comic before they got rough."

"I became afraid," she said, "only when the men threatened to kidnap my babies, and when they lighted the candle to apply to my husband's bare feet."

It was Mrs. Frazier who released herself and the others when the robbers were gone. She managed to pull an ash tray containing matches toward her, struck several matches, and burned the ropes that tied her wrist. Then she untied the others.

The robbers were in the house when Frazier returned from his club. After cowing him at gunpoint, they tied him to a divan. Mrs. Frazier came downstairs to see what was wrong, and her capture followed. The maid later was dragged out of bed and tied up.

New York Holds Man Wanted by Annapolis

New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Dominick Florentino, 24, was locked up today on a charge of being a fugitive from justice in Annapolis, Md.

Detectives said his fingerprints showed he was sought by Sheriff Glen R. Prout in connection with a homicide at Annapolis. Florentino, arrested by detectives who became suspicious at his loitering in a bus terminal, denied implication in any crime at Annapolis. He said later, however, that a friend, Charles Valentine, had been shot and killed while with him there.

NEW RUSSIAN PLAN MAY END SUFFERING

persons trading bread in the private markets for farm produce.

One factor which many critics of the present state of affairs overlook is that the majority of the workers in large industries and plants now receive at least what would be called here one square meal daily in regularly established kitchens attached to their factories.

Virtually every factory, office and institution of any size has its own arrangement for feeding its employes. This system is spreading under the government's policy of gradually abolishing the home as the unit of family life.

It is estimated that 15,000,000 persons, almost one-tenth of the population, will be receiving their meals by the end of 1932 by what is known here as the "mass feeding" route.

Since the so-called factory kitchens, which not only serve meals on the spot, but also prepare them to be taken home by the workers, get the first call on most food products, the manual worker on the whole is better off than he might be if he had to depend altogether on the cooperative stores.

Those employed in small enterprises and in the lesser public offices, who have not yet been accorded mass feeding facilities, and the non-workers and disfranchised—who find it hard going under the best of conditions—bear the brunt of the present food shortage.

In conformity with the Soviet policy of paying particular attention to the welfare of the younger generation, children enjoy privileged status in the matter of food rations.

Hand in hand with the shortage has been a gradual but increasingly sharp decline in the purchasing power of the ruble, which works an additional hardship on a large part of the people. The paper ruble today is valued at about 25 to 1 gold ruble in terms of buying value.

With the steady flow of currency toward the villages, and with little returning because of the shortage of manufactured articles to balance the flow, the monetary circulation has been destroyed. The effects are felt by the people in constantly rising prices. Financial stringency is forcing the government to issue additional currency and has aroused rumors of an imminent money reform.

Although these measures are considered not improbable as a temporary expedient, close students of Soviet economics say the problem is one of industry rather than of finance—that as soon as an adequate flow of manufactured goods can be started to the villages, the money situation will right itself and the public will regain its stability.

MIDWEST AND SOUTH BLANKETED BY SNOW

East Warned to Prepare for Sensational Drop in Temperature.

(Associated Press.)

Winter weather blustered eastward last night and swept large portions of the South and Middle West with a train of white.

Both the landscape and weather records were snowed under. From Idaho to the Ohio Valley, from North Dakota to Texas, the Nation was a huge snow field and skating rink. Thermometers tobogganed to new November lows.

Traffic crept along over highways glazed with ice and in some places was virtually at a standstill. Several deaths were attributed directly to hazardous driving conditions.

In the South thermometers generally dipped into the 30's. At Shreveport the temperature was 24 degrees, the lowest for that date since 1907. The cold wave swept through Texas and Oklahoma and into Arkansas, bringing with it snow and driving sleet. At Houston the mercury registered 28, the coldest November day since 1916.

East Warned to Prepare.

In Kansas, where Chanute reported 1 degree above zero Tuesday night, forecasts predicted warmer weather for today. The West was assured of rising temperatures; the East warned to prepare itself for "snow and colder."

Ontario, Canada, dug itself out of the worst early season snowstorm in years. Communication was disrupted, traffic accidents frequent and two persons the objects of searches. It was 15 below zero at Horne Payne and Franz in the northern part of the province.

Several sections of Michigan were blanketed with a layer of snow that varied from 7 to 10 inches, blasting all Weather Bureau records. The white mantle covered the southeastern and south central portions of the State. In Detroit, the weight of snow crushed a church roof.

Buckeye State Buried.

Northwestern Ohio presented the appearance of an almost unbroken snowdrift. Many sections were snowbound, traffic paralyzed, and highway maintenance crews shoveling overtime. Toledo reported a fall of 9 inches, the heaviest on record. Lima went into temporary hibernation under a 12-inch blanket. In Merver County, the snow reached a height of 15 inches. Rising temperatures were forecast for today.

The western Great Lakes region saw the vagaries of the weather do queer things to the mercury. Chicago was a veritable oasis of warmth, in a region of snow and ice. A "nor'easter" blowing in from the lake reached some sort of meteorological compromise with the icy blasts from the Yukon, kept the mercury above the freezing point, while many points in Wisconsin and down-State Illinois shivered in near-zero temperatures.

Weather Man Predicts Much Colder Tonight

The topcoats of the men and light coats of the women will be placed in the closets tonight and fur coats and overcoats will be withdrawn from the moth balls, if the weather man's prediction is correct.

There will be sharp drop in temperatures late in the day and will last all night. Today the weather will be clearing, he says, and there will be moderate west and northwest winds.

Tomorrow it will be fair, and there will be a slowly rising temperature, according to the forecast.

Fist Fight Centers About Ruth Elder

Divorcee Defends Lawyer Who Got Black Eye in Reno Brawl.

Reno, Nev., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Ruth Elder, noted aviatrix, who obtained a divorce here yesterday from Walter Camp, jr., is scheduled to appear in police court tomorrow as the principal witness in an assault and battery case.

Kendrick Johnson, Reno attorney, who has been in Miss Elder's company lately, was arrested today on complaint of M. J. Holland, who said Johnson struck him when he tried to stop the attorney from beating Miss Elder at a "party" last night in an apartment house.

The aviatrix declared Johnson did not beat her and that she "ducked" when the fight between the two men started. Both Johnson and Holland are nursing black eyes. Miss Elder bears no visible marks.

Obsequies Held For R. S. Brookings

Founder of Institution and Philanthropist Will Be Buried in St. Louis.

Funeral services for Robert Somers Brookings, 82, noted philanthropist and founder of the Brookings Institution, who died Tuesday, were held yesterday at his home, 2700 Upton street northwest. Burial will be in St. Louis, where Mr. Brookings spent a great portion of his life.

Retiring from active business at the age of 46, Mr. Brookings served as president of Washington University at St. Louis for many years. During the war he was appointed by President Wilson as head of the price-fixing committee of the War Industries Board.

Mr. Brookings was a native of Maryland and received his formal education at West Nottingham Academy in that State. Later in life he received honorary degrees from Yale, Harvard, Washington University and the University of Missouri.

Capitalistic System Hit By British Economist

New York, Nov. 16 (U.P.).—The "excessive waste and intolerable injustice" of the present capitalistic system must be disciplined, and reformed through a temperin, of competition and institution of collective thought, Sir James Arthur Salter, British economist, told 500 educators assembled here today.

He assailed capitalism and the competitive system for "wasteful and destructive reactions." He called for world cooperation and coordination to end situations which, he declared, "rob us of nine-tenths of the fruits of our achievements in mastering nature and in organizing and industrial skill."

NEW RUM COMBINE HIKES LIQUOR PRICE

Syndicate Formed for Last Cleanup Before Dry Law Is Repealed.

(Copyright, 1932, by the United Press.)

New York, Nov. 16.—A huge liquor syndicate organized to make one grand, final cleanup before "the death of prohibition," was blamed tonight for an almost unprecedented boost of $10 and $15 a case on hard liquor sold to speakeasies.

This syndicate, according to one informant, has formed a tightly knit organization, which has obtained by various means what amounts to a monopoly of the Atlantic seaboard liquor business.

Its "board of directors" held its first official meeting, it was said, Monday, and its first move was to order the increase of $10 and $15 a case, which incidentally, was to be "only the starter" for the highly profitable holiday business.

The leading Eastern racketeers and bootleggers plan to cash in on what they expect to be the most prosperous holiday liquor trade since prohibition. They view this holiday as possibly their last chance to make a real killing before a change in the Volstead laws. They optimistically believe prohibition enforcement will grow more and more lax, due to the wet victory in the recent presidential election. So they marshaled their forces, collected a "slush fund" or operating pool figuring in the millions and placed the control of the industry in the hands of a few leaders.

Order Recent One.

The order for an increase in retail prices was given out yesterday. Speakeasy and restaurant proprietors seeking to replenish their supplies today found the price from $10 to $15 per case higher. They were told it would be "impossible" to get good liquor any cheaper anywhere.

As one greatly worried and harassed mid-town tavern owner said, "That means a boost in prices all along the line.

"When my present supply runs out," he said, "I'll have to jack up my price to 75 cents for plain drinks, and who knows what will happen to the fancy drinks that take fancy material?" He has been charging 50 cents a drink.

The combine, according to some of the distributors here who sensed its development when local rulers left for "conferences" in Canada a day or two after the election, was financed by collections from runners, distillers and ship captains alike, who feed the supply to the Atlantic Seaboard.

$2,000,000 War Fund.

They collected, according to one source, more than $2,000,000 from "pullers," the ship owners who run the liquor from Canada to the States.

Rival runners off the coast will have their troubles under the plan of the huge syndicate. A patrol has been established. Any who attempt to "cut in" on the profitable Christmas business will have to evade not only the Coast Guard patrol, but also the rival syndicate patrol.

The story was considered fantastic by many, but there was no disputing the fact that a few months ago the rumrunners held a "convention" in Halifax. Among the attendants was Vannie Higgins, New York racketeer, who generally evaded conviction on liquor-running charges with the claim that he was "just a Long Island lobster fisherman." Higgins was later slain.

Texas Oil Controversy Goes to Supreme Court

(Associated Press.)

The controversy between Gov. Sterling of Texas and the Federal courts, arising out of an order by the governor declaring martial law and restricting oil production in the east Texas fields, is now in the hands of the Supreme Court.

Counsel yesterday concluded oral arguments in two appeals brought by the governor and certain State militia officers from the decision of a three-judge Federal court, prohibiting them from enforcing orders issued by Gov. Sterling fixing the amount of oil to be produced in those fields.

body was taken to Prater's home to be prepared for burial. A party composed of Harold Quinn, Henry Holly and Ike Prater, who is a brother-in-law of Henry Holly, was arranged to watch the body during the night.

Between 12:30 and 1 o'clock officers said Holly and Shelton were killed and Prater's skull fractured.

How the quarrel at the Prater house originated is not known.

Late this afternoon Commonwealth's Attorney Lee said deputies had been ordered back to the scene when reports of ill-feeling were received here, as a precaution against additional trouble.

SCHOOL STAGE LOFT CITED AS FIRE RULE

Ballou Denies Urging Feature in New Reno Building; Elimination Asked.

The fire regulations require scenery lofts on the stages of local schools, Superintendent Frank W. Ballou explained to the Board of Education yesterday when the letter from Dr. Charles Moore, chairman of the Fine Arts Commission, recommending the elimination of the lofts in the new Reno School was read.

The letter, which was addressed to the District Commissioners, declared that the lofts are not necessary, that they are incompatible with good schoolhouse architecture, and that elimination would mean a saving of between $25,000 and $35,000 in the cost of the Reno School building.

After Dr. Ballou had stated that neither he nor the school ever advocated the lofts, he was instructed to confer with Dr. Reichelderfer, chairman of the Board of Commissioners, on their proposed elimination in the school.

Charges by the District Teachers' Union that teachers are coerced into subscribing to the Community Chest were emphatically denied by Dr. Ballou. He asked the board that the same system of soliciting teachers that was used last year be adopted in the current campaign. Under that system, there will be a key man in each school, with the superintendent's office functioning as general headquarters.

Concerning the attendance of District schools by nonresidents, Dr. Ballou said the question was still unsolved. He reiterated his prediction that ultimately admission of nonresident pupils in local schools will be discontinued, and he asked the board to establish a policy of denying admission to nonresident crippled children. The board, however, withheld action on the recommendation until after Dr. Ballou confers with the corporation counsel with a view to clarifying the methods of procedure for determining just who are nonresident pupils.

DR. FUTRALL HEADS LAND GRANT SOCIETY

Maryland U. President Says Group to Aid Farm Comeback.

The Association of Land Grant Colleges and Universities closed a three-day meeting at the Willard Hotel yesterday with election of officers and completion of plans for the coming year in helping to fight the inroads of the depression on agriculture.

Dr. R. A. Pearson, president of the University of Maryland, who is chairman of the executive committee of the association, declared that land grant colleges, founded in President Lincoln's administration to help the farming and other industrial classes in the reconstruction period following the Civil War, must now assume the responsibility for training the coming generation to take its place in another period of reconstruction.

The colleges, Dr. Pearson said, must devise effective weapons for farmers, engineers and home makers in their fight on the battle line of economic change.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: J. C. Futrall, president of the University of Arkansas, president; T. O. Walton, president of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas, vice president; Thomas P. Cooper, dean of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, secretary-treasurer, and Dr. Pearson, chairman of the executive committee.

SHANNON HITS U. S. COOPERATIVES AID

'Backing One Group Against Another' Attacked on Canners' Plea.

Chicago, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Representative Joseph B. Shannon, of Missouri, who obtained a $10,000 appropriation to investigate Government competition with private business, said today that "backing one group with Government funds against another won't work."

After listening to fruit canners who testified before his committee that Government loans to cooperatives had ruined their business, Shannon observed they "made as good a presentation of the illnesses brought about through the Federal Farm Board as did the grain men recently in Kansas City."

The chairman of the five-man group, referring to the canners' testimony yesterday of their attempt to compete with cooperatives financed by the Farm Board, described it as "a clear demonstration of Government interference with business agencies."

The independent canners said that Federal loans had enabled cooperatives to hold large surplus stocks into the second year after the fruit was picked, and that when the carryovers were sold their markets were ruined.

"It won't work, helping one against another," Shannon said.

His committee today heard proponents of inland waterways demand "the same consideration and fair treatment given water highways around the borders of the country."

COMDR. ALGER H. DRESEL, U. S. N.

The Navy Department yesterday ordered Commander Alger H. Dresel, U. S. N., commanding officer of the dirigible Akron, to duty at Akron, Ohio, in connection with the fitting out of the Navy's new airship Macon, which he will command when completed and ready for service. He will take over the new ship January 2. It is expected that the Macon will be ready for her trials about March 1, 1933.

Orders were also issued to Commander Frank C. McCord, U. S. N., a Washington officer, residing at 27 Quincy street, to relieve Commander Dresel upon the latter's detachment as commanding officer of the Akron.

Commander Dresel has been in command of the Akron since June 22, 1932. He was born in Annapolis 43 years ago.

FARM UNION BACKS BRYAN SILVER PLAN

Omaha Convention Program of Relief Embraces "16 to 1" Ratio.

Omaha, Nebr., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—The late William Jennings Bryan's campaign cry of "Sixteen to One" was revived by the National Farm Union's annual convention today as it adopted an eleven-point program designed for agricultural relief.

The convention passed a resolution urging remonetization of silver on the Bryan ratio, and indorsed the Wheeler bill, looking to such action by the Federal Government.

The convention also indorsed two other proposed Federal measures—the Frazier bill, calling upon the Government to refinance farm mortgages at radically reduced interest rates, and the Swank bill, which would license dealers in agricultural products and guarantee cost of production to farmers.

Higher income taxes, a moratorium on all private and public debts, reduction of Government costs as a means of balancing the budget and a recommendation that farmers give "careful consideration" to the Farmers Holiday Association were included in the proposed relief program.

The resolution dealing with farm strike activities contained no direct indorsement of the holiday group's program.

The union reelected all officers, naming John A. Simpson, Oklahoma, president for his third term. Appointment of Simpson as Secretary of Agriculture was urged upon President-elect Roosevelt by the legislative committee of the Minnesota Farmers Holiday Association in a letter sent tonight.

R. F. C. Aid Loans Voted Two States

Kentucky Gets $163,850 and Montana $6,125 for Relief.

(Associated Press.)

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation yesterday authorized relief loans of $6,125 to the Governor of Montana and $163,850 to Kentucky.

The Kentucky loan is for use in 26 unnamed counties during the remainder of 1932. Nineteen of these counties had not hitherto applied for supplementary relief, the corporation said. Kentucky previously had received $672,850 for use in 41 counties.

The Montana loan is to be used in Granite County from November 16 to December 31. The corporation announcement said the county has levied the legal limit for relief purposes and in addition has spent $67,000 on road work. The corporation previously had loaned $455,000 to Montana. Loans yesterday brought the total authorized under the emergency relief act to $89,215,043.

"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by John Charlton, after the famous painting depicting the heroic Charge of the Light Brigade in the face of a withering fire at the battle of Balaklava in the Crimean War (1854). "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

Copr., 1932, The American Tobacco Co.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

60 OWNERS OF CARS CITED IN TEST CASES

Alexandria Needlework Unit Gives 1,100 Articles to Charity.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Approximately 60 automobile owners of Alexandria, who had failed to have their cars inspected and adjusted in accordance with the new State law, were cited yesterday to appear in police court within five days to show cause why they should not be fined. The police say, however, that if the person cited appears and satisfies police he has complied with the law, the charge will be dropped.

The eight authorized inspection stations in Alexandria have worked until late, but have been unable to handle the business. It was stated yesterday that approximately 90 per cent of the cars in Alexandria have been inspected.

The annual meeting of the Alexandria branch of the Needlework Guild of America was held yesterday in Lee Camp Hall. Approximately 1,100 new articles were received and at the close of the meeting given to representatives of charitable organizations for distribution. Two memorial tables were arranged, for Mrs. James R. Caton, for many years first vice president of the local unit, and for Mrs. Percy Clift.

The officers chosen were Mrs. Effie L. Baggett, president; Mrs. Walter Rogers, first vice president; Mrs. Edna Davis, second vice president; Mrs. Harry B. Caton, secretary, and Mrs. William A. Moncure, treasurer. These with the following form the board of directors: Mrs. Marian Bellenger, Miss Constance Boush, Mrs. Donald Campbell, Mrs. Virgil C. Davis, Mrs. W. Milton Glasgow, Miss Coralie Greenaway, Mrs. Charles W. Howell, Mrs. Otis H. Hullings, Mrs. Irvin Diener, Mrs. Owen Lynch, Mrs. Clarence C. Parker, Mrs. Walter Pierpoint, Mrs. George W. Roop, Mrs. Rathbone Smith, and Mrs. Llewllyn Dyson.

Mrs. William M. Reardon was re-elected president of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church South yesterday at the regular meeting. Other officers are Mrs. Roland Goode, vice president; Mrs. Harry B. Caton, recording secretary; Mrs. George Shelhorn, corresponding secretary; Mrs. O. P. Angelo, treasurer, and local treasurer, Mrs. Irvin Brawner.

The following superintendents were selected: Mission study, Mrs. Elmer Roland; publicity, Mrs. W. E. Worden; Christian social relations, Mrs. Tyson Janney; children, Miss Virgie Starnell; scattered workers, Mrs. John G. Cockey; local work, Mrs. Charles E. Dare; supplies, Mrs. B. B. Brown; agent for mission magazine, Miss Kate Price, and librarian, Mrs. Lorin Walters.

The finance committee of the Alexandria United Charties has issued a request to Government employes living in Alexandria to make their contributions direct to the treasurer of the United Charities. Last year the Alexandrians, in contributing to the Community Chest in Washington, were permitted to specify that their donations be turned over to the local organization, and approximately $5,000 was received from this source.

Alexandria-Washington Lodge of Masons will pay its annual visit to its sister lodge in Alexandria, Andrew Jackson Lodge, No. 120. The principal address will be by Maj. Gen. A. A. Fries, U. S. A., retired.

SCIENTISTS REPORT AMAZING DISCOVERY

clay that held her so long, made the skull markings easy to interpret. On the back of the skull, Prof. Jenks showed pictures of two grooves which he said were unlike anything he had been able to find in other fossil humans.

The skeleton lay on its side. Nearby was an antler dagger, its point broken. Also a graceful shell pendant, made apparently to suspend about the neck.

Bits of small shells were strewn in positions indicating that they came from a shell band made to clasp the hair or encircle the head. Other shells seemed to have come from a small apron, probably of ritual or sex symbolism.

"The lower border of the right shoulder blade," said Prof. Jenks, "was cut through by a hole. By looking through this hole it was possible to reconstruct an idea of the angle at which it had been made and the direction of whatever made it.

"It seemed to have been made by an arrow or a spear, which struck her in front, passing through the lung and quite possibly piercing the heart.

"The skeleton lay about a half or three-quarters of a mile out from the shore of the lake. There was nothing to indicate how this person came to be out in the water. She may have been on a raft, or in a canoe, and may have fallen into the water when struck. The skeleton was not doubled up, the leg bones being flexed a little forward from the hips and a little backward from the knees.

"It has been suggested also that death may have overtaken this person on the ice during winter."

After the meeting one of the academicians suggested further that some one might make a guess this was the prototype of Eliza crossing the ice, but not getting away with it.

favor of prohibition. He refused to predict passage of the beer amendment in the coming session. He saw, as party leader, no reason why the proposal should not be brought to a vote as promptly as its advocates wanted a vote. He had no doubt that favorable action would be had at the first session of the next Congress, he said, adding that "Congress might as well do it now." Mr. Rainey referred to the Treasury's need of additional funds and the large amount of revenue which would be happily paid into the Government coffers by consumers of beer who are deeply resentful of the Government prohibition against it.

Representative O'Connor said he had no doubt that the present House would accept a beer amendment in the coming short session.

Representative Emmanuel Celler, of New York, another Democrat, also declared he had no doubt the coming short session would see enactment of beer legislation.

The District courts, in the opinion of some legal authorities, have been sending men and women to jail and imposing fines on many without authority.

The District has been governed by the Sheppard law, in addition to the provisions of the Volstead act and of the eighteenth amendment. It is a matter of grave legal doubt that the Sheppard law, under which thousands have been prosecuted and sent to jail and heavily fined, has had any legal standing since the day the Volstead law was enacted.

So grave have been the doubts of authorities that District officials have lived somewhat in dread of a challenge to the continued effectiveness of the Sheppard law. The Volstead law, certainly by strong implication, has, at least, set aside the local prohibition enforcement laws, in the opinion of many, and left the District without local antiliquor laws. Senator Morris Sheppard, of Texas, father of the prohibition amendment and author of the local prohibition law, has refused to commit himself on the question because he was fearful that his opinion might result in disregard of the local liquor law, the further authority of which he doubted.

The question has been brought up in District courts on one or two occasions. One was when John R. Mahoney, founder of the Rechabites, through his attorney, Matthew O'Brien, sought to have the courts compel the District Commissioners to enforce a provision of the Sheppard law dealing with prescriptions. The case never was fought to a conclusion.

If the Volstead law were repealed, in the opinion of several lawyers, the only legal restriction on liquor in Washington would be the common law, which is vague and does not contemplate dealing with liquor merely as liquor.

KERNS EXTRADITION PLANS BEING MADE

Removal Hearing to Be Held in Richmond Shortly, Cullen Says.

Baltimore, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—James K. Cullen, chief assistant United States district attorney here, today prepared for the return of Wayland R. Kerns, former judge advocate general of the Bonus Expeditionary Force, to Baltimore to answer charges of extortion and sending a threatening and obscene letter through the mail. Kerns, arrested in the Richmond, Va., post office yesterday, was held in the Richmond jail in default of $1,000 bail pending a removal hearing. A second letter was in the possession of United States District Attorney Simon E. Sobeloff here.

The arrest of Kerns followed receipt of the first letter by Mrs. Maude Edgell, of Catonsville, Md., who had offered a haven on her wooded property near Woodbury, Md., last summer, to the veterans after they were driven from Washington during the evacuation of their camps there.

The authorities asserted the letter stated that unless Mrs. Edgell sent the writer $10 to pay his fare back to Baltimore he would come back anyhow. It was signed "Wayland" and had a return address of "W. R. Kerns, General Delivery, Richmond, Va."

The Federal officials said it also insinuated that Kerns would kill her unless she complied with his demand. The second letter asked Mrs. Edgell to meet him in Richmond by today or in Washington the latter part of the week.

Following the eviction of the bonus army from Washington last summer, Kerns and several veterans went to Mrs. Edgell's nursing home at Catonsville while she prepared to turn the Woodbury land over as a colony site, but Gov. Albert C. Ritchie's disapproval ended the plan. She told Sobeloff she recently discharged Kerns as cook at her home.

Cullen said Kerns will be given a removal hearing shortly in Richmond.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—The date had not been set today for the hearing of Wayland R. Kerns, who is being held in jail here on charges of attempted extortion and sending a threatening and obscene letter through the mails.

Representative Lewis To Talk in Kensington

Representative David J. Lewis of Maryland will address a mass meeting to be held at 8 p. m. Wednesday in Kensington School under auspices of the Kensington Chamber of Commerce. Representative Lewis will talk on the sales tax.

The meeting is the opening gun in a campaign fostered by the chamber to get cooperation of other county groups in a campaign for adoption of the manufacturers' sales tax by the coming session of Congress. Representatives of the Bethesda and Silver Spring Chambers of Commerce and of other local organizations have been invited, as well as the general public. President W. I. Cleveland announced.

MRS. HAGAN ELECTED BY WOMEN VOTERS

ARLINGTON COUNTY.
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 500 Clarendon, Va.

By a vote of 28 to 27, Mrs. Marion Hagan defeated Mrs. Bertha Kelly, incumbent, as president of the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County at their meeting yesterday in St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

Other officers elected are Mrs. Essie Gall, vice president; Mrs. Jessie Skidmore, secretary, Mrs. Mary Williams, recording secretary; Mrs. Ada Davidson, treasurer; Mrs. Ruth Lowell, registrar, and Mrs. Florence E. Cannon, parliamentarian. Division chairmen—Mrs. Jessie Hunt, Mrs. Clive Odom, Mrs. Julia Richart, Mrs. Ruth Simpson and Mrs. Pauline A. Smith.

In a statement last night, the Board of Public Welfare of Arlington County thanked all who contributed last year to the county's unemployment fund, and asked for liberal contributions to the fund during the coming winter.

The board stated that $8,711.35 was expended last year for hospital care, medicine, groceries, clothing, fuel, rent and wages. It declared employment was afforded needy persons in all cases possible last year, and that the same course would be pursued this winter.

Concerning the contributions of Arlington County residents to the Washington Community Chest, the board pointed out that no arrangement had been made for the allocation of funds to the county, and that all contributions made with a view to the relief of distress in Arlington County should be made directly to the Board of Public Welfare.

Mrs. Robert G. Maltby has been elected president of the Parent-Teacher Association of the John Marshall School at Livingstone Heights. Other officers are Mrs. Merle H. Davis, vice president; Mrs. David Ferguson, secretary, and Dr. Lamar Harris, treasurer.

Committee chairmen appointed are: Card games, Mrs. Charles Boyer; hospitality, Mrs. John Petty; membership, Mrs. E. E. Henderson; program, Mrs. C. D. Monteith; publicity, Mrs. B. A. Holt.

Mrs. E. E. Henderson and Mrs. C. D. Monteith were elected as delegates to the Arlington County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations.

The executive committee of the Robert E. Lee School meeting at the school yesterday appointed the following delegates to the Arlington County Council: Mrs. William Holliday, Mrs. Sarah Redfield and Mrs. Herbert Marcey.

The committee announces that Mrs. William S. Hoge, jr., of Washington, will address the December meeting of the association on "Early Religious Training in the Home."

The Women's Society of the Clarendon Presbyterian Church will hold its annual turkey dinner and bazaar tonight in the church. Dinner will be served from 5 to 7 o'clock. The bazaar will open at 1 p. m.

Meeting tonight in the offices of Samuel Cohen at Clarendon, the Clarendon Business Men's Association will be perfected with the election of officers.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Washington-Lee High School will hold its monthly meeting tonight in the school auditorium at 8 o'clock. Principal S. P. Vandersllice will speak.

Funeral services for Mrs. Cora Caroline Doucet, 26 years old, of Clarendon, who died at Walter Reed Hospital Tuesday, will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from C. J. Ives' funeral home at Clarendon. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery. Besides her husband, she is survived by three daughters.

Dr. Alice Rhine Talks To Montgomery Club

Dr. Alice Rhine spoke on the economy bill provisions affecting married women at a meeting of the Montgomery County Quota Club Tuesday night at the Country Club Inn, Bethesda, Md. Dr. Rhine urged that all women's organizations unite to protest against discrimination against employed women, either married or single. Dr. Loretta Kress, of the Washington Sanitarium and Hospital president, presided.

Mrs. N. A. Woodson, of Silver Spring, spoke on "Women in the Automobile Field." She is proprietor of a garage in Silver Spring. Mrs. J. Fred Imirie, proprietor of the inn and second vice president of the club, was presented with a framed copy of the charter to hang on the wall of her establishment.

House Will Probe Two States' Vote

Pennsylvania and Delaware Election Inquiry to Start Today.

(Associated Press.)

The House campaign committee, headed by Representative Ragon, Arkansas Democrat, decided yesterday to investigate last week's elections in Pennsylvania and Delaware. The committee will start its hearings today at 10 a. m. in the Philadelphia Federal Building. Philip Crook, assistant sergeant at arms, was given four subpenas to serve in Philadelphia yesterday afternoon.

The subpenas were for Gen. Edward Martin, State treasurer and treasurer of the Republican State committee; Blakely D. McCoughan, treasurer of the Republican State committee; James W. Hazlett, Philadelphia Republican city committee chairman, and John J. McKinley, jr., city committee treasurer.

The committee will sit in Philadelphia today and tomorrow. The time for the Delaware investigation has not yet been fixed. This committee is empowered to investigate only elections to the House of Representatives.

Chevy Chase Citizens Take Garden Trophy

A silver cup for having the best garden section in the city was presented to the Chevy Chase (D. C.) Citizens Association by Dr. George C. Havenner, chairman of the District Bicentennial Commission, at a meeting last night in the E. V. Brown School.

The association won the first prize in the garden contest sponsored by the District Bicentennial Commission. Patrolman James Bingham, of the Eighth Precinct, was given a silver star by Superintendent of Police Ernest W. Brown for his meritorious work in safeguarding children going to and from school in the Chevy Chase section.

Fairfax Chamber to Aid In Fixing County Budget

The Chamber of Commerce of Fairfax County, Va., has appointed a committee to cooperate with the county authorities in working out next year's county budget in order that a reduction in taxes can be made. Several members condemned the fee system of paying county and State officers and indorsed the idea of straight salaries for each officer.

A committee was appointed to meet with Representative Howard W. Smith, officials of the Community Chest in Washington and the District Commissioners to ask that county residents be permitted to designate any or all of the charity contributions made to the Chest to the county welfare work, where it is stated that the needs will be greater this year than last. Members of this committee are Mrs. O. Ashley Money, Mrs. Barbara Hall, Mrs. L. I. Dolf, Herbert Williams and George C. Smith.

German Students Give Central High Program

Songs of the Rhine and old Heidelberg were heard in the music room of Central High School last night when the group of German students who have been visiting in Washington entertained the students of foreign languages of Central night school.

The concert also was attended by a large delegation of German residents of the city headed by Frau von Prittwitz, wife of the German Ambassador. The concert marked the conclusion of a week's visit by the twelve youths in the Capital.

WAR DEBT DATA.

Congress must decide what steps, if any, will be taken to comply with the requests of European governments for a review of their war debts. Since the action of Congress will ultimately depend upon public opinion, it is highly important that the public should be informed as to the nature of the war debts, how they were contracted, to what extent they have been canceled and how much has been paid.

During the war and shortly thereafter the United States advanced to Europe $9,610,403,575 in cash. This was used to carry on the war, to support the British pound and the French franc, to furnish India with silver and various other purposes connected with reconstruction of Europe. In addition the United States sold war supplies to the debtor governments for $740,087,021, making a grand total of $10,350,490,597. The accumulation of interest before funding brought the aggregate debt of 15 countries, excluding Russia, up to $12,090,667,000.

Funding agreements negotiated separately with each country allowed 62 years for payment of the debts. The principal debtors agreed to pay the following sums at varying rates of interest:

Great Britain	$4,600,000,000
France	$4,025,000,000
Italy	$2,042,000,000
Belgium	$417,780,000

Actual payments have been made by these countries, under the funding agreements, as follows:

Country.	Payments on Principal.	Payments on Interest.
Britain	$202,000,000	$1,149,720,000
France	$161,350,000	$38,650,000
Italy	$37,100,000	$2,521,250
Belgium	$17,100,000	$14,490,000

All payments from all the debtor countries, made before and after the funding agreements were made, amount to $2,627,580,897. Payments due on December 15 from ten countries that have not given notice of postponement, as provided in the funding agreements, are as follows:

Belgium	$2,125,000
Czechoslovakia	$1,500,000
Estonia	$266,370
Finland	$186,235
France	$19,261,438
Great Britain	$95,550,000
Italy	$1,245,437
Latvia	$111,852
Lithuania	$92,386
Poland	$3,302,980
Total	$123,641,698

The original obligations bore interest at 5 per cent. If the deferred payments were to bear that same rate of interest, this Government would receive less than half of its principal. At the time the funding agreements were made, however, the United States was paying about 4¼ per cent interest on its own bonds. Assuming that European debtors should pay the same rate, the degree of cancellation is 43 per cent.

Great Britain is the only debtor nation that agreed to pay more than was advanced to her after the Armistice. On the basis of 5 per cent interest the settlement with France about equals the advances made after the Armistice. Italy and Belgium agreed to pay considerably less than they received after the war closed, plus interest.

IN AID OF MINING.

One of the very active departments of the United States Department of Commerce is the Bureau of Mines. Mere enumeration of its diversified duties would make a long list. Aside from the large amount of technical work naturally required from such an agency, its humanitarian efforts are no less notable. Director Scott Turner has just completed his annual report covering the activities of the bureau during the last fiscal year.

Prevention of explosions in coal mines has been given much expert attention by the bureau, which has long advocated rock dusting in bituminous mines. Such precautions stopped at least two explosions, with the saving of many lives. During the year approximately 100,000 courses in first-aid or mine rescue methods were given by the bureau in 702 communities and 36 States and Alaska, making a total of 681,145 persons who have been so trained. At least 200 lives are saved annually by these first-aid methods, and undoubtedly many more accidents and fatalities are avoided.

Progress in safety in both copper and iron mines is also reported, heavy reductions being shown in both the number and frequency of accidents in metal mines, while accidents in mines of non-metallic minerals other than coal show a decline of 39 per cent in number and 10 per cent in the accident rate. Following the extensive use of electricity in mines, new dangers appeared where gas or dust occurred. No less than thirty-one new electrical devices for use in mines were approved by the bureau following investigation.

One of the active operations carried on by the bureau is control of the helium gas plant at Amarillo, Tex., where the supply for the Government's lighter-than-air craft is produced. This gas, non-explosive, has great advantages over the dangerous hydrogen, and is now supplied under bureau operation at a cost of $7.10 per thousand cubic feet against a former price of more than five times that amount. This is a fair sample of direct savings made by the bureau. Its work for the mining industry is of immense benefits to the Nation.

1932 NATIONAL INCOME.

Workingmen, investors and business chiefs are inclined to sigh heavily when they learn from Bradstreet's estimates that the national income this year will amount to about 56 per cent less than in 1929. In that topmost of the boom years the income of the American people was estimated at $85,200,000,000. This year it is estimated that the people will earn through wages, salaries, interest, dividends, and profits about $37,500,000,000. That is slightly above the 1913 figure.

Some comfort may be found in the fact that the actual loss of income is not so drastic as it appears in these unexplained estimates. Each of the dollars earned in 1932 is worth nearly 30 per cent more than was a dollar in 1929, because of the fall in commodity prices. A distinction must be made between real income and income measured by dollars. Of course, the real income of the people in 1932 was much reduced from the peak year of prosperity, but measured in terms of goods the decline in income is perhaps not more than half of what is indicated by the dollar yardstick.

On the basis of dollar value, income in 1932 will be about 30 per cent lower than in 1931. But farm crops compare favorably with those of 1931; industrial production is only 10 per cent lower than last year; exports declined only 17 per cent in physical volume, and the volume of imports is but 6 per cent below the level of last year. It is evident from these comparisons that the country's real income has not declined 30 per cent in the last year.

It may be noted also that there is a wide variation between current income and potential income with the facilities that are at hand. The country is immeasurably richer than it was in 1913, even though the national income, measured in dollars, does not so indicate. Income has shrunk because maladjustments have prevented operation of the country's economic machinery at its capacity.

The new data on national income lead to two interesting observations. Incomes from wages and salaries this year are about 32 per cent below 1931, while dividends and interest payments have fallen off only 13 per cent. Apparently workingmen have not been treated with the same consideration as creditors and investors. This fact is worthy of extensive investigation. Might not the depression have been mitigated by maintaining employment at a higher level and allowing dividends to lag behind until better times appear?

The second observation concerns taxes. In the most prosperous times about one dollar out of every six went to pay taxes, local State and Federal. Since the depression began the national income has shrunk and taxes have increased. If the estimates of tax experts that about $15,000,000,000 is absorbed annually by the hundreds of taxing units, then $1 out of every $2.50 is being taken from the people to pay the cost of their many governments. This seems incredible, but it is doubtless true.

FRENCH AND GERMAN CHARGES.

Recent disclosure of estimates of potential German army strength contained in a secret French dossier, indicating that large forces of trained and semi-trained men could be quickly mobilized, and that arms and equipment are available in contravention of treaty restrictions, has called forth a broadside of countercharges in Germany in which excessive French armament is alleged. French military forces are under no such restrictions as those of Germany, but the Germans claim that both army and navy in France have been secretly augmented under a program that has not even had legislative sanction.

The sensational German claims appeared in a special edition of the widely circulated Koelnische Illustrierte Zietung, with maps, photographs, graphs and statistics in great detail. It is asserted that within a week, and without special parliamentary authority, France could put into action 46 infantry, 5 cavalry and 4 air divisions. Once mobilization has been ordered, it is held, 30 to 40 more infantry divisions would be available, and 1 more cavalry division, making a total of 4,000,000 white and 1,000,000 colored troops, ready, trained and fully equipped with 25,000 light machine guns, 18,000 heavy machine guns, 2,200 large cannon and howitzers, 4,000 tanks and other motorized vehicles of combat, and 5,000 military planes.

French denials of many of the sweeping assertions of the German naval and military writers is supplemented by the publication via London of additional figures from the French secret dossier whose existence was admitted by Premier Herriot at Geneva recently, this time referring to alleged hidden German naval strength in addition to that charged to land forces. It is claimed that the German fleet now in commission is much more powerful and in a more advanced stage of war readiness than is sanctioned by the treaty, and that the ammunition quotas for battleships, cruisers and torpedo craft are more than three times the permitted quantity.

The French report also accuses Germany of having accumulated excessive numbers of both large and small guns. Sensational charges are made regarding plans for possible armament of merchant vessels. As in the case of army supplies, it is claimed that extensive manufacture of naval instruments is being conducted by German firms in neutral countries, particularly Holland, where supplies of gun controls, torpedoes, periscopes and submarine machinery are being constructed. This secret information even goes so far as to say that a large naval personnel is being built by training reserves under cover of "water sports," and concludes with the allegation that airplane factories are being subsidized in order to have them in readiness to produce war planes.

These charges and countercharges from Germany and France appear in incongruous contrast to the coincidental suggestions regarding disarmament and peace plans. To an impartial observer it appears likely that the estimates from both sides are absurdly exaggerated. Possibly the publicity given these reports will assist in clearing the atmosphere by the time negotiations are under way at Geneva.

RADICALISM REPUDIATED.

As final returns from last week's election come in, the small size of the radical vote becomes significant. Out of 37,500,000 votes counted Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate, received only 524,466. Mr. Thomas considered this year his great opportunity. He conducted a more strenuous campaign than ever before, traveling through nearly every section of the country. In some places he drew large crowds, but the number of people who wasted their votes on him is extremely small in comparison to the total of the two major parties.

Before election day the Socialists were counting on about 2,000,000 votes. They believed that a heavy protest vote would swell their total to an unprecedented number. But when the ballots were counted Mr. Thomas was nearly 400,000 behind the votes for Eugene V. Debs, the Socialist candidate of 1920. In spite of hard times and discontent with existing conditions, the American people have no faith in socialism. Mr. Thomas received about 257,000 more votes than were cast for him in 1928, but his total is so small that he must realize the futility of trying to convert the American people to Government control and operation of business.

Communist candidates were almost completely ignored by the electorate. When William Z. Foster disguised himself as the nominee of the "Workers' Party" four years ago he obtained 48,770 votes. But when he came out under his true banner—the red flag—in 1932 he obtained only 8,744 votes. Communism is abhorrent to the American people. The only possible way in which the reds can secure a following in this country is by disguising themselves. To reveal their identity is to put themselves immediately under a cloud of opprobrium in every community.

The 11,000,000 workingmen who are unemployed are to be commended for their common sense. They see in radicalism only a deeper pit into which they might fall. Jobs and not agitation are their objective. Even though hardships have been endured, they are not ready to become regimented into any system that would give the Government control over their destiny. Radicalism has no place in America.

District parents are more concerned over the threatened cancellation of cheap car fares for school children than they are over war debt cancellation.

Another year's cut in Federal pay is proposed. This saving at the spigot would greatly facilitate wasting at the bunghole.

LINCOLN CATHEDRAL

From the New York Times.

The restoration of Lincoln Cathedral, recently completed, is of interest to people in the United States because more than half of its cost, £130,000, was provided by them. It has been said that the cathedral "has perhaps no rival among the churches of Great Britain in the combination of size, delicacy of detail, effectiveness of both exterior and interior, and grandeur of situation." Just as a great oak is saved by tree surgeons and continues to survive in a green old age, so this historic church defies the attritions of time, because the architects and masons have watched over it with jealous care, replaced decay with new stone work, bound together crevices with cunningly hidden bolts, buttressed walls leaning to a fall, and beautified as they wrought.

All the restorations are of record, century by century, and in some of them new features or fabrics have been added—transepts by Bishop Hugh, of Avalon, in 1186-1200; the Angel Choir by Bishop Richard, of Gravesend; cloisters by his successor, Oliver Sutton, and chapels attached to the presbytery. The central tower, 271 feet, has contained "Great Tom," a bell with a far-sounding peal, and in lesser towers other bells have done service. Celebrated is the gargoyle on the south porch known as "the Devil looking over Lincoln." The cost of restoring the central tower and transepts was defrayed by American subscriptions. The Angel Choir, which derives its name from sculptured angels, is said to be "one of the loveliest of human works."

Lincoln is today a manufacturing city—during the World War it built tanks that were used on the French front—but the cathedral, dominating its neighborhood of factories, shops and dwellings, redeems it from industrial commonplace. Great architects, like Sir Francis Fox and Sir Charles Nicholson, were called in to save "this mighty church," but it was Robert Godfrey, clerk of the works, "whose brain and character chiefly wrought the miracle." To the United States the indefatigable Dean Fry came three times to appeal for help. At a crisis the Pilgrims Trust contributed £20,000. But for the interest taken in this country in the saving of "the oldest example of Gothic art in England" there would probably have been another story to tell. Such sympathy and cooperation have a greater significance than "hands-across-the-sea" oratory.

POST HASTE

If the special writers will quit we'll all agree now that the forthcoming meeting of present and future Presidents is unprecedented.

Lame ducks particularly should realize that Uncle Sam needs a crutch in the form of a sales tax.

All Congress has to do is to find some way to offset the cash requirements of the farmer, veteran, Communist and children marchers with the equally insistent demands for reductions in Federal expenditures.

Whatever the demerits of current liquor, it has its strong points, and legislators should not get exaggerated ideas about displacing it with sissy beer.

The Prince of Wales doubtless understands that Ireland would not be Ireland if it were of one mind about his visit.

Don't be misled into thinking that the object of the Communist disturbers marching on Washington is to help the veterans.

No wonder Capone is making strenuous efforts to get out and tend to business, with all this talk about the danger of anybody being able before long to peddle suds.

Real and dissembling European bankrupts are equally willing to make Uncle Sam the deferred creditor.

There is no apparent foundation for the rumor that Senator Moses is to be made smear leader for the Republicans.

Since the average Democratic vote is 41 per cent of the total, and Roosevelt got 57 per cent, Progressives and Republicans who elected him will, of course, get three Cabinet posts, what!

The possibility of traveling round the globe by radio before long is scarcely more fantastic than Col. Turner's daylight flight from coast to coast would have been to the ox-team Forty-niners.

At least, those European Oliver Twists can't eat their promises to pay and ask for more.

California, with over 15,000,000 gallons of wine waiting in storage, is not content with a beer content.

Senator Wadsworth was taken for a dry ride on a surf board, but Representative Wadsworth floated right back on the wet tide.

The short session of Congress will be uncertain because you never can tell which foot the lame ducks will get off on.

AFTER THE FROST.

The cold black frost came stalking in
And with his ruthless blade
Where most exquisite charm had been
A sorry sight he made.
The salvia, scarlet to the chin,
Stands broken and dismayed.

Now idle does it seem to talk,
Since death has claimed its own,
A dahlia by the garden walk
To pink perfection grown
Falls blasted on a blackened stalk—
Proud beauty overthrown.

The golden mantle of the oak
In tattered fragments lies
About its feet. A single stroke
And the last brave zinnia dies,
While mists of grief like forest smoke
Seem everywhere to rise.

But yesterday the ground was fair
With all the joys of fall,
Beauty abounded everywhere,
Now dead and drear is all.

It Costs More to Farm Poor Land Than to Water a Fertile Desert

By ROBERT QUILLEN

ONE of America's great industrial engineers said during the boom: "The purpose of a research department is to make people dissatisfied with what they have."

That, in a measure, was true. Each great industry had its research department to develop new and better things to make people dissatisfied with the old.

But that method of increasing business was wasteful. A family could not equip its household, once for all, as people once did when they bought a piano and a sewing machine. Old models were junked as new models appeared. And though this process kept the factories busy and thus provided jobs, it also kept everybody in debt to the installment man.

This, however, was not the only task of the research department. Since its primary object was to promote sales, it studied the needs and prejudices of foreign markets and developed new ways to meet them.

Thus it won new customers, but the gain was relatively small. Manufacturers in other lands were competing for the same trade and a customer won today might be lost tomorrow.

The research department justified itself by tempting old customers to buy new things and by winning new customers abroad, but it overlooked its greatest opportunity.

Pioneer railroads gave away land and built up the country along their right-of-way to provide themselves with shippers. Modern industry can make new customers by the same method.

If a research department would increase sales, let it find a way to make the poor prosperous enough to buy.

Even in the best of times, there are millions of people in America too poor to buy the common comforts of our age. In the South, not one tenant farmer in 500 has modern bathroom equipment. In every city there are slums where the poor can buy nothing but food and scraps of second-hand clothing. In every mountain region the people are generations behind civilization.

These people are a potential market richer than any to be won abroad. They can consume the output of thousands of factories.

The men who control our great industries have intelligence enough to solve the economic problems of the poor. Let them do this and they will have all the customers they need.

Why search afar for breadfruit if you can grow it in the back yard?

WHAT IS TO COME?

Press Surmises as to Probable Developments in Politics as a Result of the Election.

No Magic Remedy.

Columbia State.

The national victory at the polls by the Democratic party places upon the party, as did its last previous victory sixteen years ago, tremendous responsibility. Then the country was beset by international problems, and in the shadow of war. Today it is struggling up out of the valley of an economic and mental depression which has been more straining upon its manhood than the trials of war.

The country is again successfully going over the top, but neither Franklin D. Roosevelt nor any other human can perform magic, and the promptness and completeness of this victory is going to be dependent largely upon the quality of the wisdom and the loyalty of the following which is accorded the leader, especially by Democratic members of Congress and by the press of the country. Patriotism and courage by both are needed now as urgently as at any moment of the great war.

End of Animosity.

Christian Science Monitor.

The time is not good for nursing political animosities or continuing political quarrels. President Hoover will take with him into retirement the admiration and respect of millions of his fellow citizens. Gov. Roosevelt may be sure that he will be attended in his entrance upon the duties of the Presidency by the sincere good wishes of a united Nation, the earnest desire that his administration may be an unqualified success, and a general eagerness to cooperate in the attainment of that happy end.

Home Brew First.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

President Roosevelt and the Democratic party will be zealous to see to it that the tremendous yield of revenue from wisely controlled liquor production shall flow into the national Treasury and serve to stimulate American business, as well as to conserve domestic morals through proper restrictions. We have our own wine growers, distillers and brewers. They can be a proper and useful part of the national commercial activity, the Government receiving the enormous revenue that for years has flooded to the coffers of the bootlegger and the racketeer.

We are not killing prohibition for the sake of Europe.

Wants "More Liberal Attitude."

Brooklyn Eagle.

Many Democrats and many Republicans have been quick to seize upon the new developments and to begin a campaign to stir up opposition against any leniency toward our European debtors.

We believe that this represents a narrow view of the issue and one that should be combated by those who realize the harm being done to the United States by refusing to take a more liberal attitude.

Oh, You Pie Counter!

Ohio State Journal.

That grating noise you hear is 25,000 prospective new postmasters rubbing their hands.

Indianapolis News.

Another disappointed citizen was the man who expected to find beer on tap the morning after the election.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Democrat Believes People Will Demand Repeal of Law Favoring Certain Veterans.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: At the meeting this week in Indianapolis of the executive committee of the American Legion, a program demanding immediate cash payment of the bonus was adopted. I do not know who pays the expenses incurred by the members who attend these meetings, but if they only knew how overwhelming is the sentiment of the American people against this raid on the Treasury, common sense ought to dictate to them the utter futility of their efforts.

But even more absurd than the demand for immediate payment of the bonus is the high-powered propaganda which is being put out by some of the officials of this organization in a desperate effort to offset the almost unanimous sentiment of the people against the continuance of hospitalization and compensation for those whose disability was not directly connected with service in the war. An outstanding and shining example of this propaganda and misrepresentation is the statement made by one of the League's legislative officials to the effect that legislation to cure this evil is being sponsored by "42,000 big Federal income taxpayers who are paying four-fifths of it."

The writer, unfortunately, is not one of the 42,000 referred to, but he, along with millions of other American citizens who believe in justice and fair play, is opposed to any such inexcusable class benefits as free hospitalization and compensation to veterans whose disability has no connection with war service. The rank and file—the common people—are not in favor of longer perpetuating this class charity, regardless of who ultimately pays for it. It is time to call a halt to this class legislation, and the American people have definitely made up their minds to demand of Congress that this be done.

A DEMOCRAT.

Public Opinion Demands Value Received for Any Further Concessions to Europe.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In its well-considered editorial, "Debt Cancellation," speaking in reference to public opinion, The Post says, "Cancellation of the debts on Europe's assurance that it will promote 'world economic recovery and consolidation of peace' is not acceptable." Certainly the Government will be making a serious blunder if it fails to give close attention to this attitude of the public.

During the big war and immediately thereafter Uncle Sam became the humanitarian idealist which he is at heart. Time was when international rhapsodists could play on his emotions like a master musician on the violin. But not now. Whether for better or for worse, the worldly-minded and armament-minded attitude of Europe has hardened us so that we are not impressed by high-flown assurances of devotion to world peace.

In settling the European debt question the Government should bear in mind that only a policy of concessions for value received will satisfy us. The American people are not in the mood to give further financial assistance to the Old World's comedy drama of "Uncle Sam, the Easy Mark."

W. F. PARKS.

Common Citizen Demands Protection Against Communist Hunger Marchers, to Avoid Lynch Law.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is quite apparent from the nature of the demands that they propose to make that the alleged hunger marchers, who announce their intention of coming to the opening of Congress, are communistically inspired and led. The ordinary garden variety citizen is getting very tired of having his business disrupted and his employment interfered with by the antics of groups of this sort.

Russia has already done this country many times as much harm as though we had actually been at war with her.

The time has arrived for the agencies representing law and order in the United States to give a little consideration to the man who is behaving himself and trying to pay his taxes and raise his children to be useful citizens. He is entitled to have agencies and groups which menace the peace and security of the Nation squelched promptly and severely. The Government should not wait until the public patience is so frayed that lynch law is resorted to.

OBSERVER.

Sense of Responsibility Should Be Active, as Well as Demand for Rights.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There is always a clamor for personal, municipal, county and State rights, and it is a pity there is not an equal feeling of responsibility running parallel with these rights. A real patriot should be more anxious to meet his responsibilities than to preserve his rights. Are not most of our troubles due to the fact that there is so nearly universal failure to fulfill obligations?

W. B. WITHERSPOON.

"Pieculilli" Sounds Good, but Beans Would Be Better, Says Yankee.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: This Yankee, drawn by the World War away from his New England and the tangy smell of his home "pieculilli," sighs in deepest nostalgia to read Mrs. M. E. B. J.'s recipe, which calls for "pickle lilly." The word is of East Indian origin, and no Yankee skipper brought her spelling back to Salem. I will wager, too, he was tired enough of rice when he stepped ashore. Had she said "beans"—well, things would look brighter.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THE Rex, new Italian liner, is perhaps the most perfectly equipped vessel afloat as far as radio is concerned. The Rex has seven wireless transmitters designed for communication on any wave length from 18 to 5,000 meters. This equipment was built in the Marconi works at Genoa, and the radiophone outfit is exactly the same as the inventor of wireless uses on his yacht, the Elettra.

Four of the 24 lifeboats carry wireless outfits and each of these craft can accommodate 141 persons. In contrast with the delay in the news reaching his native Italy when Columbus discovered a new continent in 1492, the Rex talked by word of mouth direct with Genoa as they approached New York harbor on her maiden voyage.

The Rex can eavesdrop on about every electro-magnetic pulsation in space. It has seven receiving sets that can tune from 12 to 30,000 meters. The receiver used for long-distance telephony is a superheterodyne with 37 tubes in her powerful circuit. A modern radio direction finder is an important part of her equipment.

The Marconi engineers are especially proud of one of the new transmitters, which operates on waves from 600 to 3,200 meters. It has a reliable night range of 4,000 miles. In case the big ship ever needed to flash an S O S this powerful transmitter could hurl a strong signal to every ship on the Atlantic, whether on the northern or southern route.

DR. FULTON J. SHEEN, of Catholic University, so well known to the radio audience, will give a lecture, "Pageantry of the Skies," at Gaston Hall, Georgetown University, at 8:30 o'clock tonight. It will not be broadcast, but listeners are invited to attend, as Dr. Sheen's lecture is for the benefit of St. Gertrude's School for Backward Children in Brookland.

The lecture will be in charge of Mrs. D. C. Shea and Mrs. Joseph P. Tumulty, and is sponsored by the St. Gertrude's Guild, of which Mrs. D. J. Callahan is president. Dr. Sheen is one of the most brilliant speakers in the national Catholic Hour broadcasts every Sunday from New York.

JUDGE PAYNE, Miss Boardman, William Fieser, or whoever staged the two American National Red Cross broadcasts did a mighty fine job of it. Good showmanship prevailed throughout.

There was no overlapping and no anticlimax as there might have been if they had tried to put on two such stellar entertainments as the one Monday night. The one Tuesday night over Columbia was entirely different; in fact, didn't even have any music. Nevertheless in its way it was just as effective.

Following former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, who spoke for President-elect Roosevelt, three persons the Red Cross had assisted were allowed to tell their own stories, two men who had been out of employment, one in Minneapolis and the other from Chicago, and a woman from Boston.

Surely the little talks touched the hearts of those who heard them. The woman's story was especially dramatic. In fact, she sounded almost as if she were Laurette Taylor again speaking in the memorable wartime play, "Out There."

MARIE DRESSLER, motion picture actress, and Erin O'Brien Moore, heroine of the stage production of the Pulitzer Prize play, "Street Scene," will be featured guest artists with Rudy Vallee and his Connecticut Yankees tonight (WRC, 8 o'clock). Miss Dressler will be heard in monologues and stories, and Miss Moore will present a scene from "Street Scene." Ruth Roy, singer of character songs; Rose and Sargent, comedy team, and Farrell and Endor, piano and song team, will also be heard.

"Please," from "The Big Broadcast," will be featured by Lanny Ross during the broadcast of Capt. Henry's Show Boat (WRC, 9 p. m.). Jules Bledsoe has chosen "Lord, You Made the Night Too Long" and "Brother, Can You Spare a Dime?" for his numbers. Charles Winninger, Annette Hanshaw and other members of the cast will be on deck for the performance.

New York City will be the scene of the Northeastern finals in the Atwater Kent auditions today (WRC, 1 p. m. and 4 p. m.). Dorothy Davenport and Edwin C. Steffe are representing Washington. The thirty singers will be announced by numbers. Judges' ballots count for 60 per cent and the radio audience vote for 40 per cent. The judges will listen in from Washington, D. C.

John Gantt will emerge from behind the control panel at WOL tonight to direct the Northern Dramatic Company in "Vesta la Guibba," which he wrote in collaboration with Ronald Dawson, who in turn will step into the lead. The broadcast is scheduled for 7:20 tonight.

"THE impossible has been accomplished," writes Mrs. J. A. Dorsey, of Hyattsville, Md. "I didn't think the radio programs could be worse, but day by day in every way they are becoming more hopeless. Do not the advertisers realize that they defeat their own ends by the moaners, howlers, screamers that pollute the air?

"Even the Associated Press compelled us to cut off the election broadcast by its constant reiteration of the glories of the A. P. Any person interested enough to listen to the election results is intelligent enough to know the A. P. is the great news disseminator.

"When may we expect to be able to use the radio with any pleasure? The U. S. service organizations, Army, Navy and Marine Bands on occasional programs are all one can be sure of. I've been waiting to get this off my chest for some time, and was goaded into it by a particularly atrocious squealer 'Wantin' You,' &c. What we need is—well you name the punishment."

Max Lowe's Riviera Orchestra will give the veterans at the Naval Hospital an hour or two of their time when the entire orchestra of fifteen musicians, directed by Barnes, goes over there next Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock to entertain them.

Because Amos felt he was not getting sufficient exercise, he now has a jumping rope like the professionals use in training in his office. When the jumping rope was delivered, Andy remarked: "Now get me some jacks and a ball and everything will be perfect."

THE Postilion—last-minute, accurate news, as gathered by The Washington Post, will be given over WMAL at 10 o'clock tonight.

COACH BILL BRADY OF ASHTON GAVE TOM FOWLER A GOOD TALKING TO—BOY, IS BILL SORE?!
I DONT BLAME HIM—TOM'S IN ROTTEN SHAPE THIS FALL!
YOU'RE IN NO CONDITION TO PLAY AGAINST BENTLEY THIS YEAR AND IF WE GET LICKED IT WILL BE YOUR FAULT!!
I'M SICK, I TELL YOU, BILL!!
NEWS OF THEIR STAR FULLBACK'S POOR SHAPE GREATLY UPSET THE ASHTON STUDENTS
I HEAR HE WAS DRINKING HIS HEAD OFF AT "SALT SPRINGS" THIS SUMMER!
GEE WHIZ, AND I'VE BET MY SHIRT ON THE GAME ALREADY!!
REALIZING THAT HE COULD NOT PLAY AGAINST BENTLEY, TOM FOWLER DECIDED ON A DARING PLAN
I'LL WRITE A LETTER TO WATT CHANCE AND ASK HIM TO COME HERE AT ONCE!!
A FEW DAYS LATER THE MANAGER OF THE GAMBLING CASINO AT "SALT SPRINGS" RECEIVED FOWLER'S LETTER
OOM
Dive got an idea that will make you plenty of dough! Take a room at the Ashton Inn and let me know when you arrive—Come as soon as possible and Mrs. Charles K. Moser, Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Schoenfeld, Mrs. William Allen Phillips, Mrs. Benjamin Smith, Capt. Horace Smith, Mr. William Kelley and Mr. Louis Akar.

SOCIETY

Dr. and Mrs. Theodore Douglas Robinson have closed their country home at Herkimer, N. Y., and have taken an apartment at the Ritz Tower in New York until February, when they will go South. Miss Alida Robinson, who has been in Washington for several weeks, has joined them and will be presented to New York society later in the season.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Hinckley, son-in-law and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robinson, are making their home at the Anchorage this fall and plan to sail for Europe early next month to spend the remainder of the winter.

Miss Belle Baruch, daughter of Mr. Bernard Baruch, has leased a house near Middleburg, Va., for the season.

Miss Baruch, who is a keen horsewoman, has spent much time abroad in late years and has exhibted successfully in many of the foreign horse shows.

Mrs. Jack Hayes has as her guest Miss Elizabeth Spaulding, who will be with her until Sunday when she will return to her home in Atlanta, Ga.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Rout have moved to Wardman Park Hotel, where they have leased an apartment.

Miss Caroline Marbury Beall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Marbury Beall, will entertain at a tea on Sunday afternoon for three of this season's debutantes from Baltimore, Miss Katharine Abercrombie, Miss Katherine Detrick and Miss Sarah Cattleman.

Mr. and Mrs. Fontaine Cosby Bradley are established for the season at 2514 Q street. Mrs. Bradley, before her recent marriage, was Miss Emily Ecker, daughter of Mrs. John Beard Ecker. Mr. Bradley is the son of Mrs. Thomas Bradley, of Georgetown.

Cardinal Mundelein, Archbishop of Chicago, is at the Carlton for a brief stay, accompanied by the Rev. R. C. Maguire, also of Chicago.

Mrs. M. de Clare Berry is spending some time in North Carolina and Richmond, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Clement C. Smith, of Milwaukee, Wis., entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton.

Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Parish, of New York City, have come to Washington to spend the winter, and they have engaged an apartment at Wardman Park Hotel.

Miss Mary Parrish Bradley, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Bradley, will return to join her mother at their farm, Rosemont, near Rockville, next week. She has been spending several months on a ranch in Montana.

Miss Javins Is Married In Bridgeport, Conn.

Of interest to Capital society was the marriage last Monday in Bridgeport, Conn., of Miss Loretta A. Javins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Nevils Javins, of Pasadena, Calif., formerly of Washington, to Mr. Victor Robert Eckels, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Eckels, of Bridgeport, Conn.

The ceremony was performed in St. Paul's Church by the Rev. Thomas B. Gwynn in the presence of a large company of relatives and friends.

The bride, who was escorted and given in marriage by her father, wore an ivory gown of bridal satin, made on princess lines.

Mr. Ralph C. Eckels, jr., was best man for his brother, and the ushers included Mr. Walter P. Crandall, of Washington.

After December 15 the couple will be at home in Pasadena, Calif.

Mrs. Edward H. Pratt entertained informally at luncheon yesterday at Wardman Park Hotel.

Mrs. Samuel Burleigh Milton and her sister, Mrs. Wilfred Geist Fronheiser, had as their guests over the week-end Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Sevison, of Pottstown, Pa. Mrs. Milton and Mrs. Fronheiser entertained at bridge in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Sevison.

Miss Mathilde Kolb was the guest of honor last evening at a miscellaneous shower given by the Lovette Choral Club at the home of Mrs. Eva Whitford Lovette. A program of music presented by Miss Kolb, Mrs. Ethel Lynn Fast, Miss Carolyn Schulte, Mrs. Francise Bass Wilson and Mrs. Mary E. Wilkerson was one of the pleasing features of the evening. The marriage of Miss Kolb and Mr. Lewis Bartlett, of this city, is to take place on December 3, at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Chevy Chase.

The Kentucky Society of Washington will meet next Thursday at 9 p. m. at the Willard Hotel, for its first assembly and ball of the season. The members of the ways and means committee are Senator Alben W. Barkley, Judge C. C. McChord, Mr. Robert E. Lucas, Judge Charles Kerr, Representative Maurice Thatcher, Mr. William Jennings Price, Mr. Stanley F. Reed, Mr. Francis Savage, Col. George Weitzel, Mr. Edwin P. Morrow, Judge Robert Woolley, Mr. James C. Stone and Mr. Owsley Stanley.

Trinity College Tea Dance Saturday at Carlton.

On Saturday the Athletic Association of Trinity College will hold its annual tea dance in the Carlton room of the Carlton Hotel.

Miss Mary Deming, of Hartford, Conn., president of the Athletic Association, is in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Guy Mason entertained at the bridge forum luncheon given yesterday at the Dodge Hotel. Her guests were Miss Sallie Dean, Mrs. E. D. Devlin and Miss Alice Burges. Mrs. Marian H. Barre lectured on bridge from 12:30 to 1 and then talked informally on the same subject during the luncheon. Later the guests remained to play bridge under Mrs. Barre's instruction when desired. The dining room and the lounge both were decorated with palms and huge bowls of yellow chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Thurston Hughes entertained a party, her guests including Mrs. Thomas Hayes, Mrs. John Seward and Mrs. G. P. Wilhelm. Among others who attended the bridge forum luncheon were Mrs. J. Eris Powell, Mrs. William K. Butler, Mrs. Thomas Hughes, Mrs. M. Jordan Markley, Mrs. Florence Hutchinson, Mrs. L. T. Mishner, Mrs. Thomason Clarke, Mrs. Martin Jones, Mrs. Arthur B. Kinne, Mrs. Theodore S. Grape, Mrs. E. C. Casares, Mrs. B. D. Hill, Mrs. John Seward, Mrs. C. W. Humphreys, Mrs. Charles Ward Boyce and a number of others.

Mrs. Davis B. Wills will entertain a group at the bridge forum luncheon next Wednesday. They will be given each Wednesday at 12:30 o'clock during the season.

Second Cavalry Squadron Has Regimental Dinner.

The first of a series of regimental dinners was held last evening at the Meridian Mansions by the Second Squadron of the 306th Cavalry of the District of Columbia, one of the most active reserve units in the East. The dinner proved to a big success by a large attendance of high ranking officers of the Army and other distinguished guests, where much pomp and military air was displayed by the many colorful uniforms.

Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone, the commanding general of the Third Corps Area, made the principal address, with short impromptu talks by other officers following. Col. John Philip Hill, the regimental commander of the 306th Cavalry, was toastmaster.

Among the foreign attaches attending were Col. Maurice Fitz-Maurice Day, of the British Embassy, who appeared in a colorful scarlet dinner jacket, typical of the royal British forces, and Capt. Georges Thenault, Air Attache of the French Embassy.

The following guests and officers were in attendance:

Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone, commanding general, Third Corps Area; Col. Leon Kromer, Col. W. W. McCammon, Col. George T. Bowman, Col. Harry N. Cootes, Col. Maurice Fitz-Maurice Day, military attache of the British Embassy; Col. John Philip Hill, Maj. H. C. Dagley, instructor, Cavalry, Organized Reserves; Maj. Geary F. Eppley, Maj. A. D. Surles, Third Cavalry; Capt. Georges Thenault, air attache of the French Embassy; Maj. H. H. Jacobs, Maj. Russell P. Freeman, Maj. Guy N. Church, Capt. Albert J. McCurdy, Capt. John P. Dean, Capt. Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

"Rond Point" is what Bernard et Cie., called this black gauffre woolen tailleur combined with black galyac. The blouse-gillet is short sleeved and of white cloque.

TAKE that question of brown for evening wear, now. I think, 'twas the house of Worth who launched this idea, oh, seasons ago. And ever since, collection after collection, a marvelously elegant and svelt evening model in brown is launched—and forthwith purchased and worn by the very smartest of their clientele.

It's something like a taste for artichokes or olives, I guess—you have to decide whether you like it or not. Do you like brown for evening wear, or don't you?

The first answer is usually no. Then you think it over, see a very few more brown evening ensembles, note how unfailingly elegant they appear and how distinguished the lady wearing brown seems to be—and the next thing you know you like it!

Least, that's how it struck me. And now I find that brown for evening, when it is exceptionally well made and beautifully assembled, is as distinguee as black—and far more individual. Try it the next time—and test it out first by looking closely at the next brown evening ensemble you see anywhere.

Worth's outstanding "brown" success for the season is a crepe velvet evening costume in tobacco brown, with long, svelt lines following the lines of the body—which is a feature of evening gowns of the season. The bodice is slightly draped and shirred at one side of the waistline, and the decollette, moderately high in front, is cut away under the arms and at the back. 'Tis outlined from the shoulders in a narrow band of mink. A waistline jacket of velvet which ties in the back, collar made of flower petals of the velvet and shirred sleeves make the ensemble—and we hear from Worth himself that, despite the fact that the long evening wrap is usually in favor for winter, this jacket is almost always ordered with the frock.

Bouton (boo-tong), button; bouton en nacre (on nake), pearl button; bouton d'or (dore), gold button; bouton d'argent (dar-zhong), silver button; bouton d'etoffe (day-toff), cloth button. "Coudre un bouton" is to sew a button on; "reculez les boutons" means to set them back more or less. "Boutonniere" is button-holed.

For every several fluffy georgette nighties, one must have at least one practical, but chic, mind you, chic—one. There are occasions, traveling and things like that, when one simply must have a tailored or semi-tailored nightgown! But one that is chic, and one that does not take too much material to make, and one that—oh, well, send for this week's leaflet which tells you how to make one like this! It takes 2¾ yards of material, my deah, and not a speck more. And it fits and is comfortable, and for all that very smart to look at. You'll like it, and want to make yourself one sooner or later. Perhaps a Christmas present wouldn't be such a bad idea—of one of these nighties?

• • • • •

There is something very nice about flat fur like galyac—who remembers anything like it fifteen years ago? I don't! But today every child knows what this fur is, and how it looks. And the couturieres are not backward fashioning it as they do fabrics, sometimes using the fur as a fabric, sometimes using the fur with a fabric, as in the tailleur I sketched for you today. The fabric and fur are both black, but I can't for the life of me say whether 'tis a fur coat cloth trimmed, or a cloth coat fur trimmed—now can you? Whatever it is, it is most chic. And the little sleeveless blouse affair, that is a gilet, really, is a good part of its chic, don't you think? In heavy, white "cloque" it is, with odd buttoning. The whole is a Bernard et Cie model, sent to us to sketch for you. Nice?

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

HEALTHY OLD AGE.

THE following are extracts from the comment of the Illinois Health Messenger on the G. A. R. encampment recently held in Springfield, Ill.:

"Over 1,000 members registered at headquarters, 732 of whom marched in the great parade. Some walked and others rode in automobiles. They varied in age from 80 to 100 years.

"Heavily tanned skin that smacked of outdoor life, not an ounce of superfluous flesh, medium height and little evidence of wealth were characteristics that marked the features of the marchers. About a dozen carried a noticeable amount of overweight, but not one could be classed as fat. None showed evidence of a life of ease. Probably a dozen smoked cigars. Many were extremely thin. A few appeared to be just drying up.

"Weather-beaten cheeks, deeply tanned by sun and wind, were the rule. One might surmise that many of them came from farms. A spirit of tranquillity pervaded the men.

"A company of veterans of the World War provided a striking contrast. In this group of 60-odd there were half a dozen fat men. Only a few carried signs of a regular outdoor life."

The average age of the living men who actually fought in the civil war must be about 90 years. The editor of the Health Messenger is of the opinion that a man who wishes to attain that age and retain a reasonable amount of physical vigor must not allow himself to become fat. Rather he should be underweight and should tend to shrivel and dry up as he travels through the period of senility. Further, he should lead an active, outdoor life, his skin becoming tanned and weather-beaten. Moreover, he should cultivate tranquillity.

There are few who will disagree with these conclusions. The commonly used tables give average weights. The best weights are about 10 per cent below the figures given. The best weight for a journey that is to last to the ninetieth mile post and beyond are lower still. It is the "lean and hungry" kind who, having escaped the hazards of youth, have the best chance to reach five score. And the advantage to an old person of shriveling and drying up can not be gainsaid. The point about tranquillity is well made. A potent source of danger is high blood pressure. Worry is an important cause of high blood pressure, and it follows that tranquillity makes for longevity.

NERVOUS YOUTH.

An appreciative reader writes: I have a young friend who is extremely nervous. He is still in his early twenties, but he is fast becoming a nervous wreck. This nervousness is especially bad when he loses control of his temper.

REPLY.

What is the cause of this nervousness? Has he a goiter? What is his metabolism rate? If he is free from physical disorder his nervousness probably due to lack of training or faulty training. If that is the trouble the remedy lies in training.

PEPSIN COMPOUNDS.

E. B. writes:

1. When foods, such as liver and lettuce, disagree, is it a sign that they should not be eaten?

2. Are elderly people, around 70, better without meat or eggs, or should they eat one or both in moderation daily?

3. Are the pepsin compounds (pepsin tablets, etc.) advisable for those with weak digestion where many food items that most people like are not well tolerated by the stomach or digestive organs?

REPLY.

1. The term "disagree," used in this connection, has no definite meaning. Probably we should decide to eat or not eat certain foods on other grounds.

2. People 70 years old and older need very little meat and eggs. Meat twice a week is ample unless the person is working actively.

3. No. Pepsin is rarely used now. Such a person should try to find out why he has what he calls weak digestion. He should regulate his habits, including his diet and he should take such treatment as is indicated by what he finds.

TYPHOID VICTIMS.

T. O. M. writes: I had three children on my place die with typhoid fever in March. Would it be safe for any one to live in the house in which they died? What precautions would it be wise to take should I put any one in the house? Three doctors have already told me there is no danger. I have had the well water tested and it was pronounced safe.

REPLY.

You give no reason for suspecting the house. My guess is that it is entirely safe. The well water also seems to be cleared of blame. The causes left, in the order of probability, are: Exposure of these children to a typhoid carrier, probably in the family; exposure of the later cases to the first case; exposure of the child first taken sick to a case of typhoid; flies; infected milk consumed away from home; infected food other than milk.

NOW! EASE A SORE THROAT INSTANTLY

Feel Rawness, Irritation, Go At Once

These Pictures Tell You What To Do

Crush and Dissolve 3 Bayer Aspirin Tablets in Half a Glass of Water.

GARGLE Thoroughly—Throw Your Head Way Back, Allowing a Little to Trickle Down Your Throat.

Repeat Gargle and Do Not Rinse Mouth, Allow Gargle to Remain on Membranes of the Throat for Prolonged Effect.

Remember Only Medicine Helps A Sore Throat

Modern medical science now throws an entirely new light on sore throat. A way that eases the pain, rawness and irritation in as little as two or three minutes.

Results are among the most extraordinary in medical science. On doctors' advice, millions are following this way . . . discarding old-time "washes" and "antiseptics." For it has been found that only medicine can help a sore throat.

Simple To Do. All you do is crush and dissolve three BAYER Aspirin Tablets in half a glass of water. Gargle with it twice—as pictured above. If you have any indication of a cold—before gargling take 2 Bayer Aspirin Tablets with a full glass of water. This is to combat any signs of cold that have gone into your system. Keep on taking if cold has a "hold." For Genuine Bayer Aspirin will not harm you. Your doctor will tell you, it does not depress the heart. Get a box of 12 or a bottle of 100 at any drug store.

Reduces Infection, Eases Pain Instantly. Gargling with Bayer Aspirin will do three things: Relieve soreness at once. Allay inflammation. AND—reduce infection; which is the important thing in fighting a sore throat.

It requires medicine—like BAYER ASPIRIN—to do these things! That is why throat specialists throughout America are prescribing this BAYER gargle in place of old-time ways. Results are quick and amazing.

Be careful, however, that you get real BAYER Aspirin Tablets for this purpose. For they dissolve completely enough to gargle without leaving irritating particles. Watch this when you buy.

CREATING SITUATIONS.

MOST of us who play Contract-Bridge find a great deal of satisfaction and ample enjoyment in bidding our cards as we see them, in assessing the values of distribution and honor-tricks, and then playing to the best of our ability.

There is, however, a type of player who, in attacking the problem of solving the possibilities of a hand, creates a new situation. This type of player is merely making a foray into the realms of higher strategy. His unusual bidding technique quite frequently will either produce a large plus score for him and his partner or minimize an impending minus score by a series of bids which are made with the deliberate purpose of dimming the picture of honor strength and distribution in the interchange of information between one opponent and the other. Successful coups of this type quite often will be enough to make the side with the weaker holdings plus on the evening's play. What this strategist is trying to do is to give an impression of something that does not exist.

In other words, his bidding procedure is based upon one of two principles; either concealing strength or concealing weakness. With a weak hand he attempts to simulate strength by one or more daring bids. Generally the mark of an expert is that he is able to escape unscathed with bids that in the hands of a less expert player will result in heavy penalties. On the other hand, when he has the balance of the honor strength he does not wish to make his holding an open book for his opponents to read, and thus much of his bidding strategy will be an attempt to conceal strength and to invite attack where he knows his forces are so strong that any attack means instant disaster for the attacking side.

The bluff bids, popularly known as "psychics," are one type—although only one—of this strategy. The thought behind them is to convey an entirely erroneous impression of the cards held by the maker. Bluff or psychic bids are not an invention of Contract or of Contract bidding. As a matter of fact, the same type of bid was used in the days of Auction. However, they have become much more popular in Contract because players as a whole have found that it is sometimes unwise to picture too clearly their weakness or their strength, and that if they are weak, an appearance of strength may mislead even strong opponents.

The player who habitually bids on bust holdings is an open book to his opponents. The expert player mixes them up. He may bid on worthless holdings, although ordinarily he has a reasonably safe escape, but what he seeks to do in the making of these bids is not to win a skirmish or a battle, but to win a campaign. Thus, on one hand he may make a psychic bid. Later in the same session he may make what appears to be a psychic bid when actually his hand is very strong. Sometimes this form of strategy will be initiated by bidding a weak four-card suit with possibly two stronger suits in the hand and considerable honor strength. One of the adversaries may hold, say, the Ace-King-Queen of the suit and, naturally, will decide that the bid is a bluff, pure and simple, and thus may easily be lured into a bad Double of a final contract in some other suit.

The master Contract player is not content merely to win or lose as the fall of the cards dictates, but makes a study of creating winning situations, as the surprise element in Bridge, as in war, is still at the basis of successful strategy. In seeking to outgeneral your opponents you can not, of course, rely upon the same tactics to be successful twice against the same opposition. The highest type of strategy at the Bridge table is based on the ability to find a new way of dealing with the same situation.

No matter how expert a player may be at creating situations, he should never forget the basic principles. All unusual bluff or psychic bids should have a definite margin of safety behind them. Where many players go wrong in using unusual bids is in using them too much. The basis of any good game of Contract—and the better it is, the firmer the basis—is soundness. To have a reputation for erratic brilliancy is not an asset to any player. To be sound and brilliant is the cornerstone of successful Contract. If you are thoroughly sound, if you understand first principles and hand values, then it is easy for you to make safe excursions into the unusual.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"SCORPIO."

IF November 17 is the date of your birth, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 11:30 a. m. to 12:45 p. m. and from 5 p. m. to 6 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:30 a. m. to 8:15 a. m. and from 10 p. m. to 11 p. m.

Do not act on impulse on this day. In the case of decisions of major importance it would appear advisable to hold them over till the ensuing day. Counsel advanced voluntarily by others and unsought by you should be carefully pondered, even though it come from someone close to you. Affairs in the home will run smoothly and happily.

The child born on this November 17 will have a very demonstrative nature. It will like to be coaxed a bit and unless care is taken it will develop into an extremely spoiled child. Blocked in its desires the child will not hesitate to deceive in order to gain its point. If carefully guided and instructed in its early years it should become an upright and outstanding citizen.

If November 17 in your birthday, yours is a vigorous and fiery disposition. An uncontrollable temper must be overcome. Your mind works most rapidly and you probably have a tendency to interrupt people in the midst of a thought and go on from where you stopped them and complete their discourse. This ability to think ahead of the average person, coupled with the fact that you do not hesitate to show it, will cost you the loss of many a good friend. You will succeed in any work where the ability to meet people and to talk persuasively to them are requisites. You think logically, but once you get into action you are often inclined to shoot off on a tangent. You would do well at selling.

If you are a woman, your greatest desire is to have a real home, one that is your own. You will devote all your efforts to making it a place of beauty and joy—a haven where all who enter will find peace and rest and comfort. The men, though they may be "go-getters" and "pushers" on the outside, always take great pride in their homes and there quietly with their loved ones they enjoy the returns from their labors.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

I HEARD an inspiring radio talk by a member of Cleanliness Institute. In it, the exercise of bed making was likened to that of rowing a boat, and listeners were invited to imagine themselves in a boat on a placid river, surrounded by trees, water gurgling, oars swishing and dripping, sun shining, all "right with the world."

Exercise your imagination, if you can, and you will get pleasure and benefit from bed making, just as you would from rowing. How many home builders, I wonder, think of bed making as splendid exercise for trunk and abdomen. Remember this the next time you make your beds, and see if you don't bend forward from the hips (you should) and reach forward and upward with your arms. Your arms and back get exercise, too, as you place the lower sheet with its wrong side next to the mattress pad, wide hem at top, and put the upper sheet wrong side up, then spread the blanket over and tuck part of the upper sheet over the blanket. Remember, abdomen in always. Stretch the arms as you reach, raise the back, bend the elbows.

When you are unmaking the bed, bend from the hips, lift and pull with shoulders and arms. Breathe deeply in one, two, three, four, out to the count of four. Feet should be apart and legs firm.

Your bed made, relax your hands by spreading the fingers several times. Then shake hands from wrists.

If your bedrooms are upstairs, you can make every trip an excellent leg exercise, providing you walk up correctly. Here's how. Arms hanging easily at sides, trunk erect upon hips, bend right knee, lifting and advancing right foot. Place it squarely on step ahead. Straighten your right knee, lifting body upward by pushing with toe of left foot. Now bend left knee, advance left foot, place squarely on step ahead and so on.

And as you walk through the house, remember posture and leg, the weight of your body always being on the advanced foot. Lift chest as you take each step. Step, lift; step, lift. You get the lift by pushing the ball of your backward foot and raising heel off the ground.

Here's a neckline that has something new to say about itself in youthful scarf effect.

The skirt is slenderly fitted. The puffed sleeves help toward giving the smart broadened shoulder idea. The lower part of the sleeves snug the arms in a neat manner, which makes this model suitable for street or afternoons.

Carried out as sketched in black rough crepe silk with the scarf tie of white crepe, it is exceedingly wearable.

Crepe satin in wine-red with the scarf neckline made of the reverse of the crepe, is chic.

LOEW'S PALACE THEATER

FROHMAN REVIEWS COLORFUL CAREER

Tells of Many Hardships and Trials in Actor's Life; Applauded by Crowd.

Memories of the American stage as it was in the "good old days" were brought back to an enthusiastic audience in Constitution Hall last night, as Daniel Frohman, dean of theatrical managers, reviewed his varied and colorful stage career and paraded before the crowded auditorium such personalities as Edwin Booth, Maude Adams and E. H. Sothern.

Sharing in a tremendous ovation at the beginning of Mr. Frohman's talk was Otis Skinner, one of America's foremost actors. Mr. Skinner introduced the great showman.

His association with many of the greatest figures in the English-speaking theatrical world were described in detail by Mr. Frohman. He related his experiences in making and presenting to the public the most successful of American stage stars.

It was Mr. Frohman, in his masterful way of handling problems confronting a "star to be," that brought forth Sothern, and in years gone by rose him to the prominence that today makes his name a by-word in the theatrical world.

"The public must be pleased," Mr. Frohman related, "and it is no easy matter to figure out just what they will accept and what they won't. Perhaps we think a production can not be improved upon, and then, when it reaches the public, we are wrong. They don't want it."

The life of an actor, as described by Mr. Frohman, is filled with the greatest hardships. "But the show must go on, no matter how its cast feels."

The dramatist, novelist and writer of theatrical plots all had their part in Mr. Frohman's talk. He presented each as a part of the stage.

At the conclusion of his address, Mr. Frohman and Mr. Skinner stood side by side to receive the plaudits of the crowd.

NEW CINEMA OFFERINGS

RKO-KEITH'S

"THE MOST DANGEROUS GAME." Cooper-Schoedsack picturization of the Richard Connell prize story, adapted to the screen by James A. Creelman, featuring Leslie Banks, Fay Wray, Joel McCrea and Robert Armstrong. Directed by Ernest B. Schoedsack and Irving Pichel. Reviewed Wednesday night by M. A. McKavitt.

Discovered! An actor who, without the aid of a hideous make-up, nevertheless makes Mr. Boris Karloff look like an amateur where the gentle art of portraying a sadistic demon is concerned.

We refer to Mr. Leslie Banks' splendid characterization of the intellectual primitive "Count Zaroff," the stalking man-hunter in this prize story by Richard Connell.

But hold! We made another discovery. Hollywood has been making us bite our finger-nails and tear our hair out for some time with these "horror" films. We seriously doubted if they could produce another wherein any intelligence or artistry might be blended. But they have done it! Believe it or not, "The Most Dangerous Game" will prove fascinating to the most cynical of movie-goers. Why? Because Leslie Banks does a great job, the photographic treatment is uncommonly fine and the plot is a very unusual one.

Imagine being forced to be hunted! Yes, be the prey or else be tortured on a sharp-spiked machine. Put yourself in the place of some hunted animal who must be cornered sooner or later, for the mad Russian count's island was small, and you will get a fragmentary idea of how Joe McCrea and Fay Wray must have felt with Zaroff hunting them down with bloodhounds and a big-game rifle!

Rousseau, one of the great teachers of primitivism, could find in this picture enough savagery to kill any ideas he might have had about what man might accomplish if he encounters no restraint. If the count were not a cultured gentleman, if he didn't live in a great castle with much of the elegance achievable in an advanced civilization, if there were not an almost dream-like, veiled photography to mitigate the realism of this picture, we are afraid it would be an experience too harrowing for an audience.

Of course, there are times when you think that Fay Wray isn't as terribly frightened as she should be under the circumstances. There are times when the big-game hunter, Rainsford, that is, Joel McCrea, appears to be entirely too much at ease and too little perturbed by the howling of the bloodhounds in the distance, but their inability to be wholly realistic at times is beneficial in that the emotional strain is thus somewhat dissipated.

Here is certainly a unique plot. With a better supporting cast, Leslie Banks might have made this a movie masterpiece. However, everything considered, it is still a big thrill.

The rest of the evening's entertainment was fairly exciting. We enjoyed the comedy "Boys Will Be Boys;" were not particularly entranced by the organlogue featuring "Singin' Sam," entitled "For Old Times' Sake." "Tom and Jerry" proved to be quite a "bully" animated cartoon. An exceptionally fine set of Pathe News shots terminated an enjoyable evening. And we fervently hope that Count Zaroff's pleasant little game doesn't become a fad!

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

THERE is a practice being pursued out in Hollywood that might well be put in effect here, if tentative plans for a local academy of dramatic art are successfully consummated, as they give every promise of being at the moment.

Janet Chandler.

Half a dozen schools, each with its own special enrollment, are in daily session in the capital of the film industry. They are star-training schools, developed to groom new talent. The school idea, which practically all of the major studios are utilizing, was designed to encourage sparks of personality and flashes of genuine acting ability, to build new players for particular roles and to discover the types of characterizations best suited to the various students.

The fortunate youngsters chosen for this intensive coaching for possible starring honors devote most of their day to reading passages from great plays or important pictures, being guided in their efforts by a veteran actor or director.

One of the several instructors is J. M. Kerrigan, a seasoned trouper, in appearance very unscholastic, with his feet on a desk and an old pipe in his mouth, but out of his wealth of experience able to impart to beginners priceless instruction in those rudiments of acting of which they stand most immediately in need—a suggestion here, a little prompting there, a word of encouragement, a bit of reassurance, a gentle correction, precisely the help that is called for at the moment.

Kerrigan's ace, already on the Fox pay roll, in whom he has tremendous confidence as a coming star, is Janet Chandler, a Pine Bluff, Ark., blonde with more than ordinary ability. Her elevation to roles of prominence will be vastly hastened by the West Coast adoption of the training-school method of development and guiding latent talent.

Although perhaps slightly different in its applicability, the proposed Academy of Dramatic Art, when, as and if established by Clifford Brooke, director of the National Theater Players and a stage and motion-picture director of the first rank, in addition to being an actor of parts; Stephen E. Cochran, manager of the National Theater; T. D. Bonneville, a theater executive of lifelong experience, who will serve as the school's executive secretary, and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Greet, of a noted theatrical family, associate directors, will have it within its power to serve a similarly useful purpose in the East.

The proximity of Washington to New York, the center of dramatic production on this continent, and the local operation of the National Theater Players each spring and summer offer prospective students of the art of the stage unusual promise of practical application of the professionalism the academy will be able to impart to them. Furthermore, the personnel of the school's tentative directorate is such as to insure the utmost in expertly specialized practical instruction, stripped of the useless theory and worthless "trimmings" with which such enterprises are so often hedged about.

There is no apparent reason why such an academy as the Messrs. Brooke and Cochran hope to put into early operation in the Capital might not play a tremendously helpful and vital part in the development of the "little theater" idea in Washington, upon which, according to Daniel Frohman, dean of American producers and a current visitor in the city, the future hope of the American theater almost wholly depends.

There is a fruitful and almost virgin field for an enterprise of this character in the National Capital at the present time. By its inevitable contacts, the active sponsors of the idea being who and what they are, the promise of practical benefit to students is almost beyond estimate.

It is to be hoped that last week's somewhat nebulous announcement will soon be substantiated by a positive declaration that the Washington Academy of Dramatic Art is definitely to be established, and that soon.

A chronological survey of the approaching week discloses a rich variety of entertainment for those whose tastes run to concert and theatrical amusement.

Taking the events in order, we find that on Saturday morning the first of a series of six Saturday morning plays will be given in the National Theater by the Children's Theater Group, founded by Mrs. Clare Tree Major. The initial bill will be "Sara Crewe," dramatized from Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett's story by Mrs. Major.

Sunday afternoon Burton Holmes will deliver the second of a series of five Sunday afternoon travel talks in the National Theater at 3 o'clock, the subject being "Bali, the Last Paradise."

Also on Sunday afternoon, at 4, the National Symphony Orchestra, Hans Lindler, conductor, will be heard in another of its popular concerts in Constitution Hall, with Percy Grainger, composer-pianist, the guest artist. This year's concerts find the local symphony by far the best it has ever been.

Tuesday night at 8:45 in Constitution Hall Leopold Stokowski will conduct the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra in the first of its season's concert, the First Symphony of Brahms in C Minor, in four movements, and Mr. Stokowski's arrangement of music from Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde" comprising the program.

On Saturday night, November 26, Lucrezia Bori, soprano of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company, will be heard in a costume recital in Constitution Hall, under the management of Mrs. Wilson-Greene.

On the same night the Lisa Gardiner Dancers will give their autumn festival in Central High School Auditorium, assisted by Michael Nicholoff, former associate of Pavlova and others of comparable art.

The week's attraction at the National Theater, of course, beginning Monday night, will be Miss Ethel Barrymore in a new play, "Encore," by Victor Wittgenstein and Sheridan Gibney, being presented in Washington prior to its New York engagement. Miss Barrymore is appearing under the sponsorship of Arthur Hopkins and will be supported by Siegfreid Rumann, a rising young German leading man; Frank Conroy, Sebastian Braggiotti, Alfred A. Hesse, Josephine Hull, Georgie Drew Mendum, Iris Whitney and Margaret Linck.

Two matinees of this colorful drama, said to deal with the picturesque vagaries of a great European prima donna, will be given during the week—Wednesday and Saturday.

The offerings in the film houses for the week which began at RKO-Keith's yesterday, begins at the Rialto today, and in the other picture theaters tomorrow, are akin to this: Earle, Kay Francis, Miriam Hopkins, and Herbert Marshall, in Ernest Lubitsch's "Trouble in Paradise," and Barney Rapp and his New Englanders headlining the vaudeville; Loew's Fox, Will Rogers and Marian Nixon in "Too Busy to Work," and Will Osborne and his orchestra headlining the vaudeville; RKO-Keith's, Joel McCrea and Fay Wray in "The Most Dangerous Game;" Palace, Marie Dressler and Polly Moran in "Prosperity;" Rialto, Sidney Fox and Eric Linden in "Afraid to Talk;" Columbia, Charles Laughton and Maureen O'Sullivan in "Payment Deferred;" Metropolitan, Paul Muni, in "I Am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang," second week.

If anticipation is still a pleasurable concomitant of theatergoing, some interest should attach to the announcement that the Thanksgiving attraction at RKO-Keith's will be "The Conquerors," costarring Ann Harding and Richard Dix, with Constance Bennett penciled in for the first week in December in "Rock-a-Bye," in which she is supported by Paul Lukas and Joe McCrea.

Following this, Gwili Andre will be presented in her most important role to date in "Secrets of the French Police." It was Miss Andre who made her debut opposite Richard Dix in "The Roar of the Dragon." In her new vehicle she will be supported by Gregory Ratoff and Frank Morgan.

So this is the blizzard just in from the West, eh?

COURT RESTRAINS 7 FILM CONCERNS

'First-Run' Designations on Basis of Ticket Charge Cause Action.

Los Angeles, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—The United States District Court today restrained seven major motion picture producing and distributing concerns from operating a "prize zoning and clearance" system which the Government claimed would be a monopoly in restraint of the trade of independent "first run" picture theaters.

The companies consented to the decree, agreeing without contest to abandon the designation of picture houses as "first-run" and "second-run" theaters on the basis of admission charged.

The corporations concerned are the Fox West Coast Theaters and Fox Film Corporation, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Distributing Corporation, Paramount-Publix Corporation, United Artists Corporation, First National Pictures Distributing Corporation, and Vitagraph, Inc.

The independents asserted the system operated to prevent exhibitors not affiliated with the purported combination from obtaining desirable contracts because of the admission price feature.

Today's court action came on the heels of an order to the United States Department of Justie to conduct a Nation-wide investigation of complaints of independent motion picture theater owners and distributors that the major companies were violating the Sherman antitrust act in the "zoning and clearance" arrangement.

Officials of the local Departmet of Justice offices said they had for weeks been investigating complaints that major film companies and distributors were violating the terms of a consent decree filed August 21, 1930, in which they agreed to abandon a "block system" of booking pictures. The 1930 litigation started as a criminal investigation in the light of the Sherman act, but was changed to an equity suit.

HOUGHTON IN TRIPLE TIE FOR MID-SOUTH TITLE

This Morning with Shirley L. Povich

A SHARP revision downward in the figures on big-league players' contracts for 1933 is as certain as nightfall.

The fellows who have been drawing wages in excess of $5,000 will have few talking points when contract time rolls around, and for every argument they can present, the big league magnates can show a new set of figures, all in red ink.

Baseball has been the last of the industries to adjust itself to the depression. In fact, the game has not yet begun the retrenchment policies that have enabled other industries to weather the financial storm. The clubs still travel in the same big-league style, transportation expenses are just a trifle lower, and salary contracts last year were written in the hope that 1932 would bring relief from the famine of 1931 rather than in the belief that the time had come to adjust the outlay to the times.

Ruppert's Beer Business Looking Up.

With his beer business looking up, Col. Jake Ruppert may be inclined, perhaps, to give favorable consideration to the salary demands of Babe Ruth when the two men go into solemn session some time during the winter to discuss the matter of renewing the Babe's $70,000 wage.

But the colonel was quoted last year to the effect that Ruth had received his last salary of $70,000 proportions. Ruppert's dealings with Ruth will be watched by other big league magnates as a harbinger of the times, and the slash that Ruth suffers will have direct effect on the terms written into the contracts of other high-salaried stars.

The Babe long since has admitted that his salaries, ranging as high as $80,000, were founded on his magnetism at the gate, rather than his performance on the field, and he is content to rest his case on those grounds.

Boston Berth for Ruth Unlikely.

The rumors heard before the close of the 1931 season that Ruth would go to Boston as manager of the Red Sox seem incredible to this department. Ruth as an outfielder and home-run hitter of the pennant-winning Yankees rates twice the wage that a manager of the Red Sox would receive even though it be Ruth himself.

Walter Johnson and the Washington Club learned long ago that Johnson as bench manager of the Nats was not the drawing car of the days when the Big Train was working every fourth game on the mound. Ruth's fame might not expire as a manager, but the fans would hardly turn out in the same numbers to watch Ruth direct a team from the bench.

The Babe, though, has confounded the experts for several years by refusing to capitulate to advancing age and weakening legs that seasons ago threatened his retirement. He's not the player he used to be, but he is much more than a shadow of the old Ruth and Manager McCarthy has no worries concerning the Yankees' right field berth.

Babe Still Greatest Showman in Game.

Ruth is still the game's greatest single attraction. The Babe bristles with color and showmanship. There was an incident out West a few years ago that illustrated why Ruth is Ruth.

The Yankees were playing an exhibition game and Ruth hadn't been able to hit a ball out of the infield in three times at bat. The boos were loud and long as he went to the plate again. He banged the first pitch into the blue out of the park and then stopped at the plate to tell the umpire:

"I'll show them muggs I can still hit 'em."

That home run, meaningless as it was, meant as much to the Babe at the time as any he had hit in a world series.

Notre Dame Manager Expects Like Crowd for Army Game.

News and Notes of Other Teams Along Football Front.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Notre Dame's football team may play before 160,000 people in its games with the Navy and Army this season.

J. Arthur Haley, business manager of Notre Dame athletics, today said that 80,000 were expected to watch the Ramblers battle Navy at the Cleveland Stadium Saturday, while a complete sell-out of another 80,000 was assured for the game against Army at Yankee Stadium, New York, November 26.

"The Army-Notre Dame game is one of the few major football games of the country to be sold out this year in advance," Haley said. "We have plenty of good seats left for the game with Navy, but may have an 80,000 crowd there with good weather. An excess of 60,000 seats already have been sold for the Navy game."

Pittsburgh (A.P.).—The shake-up at Pitt assumed broader proportions today as Coach Jock Sutherland indicated two more first stringers would join the three named yesterday on the sidelines as the Panthers line up against Carnegie Tech Saturday.

Mike Sebastian, half back, and Ted Dailey, end, were added to the list that already included Paul Cuba, guard; Cheeso Onder, a tackle, and Bob Hogan, quarter back. Of the five, only Dailey is suffering from injuries.

In the place of this quintet probably will be Harvey Booker at end; Johnny Meredith at guard; Kenny Ormiston at tackle; Miller Munjas at quarter, and Capt. Paul Reider at right half. There is a possibility Lou Wojcihovski may beat out Booker at left end.

New York (A.P.).—Columbia began to taper off for the Syracuse game today, cutting its practice short after an aerial drill in a drizzling rain, followed by a brief defensive dummy scrimmage. Montgomery, Linehan and Tomb tossed the passes.

West Point, N. Y.—Army again practiced secretly and the coaches wouldn't even say what players had participated in the rainy-day drill.

Ithaca, N. Y.—The Cornell varsity scrimmaged for the first time since the Dartmouth game, the regulars taking the defense against the scrubs' Pennsylvania plays. Defense against passes was stressed.

New York—New York University combined a drill on its own passes with defense work against Carnegie Tech aerials. Bob McNamara, Joe Lamark, Jim Tanguay and John White did the passing, while the other backs tried to break them up.

New Haven, Conn.—Yale's entire list of injured players, including Joe Johnson, regular center, who suffered a slight concussion in the Army game, reported for action. The Elis split their time between polishing up their plays and a defensive dummy scrimmage in which Harvard passes were stressed.

Cambridge, Mass.—Harvard went through its entire football repertoire, starting with fundamentals and finishing with an offensive rehearsal and a demonstration of Yale plays. Reports indicated that Caffey Nevin, injured half back, probably will not be able to play against the Elis.

Worcester, Mass.—The Holy Cross varsity and second teams held one of the stiffest scrimmages of the season and the regulars showed vastly improved blocking.

Providence, R. I.—Brown got down to business in its preparation for the Colgate game, scrimmaging for two hours. Half was devoted to defensive drill and the scrubs scored two touchdowns with the Red Raiders' lateral pass plays.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Purdue's confidence that it will defeat Indiana Saturday to round out a schedule without a setback arose tonight as it was indicated that Paul Pardonner, injured quarterback, will be able to start the game. Meanwhile, workmen at Ross-Ade Stadium set about clearing seven inches of snow from the top of the tarpaulin which protects the gridiron turf.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Aroused by the annual rivalry engendered by a battle with Purdue, the Indiana University football varsity today showed its best drive of the week, and smothered the attempts of a freshman eleven working with Boilermaker plays. Otto Kuss proved a strong point behind the varsity line on defense.

Chicago, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Coach A. A. Stagg took his Chicago team outside for a workout today for the first time this week but soon brought the players into the fieldhouse again to run over Wisconsin plays. The squad was in high spirits.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Howard Johnson and Robert Green were promoted by Coach Bob Zuppke to guard and center, respectively, on Illinois' varsity football team, replacing Van Dyke and Bloom. Hoeft was at tackle in the absence of Cummings.

Maryland A. C. Plays Marion Team Sunday

The undefeated Marions, who have not been scored on this season, will engage their bitterest rivals—the Maryland A. C.—Sunday on the Gonzaga Field at 2:30 o'clock. The Marions have won five straight and hold a 6-6 decision over the Marylanders. A victory for the latter team would give it a chance for the unlimited title.

The Marions will meet the Mohawks on December 4.

MAT THRILLS PROMISED TONIGHT

Steele-Dusek Feature Good Card at Auditorium.

BEHEMOTHS of the bone-bending trade will labor tonight at the Washington Auditorium when Prof. Joe Turner stages the quarter-final round of a new championship tournament. Tonight's big bout matches up Ray Steele and Rudy Dusek.

The winner probably will meet Gino Garibaldi in the semifinal round, and the winner of that match may play Jim Londos in the finals.

Dusek vs. Steele represents one of the best matches in the game. Big, rough boys, they trade some of the most genuine swats to be seen in wrestling, and when they throw a rival they throw him. They met once before, nearly two years ago, and the affair went to a gruelling two-hour draw. They have encountered each other few, if any times, since then.

Both Have Potent Elbow Jabs.

Dusek's favorite hold is a thigh-cracking cradle-rock, rated the only unbreakable hold in the game. Steele is a sort of aggressive Jim Londos, bigger and stronger and generally capable of putting on a more spectacular show than the champion. He wins matches with airplane spins. Both have potent elbow jabs.

The preliminaries are the strongest in months. A return issue of a grand old rassling act—Chief White Feather vs. Tiger Nelson—is one of the subsidiary features. Upon the occasion of their last meeting, the Chief let fly a great haymaking right that connected on the Tiger's jaw and knocked his liver spots loose. The finish caused Promoter Turner to vault over the ropes and give the boys a serious talking to.

Gino Garibaldi meets another slugger in Milo Steinborn; Joe Stecher, indolent former champion, takes on another 230-pounder in Pat McKay, and Joe Cox, promising newcomer, has to do with Floyd Marshall.

Women are admitted free.

First eye-gouge at 8:30 o'clock.

Alexandria High Basketers Busy

Business Host Dec. 13 in Opener of 22-Game Schedule.

Alexandria, Va., Nov. 16.—Alexandria High School basket ball team will play 22 games this season, it was announced today by Athletic Director Maurice Given.

The inaugural contest of the 1932-33 campaign will be played in Washington with Business High on December 13, while the initial home game will be played here with Eastern High on Saturday, December 21.

Dickie Clift is captain of this year's quint. Yesterday more than 30 players reported to Given at Armory hall. The only veterans on the squad are Reds Jackson, Jack Moore and Embrey. They will fill the vacancies of Bruin and Horton.

Given says ten new faces will appear with the squad immediately after the football season. He is confident of a successful campaign on the woodways.

December 13, Business, away; 17, Eastern, home; 21, Western, away; 23, Central, home.

January 7, St. John, home; 10, Herndon, away; 13, Business, home; 17, St. John's, away; 20, Manassas, home; 25, Eastern, away; 27, W. & L., home; 31, Manassas, away.

February 3, Fredericksburg, away; 4, Lee-Jackson, home; 10, Hopewell, away; 11, Mount St. Joseph, home; 14, W. & L., away; 17, Fredericksburg, home; 21, Maryland Frosh, away; 24, Herndon, home.

March 1, Lee-Jackson, away; 3, Western, home.

ENGLAND, WALES BOOTERS TIE.

Cardiff, Wales, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—England and Wales played to a scoreless tie today in their annual soccer match. Neither has been defeated in international competition this year.

MIDDIES SEE MOVIES OF IRISH

1931 California Contest Shown; Practice Is Light.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 16.—Breaking the monotony of the hard grind of preparations for the Notre Dame game at Cleveland on Saturday, practice of the Annapolis Midshipmen was curtailed to less than an hour this afternoon, and the players were afforded the diversion of attending the movies at a local theater, where the program featured the grid game between the University of Southern California and Notre Dame last year. This game went down in athletic history as one of the greatest grid contests ever played, and the pictures were enjoyed by the Middies immensely.

The practice period was devoted exclusively to signals and formations, with a brief space of dummy scrimmaging against the scrubs, designed to further perfect a crop of new formations. Gordon Chung Hoon, Hawaiian triple threat half back, who suffered a slight leg injury in the Maryland game last Saturday, rejoined the squad and went through the drill. He will be in fine shape for the battle with the South Bend Ramblers.

Navy Players in Top Shape.

In fact, Head Coach Rip Miller pronounced all of his charges in tip top shape, and there is little or no danger of any setbacks, as the final tapering off practice tomorrow will be extremely light. The squad will entrain tomorrow evening and is due to reach Cleveland at 9:30 o'clock Friday morning. A final workout will be held on the playing field of the Municipal Stadium in the afternoon.

Coach Miller said today his charges are in a fighting frame of mind and ready to give their best. The mentor ventured to forecast on the probable outcome of the game, dismissing a question by referring to the manpower at Notre Dame that the Naval Academy is unable to match. In view of comparisons Navy hardly can be given a chance of winning. But there is an undercurrent of feeling here that the Tars may be able to hold their own against Notre Dame's ground play, which would mean that the major portion of the battle will be waged in the air, since the Tars have been put through an intensive drive in overhead play, both defensively and offensively.

Carnera-Gallagher Baltimore Bout Off

Because of excessive demands by Primo Carnera's manager, the boxing match between Marty Gallagher, Washington heavyweight, and the giant Italian, scheduled for Monday night at the 104th Medical Regiment Armory in Baltimore, was called off yesterday by the Dundee Athletic Club.

Carnera's manager, it was stated, wanted 40 per cent of the gate receipts as the foreigner's share. In view of the heavy expenses the club found it impossible to meet the Italian manager's demands, it was announced. The entire program was canceled at the same time.

KANSAS STATE BOOKED.

A challenge has been hurled at the Anacostia Eagles by the 125-pound Centennial A. C., with the game to be played away from Fairlawn. The Eagles' manager is requested to take notice.

G. U. Prepares Tricks for Bucknell

Hagerty Expects Improved Line Play by Hilltoppers.

Kelly Recovers, Ready for Game Against Bison Saturday.

AN improved Georgetown football team is promised for next Saturday afternoon when Coach Jack Hagerty sends the Hoyas on to the field at Griffith Stadium to meet Bucknell, and perhaps also to end Georgetown's losing streak, which by now has reached the horrific succession of five games.

Showing undeniable improvement yesterday, particularly in line play, the Hilltoppers went through a brisk workout in which the regulars sprung their backs loose almost at will against a tough second squad, in which Line Coach Mush Dubofsky was playing.

Although Wilmer Bradley is being counted upon heavily Saturday, the violent plunges of the big full back will not be the sum total of Georgetown's attack. For a long period yesterday Bradley was given a rest and stress was laid on a succession of trick plays, not unlike the wily thrusts of the Notre Dame system.

G. U. Prepares Tricks For Bucknell.

One play stressed yesterday may baffle Bucknell. An intricate end around end affair, produced with a short forward pass, looms as a real threat if the Georgetown line is able to hold out those battering Bucknell Bisons. Part of the play is Al Kelly, whose workout yesterday was about the most pleasing he has turned in this year. The ankle injury he suffered just before the Western Maryland game seems to be fully recovered.

Bucknell was scouted last week by Roy Bordeau, former Hoya full back, who prophesied a victory for his team Saturday. The Bisons have lost four games, this season, more than any Bucknell team in recent football history, but is confident of coming out of the red against Georgetown. Last week the Bisons lost a heartbreaker to Washington and Jefferson, 14 to 0, although registering eighteen first downs to W. and J.'s four.

Reznichak and Vetter are the best of the Bucknell backs, and while neither achieves the greatness of Clark Hinkle, both should give Georgetown plenty of trouble. Bucknell has beaten Georgetown the last four times the teams have played. Their most memorable win was a 3-to-2 victory over the otherwise unbeaten Hoya team of 1925. Last year Bucknell, unbeaten, nosed out Georgetown, 7 to 0. Games between the two always produce fireworks.

Colorado Player Dies; College Cancels Game

Colorado Springs, Col., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Ralph McClure, 21-year-old Colorado College football star, died today of injuries received in last Saturday's game with the University of Colorado. McClure suffered a fracture of cervical vertebrae when he tackled George Grosvenor, university half balk. He leaves a wife and a six-month-old baby.

The remaining games on Colorado College's football schedule were canceled by the athletic board today.

Choice Rewards for Grid Fans in Contest

THE choicest prizes of all The Post's football selections contests are offered this week in the current competition for fans of the District and suburbs, who are invited to try their hands at experting.

To the man, woman or child who selects correctly the greatest number of winners among the twelve games listed below, The Post offers four box seats to the George Washington-Oklahoma game on Thanksgiving Day, the outstanding local football attraction of the latter half of the season.

To the entrant who finishes second in the contest, The Post will present two choice seats, with the third-place winner being the recipient of one ticket. The G. W.-Oklahoma game promises to attract the largest football gathering in the Capital this season, according to pregame indications.

Only once during the four weekly contests has a winner succeeding in selecting the victor in every game. Should one or more ties occur, the contest will be decided on the basis of closest scores.

Merely clip the list of games submitted below, insert your opinion of the probable scores, attach your name and address and forward your selections to the Football Contest Editor of The Washington Post before midnight Friday.

C. U. Is Rated As Equal of Duquesne

Battle of Wits Looms Tomorrow Night at Ball Park.

Both Teams Disciples of Rockne's Bold, Shifty Attack.

A CLASH of football wits between two products of that renowned football foundry, Notre Dame University, will accrue on the bruised turf at Griffith Stadium tomorrow night, when Catholic University and Duquesne meet in what promises to be one of the gridiron treats of the year.

Roaring through their respective schedules at breakneck speed, the two clubs come down to tomorrow night's battle with sterling records, both of them convinced that their interpretation of the system of playing football outlined by Knute Rockne is better than the other's.

Dutch Bergman, coach of Catholic University, was an All-American half back on Notre Dame in 1919. Elmer Layden, full back on the famous Four Horsemen of Notre Dame, also won All-American distinction. Their two teams are models of the Notre Dame style of play.

Wits Likely to Decide Game.

Wits probably will decide the game, for physically there is little to choose between the squads. Both have culled their players largely from the rock-ribbed Slav and Gaelic tribes. Both clubs have two outstanding backs apiece. C. U. has its Tommy Whelan and Buster Sheary, while Duquesne boasts of Silvio Zaninelli and Larry Sullivan. Both teams go in for shifty laterals, dangerous passes and similar spectacular plays.

Much local interest surrounds Sullivan, the smallest triple threat in the college football business. He is 5 feet 2, and about that wide. Zaninelli is one of the best kickers in the East, and his toe may produce the only difference between the teams, for C. U. is notably poor in its kicking since the loss of Charley McVean.

Three Cardinal regulars, who have been ailing since the battering received against Holy Cross, were back in uniform yesterday and raring to go. They are Vinny Praatz, one of the most capable ends in the city; Jack Stapleton, reserve end, and Jimmy Lyons, regular guard, who runs fine interference for Whelan & Co.

C. U.'s First Big Bowl Contest.

C. U. is all pepped up over the game. It is their first big home game of the season, has been officially designated as the school's homecoming game, and the record-breaking advance sale and location of the fray at Griffith Stadium has whipped the undergraduates into such a fine frenzy of patriotism that they are collecting kindling for a bonfire and wagering lunch-money until next August.

C. U. and Duquesne have met three times, Duquesne won the first two games, and then dropped an upset affair last year to the locals by a 20-to-12 score.

Pharamond II Bought By Hal Price Headley

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Hal Price Headley, Lexington breeder today paid $7,500 for the imported stallion Pharamond II, the highest price of the three-day thoroughbred sales which ended here tonight. The stallion was consigned to the sale by the Eastley stud.

Five hundred and two horses were sold during the three days for $97,560, an average of $194.34 per head. Thomas Carr Piatt, of Lexington, tonight paid $1,000 for a weanling colt by Pharamond II and out of Clonakilty, dam of Mike Hall, famed stake winner.

Pitt Drops Army Game, Lists Navy

Minnesota Also Appears on Panthers' Grid Schedule for Next Season.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Pitt's 1933 football schedule, announced today, reveals that the Panthers will not play Army or Ohio State next year, but instead will meet Navy and Minnesota.

The card also includes a game with Washington and Jefferson, which will open the season and will be the first with the Presidents since 1929.

One Saturday—November 18—is open, but Pitt athletic officials said Army, Ohio State or Penn. all on the 1932 schedule, will not be carded. A big Eastern or Southern school probably will be met on that date, they said.

The schedule follows:

September 30, Washington and Jefferson at Pitt Stadium.

October 7, West Virginia at Morgantown; October 14, Navy at Pitt Stadium; October 21, Minnesota at Minneapolis; October 29, Notre Dame at South Bend.

November 4, Nebraska at Pitt Stadium; November 11, Duquesne at Pitt Stadium; November 18, open (tentatively); November 25, open (permanently); November 30, Carnegie Tech at Pitt Stadium (Thanksgiving).

CENTRAL 6-0 VICTOR OVER GONZAGA

Kocsis Scores Near Finish to Climax 80-Yard Drive.

IN one of the most resounding upsets of the scholastic football season, Central defeated Gonzaga yesterday, 6-0, at Central stadium in a charity game that drew but a handful of spectators.

Playing with organized zeal for the first time this year, after a miserable showing in the high school series, Central looked like the Central teams of old yesterday as it rammed over its winning touchdown at the conclusion of a brilliant 80-yard drive in the beginning of the fourth quarter, after holding Gonzaga scoreless after the Purple had advanced within scoring distance near the end of the half.

Central's touchdown was scored by Frank Kocsis, who was pulled up out of the line and made a full back, after Doug Dunlap, assisted by Swift, had carried the ball on beautiful end runs and off tackle plays from their own 20-yard line to Gonzaga's 10-yard line. It took Kocsis four big bumps into the stubborn Gonzaga line to put the goal across. His placement kick was blocked.

Gonzaga Threatens In Second.

Gonzaga threatened near the end of the second period, after the first period had found the teams unable to advance. With just a few minutes left of the second quarter Hurley uncoiled a 20 yard pass to Carr, who ran 40 yards more to Central's 5-yard line. Sweeney was held in several bucks at the Central line, and an uncompleted pass into the end zone stopped the drive.

Mann played a fine defensive game for Gonzaga, hauling down the rampaging Dunlap near the end of the game after the dynamic Central player had already run 50 yards and appeared certain to score.

The result of the game was as much of a surprise as the memorable 1925 victory of Gonzaga over Central.

Bowen Annexes Turkey Tourney at Rock Creek

Bobby Bowen, 20-year-old golfer, yesterday staged a spectacular comeback to defeat John Connelly, 1 up, in the finals of the championship flight of the turkey tournament sponsored by the Rock Creek Golf Club.

After being 4 down to Connelly going to the tenth, Bowen braced in the concluding nine holes played on "B" course, shooting a 35, while his opponent soared into high figures.

In addition to winning the championship, Bowen will be awarded a turkey. Play in three other flights will be concluded this week, Al Price, pro, announced.

CELTICS IN PRACTICE.

Manager Buck Grier has requested all members of the St. Mary's Celtics football team to report for practice tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Terminal Field, preparatory to the game Sunday with the Mohawk Athletic Club.

GRID TITLE AT STAKE.

What has been advertised as the 150-pound football championship of the District will be played Sunday at Seat Pleasant at 2:30 o'clock when the Terry Service Co. Team tackles the Brookland A. C. Terry's eleven won the cup four out of five years.

The Brookland outfit will pin its hopes on Lassise and McNally, while the Terries are counting on Tonker, J. Scolnon and Dearborn to bear the brunt of the attack.

MERIDIANS PRACTICE.

In preparation for the game with the Seaman Gunners Sunday, the Meridians, 150-pound team, will practice tonight at Georgia avenue and Gallatin street at 7:30 o'clock.

District Pro Has Rounds Of 71, 72

Will Split $750 Purse With Al Watrous, Henry Picard.

Phil Perkins Among 5 Finishing Stroke Behind Lead.

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—A couple of veterans of golf's money campaigns, Al Watrous, of Detroit, and Al Houghton, of the Kenwood Club, Washington, and a 23-year-old youngster, Henry Picard, of Charleston, S. C., wound up in a triple tie for first place in the Mid-South open golf tournament today.

Each shot a 143 for the 36 holes, but the two veterans played steady golf for their scores, while Picard romped over the course in 68 this morning and faded to a 75 in the afternoon. Watrous put together rounds of 72 and 71, and Houghton did likewise.

The three leaders split the prize money for the first three places, getting $250 each, and decided they would not play off for the title.

Watrous Leading Money Winner.

As a result of finishing in a tie for the top today, Watrous became the big money winner for the two days of campaigning over the difficult No. 2 course here.

Yesterday he teamed with Tommy Armour, of Detroit, to win the best ball preliminary, which gave the winning team $500.

Five players finished a stroke back of the three leaders and drew down $20 each. They were Ernie Ball, of Atlanta; Phil Perkins, of Long Beach, N. Y.; Henry Biuci, of Flushing, N. Y.; Abe Espinosa, of Chicago, and Denny Shute, of Columbus, Ohio.

Walter Hagen, the Detroit veteran, and four others finished with 145s. Bracketed with Hagen in this group were Whitfey Cox, of Brooklyn; Johnny Farrell of Mamaroneck, N. Y.; Willie MacFarlane, of Tuckahoe, N. Y., and Charlie Rice, of Chicago.

JACK HIGH BEATS HALCYON IN BURCH MEMORIAL AT BOWIE

Feature Won By Favorite In Stretch

Catches Halcyon in Closing Stages Despite 126 Pounds.

Stepsister Scores in Opener; Mad Frump Easy Winner.

By WALTER HAIGHT.

JACK HIGH was too much horse for the field that sought the W. P. Burch Memorial Handicap purse at Bowie yesterday. The veteran son of John P. Grier and Priscilla gave away from 25 to 11 pounds to the five horses which competed and appeared to win as Leishman, the money jockey, desired. Halcyon, a C. V. Whitney representative, was second, with St. Brideaux, left at the post, third.

Halcyon jumped to the front as Starter Milton sent them away, but Jack High was following closely. Robertson kept his mount in front of Jack High and, on the swing for the stretch, Halcyon drew away to a two-length lead and Jack High's backers began to feel uneasy. However, Leishman bided his time and at the sixteenth pole gave the big horse a taste of the whip and the race was over. Jack High slid past Halcyon to win by a half length. In the meanwhile, St. Brideaux, which had to shake off an assistant starter at the break, was making up a world of ground and finished ahead of tired horses to take the show.

Crowd of 10,000 Sees Sport.

Some 10,000 witnessed the program, which was recorded as the official opening of the meeting after two charity days. Both track and weather conditions were ideal for racing.

One Chance, from the group trained by Maxie Hirsch, won the opening 6-furlong dash for 2-year-olds from Von Sion, with Colonist, the favorite, third. Von Sion led from the break to the stretch turn, where One Chance, which had been forcing the pace, went to the front never to be headed. Colonist closed a gap to account for the show end.

Stepsister defeated the fillies that went to the post seeking the second race purse. Alfred Robertson rode the C. V. Whitney representative, a daughter of the famous Broomstick, home in front of the fast-charging Welcome Gift. Third money went to Knight's Gal, the most important half of the Audley Farm entry. Robertson brought Stepsister through the field to win by two lengths and a half. Adorland, Sugar Cake, Happy Knot and Nituma were all prominent in the early running.

Bostwick Gives Pompeius Great Ride.

G. H. (Pete) Bostwick, the millionaire gentleman rider, finally had the laugh on the wise boys. Pete had the mount on Pompeius, the horse that figured in the third race. But Bostwick's flat riding in Maryland has not been up to par and the crowd let the crack son of Pompey get 10 to 1 at one stage of the betting. To the amazement of the majority of the betters, Bostwick not only rode a clever race, but came from behind to take the purse—something that the race writers didn't believe he could do. Second money went to Fortunate Youth, a long shot, with Gold Step third. There was a splurge of late betting on Pompeius and he paid a $9.70 mutuel. Claps and boos greeted Bostwick as he weighed out.

Mad Frump and Albert Robertson completed a double for the C. V. Whitney interests, but they gave their backers a few anxious moments during the last sixteenth, when Microphone looked like he would take the money. In fact, after the numbers were hung up giving Mad Frump the verdict, many still thought Microphone had won.

Mad Frump in Great Stretch Duel.

It was as brilliant a stretch duel as has been unfolded here in some time. For the second straight race, Starter Milton and his assistants bungled the break. This time it was Springsteel that was practically left. However, the Labrot horse finished third. Masked Knight, which set most of the pace, stopped when collared by Mad Frump and Microphone.

The Doctor won the sixth race from Buck Hero and Prize Day in a stretch drive. The seventh brought the disqualification of D. C. Sands' My Fergus, grouped in the field, after the My Own colt won. The ruling moved Impeach into the winner's circle, and The Crane and Master Stroke went up a notch. My Fergus impeded Impeach at the sixteenth pole.

DEAR AL: BOWIE RACE TRACK.

There are more than 200 jockeys at this track and, naturally, a number of fine riders are not even getting close to horses these days. Among those who get only occasional mounts is Harry Richards, a young fellow who has been riding for ten years, although only 24 years old. Both Lance Cheney, the former steeplechase jockey who has taken over his book, and the boy, believe that he is riding better now than when he won The Dixie with Mike Hall, the Walden with Mars and the Tia Juana Derby with John F. Richards rode several winners at New York last summer. Turf writers who saw him in action on the Metropolitan courses are loud in their praise of his riding. He told me yesterday that he expected to get a break soon. In the meanwhile, Richards is keeping in top shape. His father taught him to ride at the old Gravesend track near Brooklyn. His grandfather was Aleck Agilvi, a leading owner and bookmaker, in the early nineties.

Lest we forget, I had five winners yesterday. BILL.

FIRST RACE—LOWER TEN has been to the races four times and her last three have found her in possession of the show money. Appears to be the spot for this one to graduate. Hanford is likely to have the mount. ORILEY and ORAL for the rest. STANDOUT is dangerous, but appears to be forced out of action.

SECOND RACE—PROTRACTOR is at top shape and appears to have a shade on these. GRAND PRINCE and UP to battle it out for the show money. BRIGHT BIRD loves this track and might be the upsetter.

THIRD RACE—SUPERCHARGE has been out twice since coming to Maryland and showed me something that has forced me to put her on top of these. MERRY CHATTER and KATE appear to be the best of the others.

FOURTH RACE—CON AMORE is asked to beat these and I believe it's the one to beat, but I'm sending my two bucks for the price. For sheer gameness, there's nothing here to compare with the mare. RISQUE for the show.

FIFTH RACE—FINGAL did it for me at Laurel and I'm taking this one in this mighty tough race. FLAMBOROUGH had to shake off an assistant starter recently and still won. ESPINETTA'S closing speed may take the show.

SIXTH RACE—PENCADER would prefer an off course, but can also take care of himself on a fast track. Appears to have a slight margin over HAPPEN and BANDERLOG.

SEVENTH RACE — MARCASITE looks like the class in the final. BUBOLA has finally reached a spot where she may win, but I'm taking her second. Third money to LUCKY RACKET.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ONE CHANCE, $9.70, $4.70, $2.80; VON SION, $6.50, $3.10; COLONIST, $2.40.

ONE CHANCE, away in the first flight and kept in near pursuit of VON SION, responded to stiff pressure in the final five-sixteenths mile, assumed command inside the final furlong and came out smartly. VON SION, displaying good speed, was hard hustled to hold command while saving ground, but weakened fast in the final furlong. COLONIST suffered from crowding soon after the start, was eased back to come to the outside, and closed gamely. SHAPFELL closed willingly when securing racing room. LOUANDRE raced into contention, but faltered fast in the late stages. COURT MARTIAL began slowly. PRESAGE went wide all the way. WISE KID stopped badly.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; allowances. The Genteel. For 2-year-old fillies. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 1:40. Off at 1:44½. Winner, C. V. Two-dollar mutuels paid—STEPSISTER, $18.00, $8.80, $4.80; WELCOME GIFT, $10.10, $6.30; KNIGHT'S GAL (Audley Farm entry), $4.50.

STEPSISTER, outpaced for the first half mile, worked her way to the leaders straightaway, and, responding to urging full of run, opened up a length lead and held it in reserve at the end. WELCOME GIFT moved up fast entering the home stretch and closed with good courage. KNIGHT'S GAL broke slowly, circled her field and held on gamely. NITUMA, used up racing with the early leaders, faltered badly in the stretch run. FLIGHTY ANNA lacked early speed. SUGAR CAKE, HAPPY KNOT and ADORLAND were rushed off their feet early and they weakened fast.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—POMPEIUS, $9.70, $6.50, $4.80; FORTUNATE YOUTH, $17.00, $11.00; GOLD STEP, $10.80.

POMPEIUS, shaken up early, reached contention when approaching the home stretch, came between the leaders when straightened away and finished fast to get up in the final sixteenth mile. FORTUNATE YOUTH, hard ridden the entire trip, closed willingly when placed to punishment. GOLD STEP, going in his best form, forced a steady pace and held on well to outstay MORSEL. Latter, slower than usual to settle in his stride, came around the outside and finished full of run. NOVELIST had plenty of speed for five furlongs and weakened. CABEZO was never a factor. PANCHO LOPEZ and FINITE were used up early.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,400. The W. P. Burch Memorial Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good for all but St. Brideaux from gates. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 2:47. Off at 2:48. Winner, D. Widener's ch. h. (6), by John P. Grier—Priscilla. Trained by W. F. Mulholland. Value to winner, $950; second, $250; third, $150; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48, 1:13 2-5, 1:40, 1:46 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—JACK HIGH, $3.80, $2.70, $2.20; HALCYON, $3.00, $2.60; ST. BRIDEAUX, $2.50.

JACK HIGH, taken under restraint for six furlongs, went wide while following HALCYON, was urged mildly during the stretch run and went into command rapidly approaching the finish to have something in reserve. HALCYON, showing good speed while being rated in front, responded when challenged but was unable to stall off the winner. ST. BRIDEAUX dwelt and was the last to break, galloped along gamely and closed an immense gap on his own courage. PARDEE, well placed, was not good enough when put to pressure. VALENCIENNES, propped slightly when the break came, was away slowly and was never a factor. SNAPBACK appeared to labor the entire journey.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; allowances. The Combat. For 3-year-olds. Start good and fast for all but Springsteel from gates. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 3:31. Off at 3:32, at once. Winner, C. V. Whitney's dk. b. c. (3), by Mad Hatter—Frumpery. Trained by T. J. Healey. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MAD FRUMP, $3.90, $2.90, $2.20; MICROPHONE, $5.00, $3.20; MASKED KNIGHT, $3.30.

MAD FRUMP, taken under early restraint, went up on the outside to reach the leaders, moved into a brief lead and was hard-ridden on to withstand MICROPHONE. Latter, a strong factor from the beginning, remained on the inside from midway of the back stretch, and was wearing the winner down at every stride approaching the finish. MASKED KNIGHT moved clear after five furlongs, but could not keep pace with the first two when collared. SPRINGSTEEL broke sluggishly and would not extend himself until the final half mile. REHOBOTH had no excuses.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:49. Off at 3:49½. Winner, H. Two-dollar mutuels paid—THE DOCTOR, $5.20, $3.00, $2.40; BUCK HERO, $4.50, $2.90; PRIZE DAY, $2.60.

THE DOCTOR, kept in the first division and under mild reserve for six furlongs, came around the leaders when moving into the home stretch and drew out easily. BUCK HERO gained steadily in the final half mile, finished gamely, but could not reach the winner. PRIZE DAY followed ROD RACK closely, gained command when ready, but could not withstand the first two. RECEDE saved ground where possible, and closed willingly. ANGRY LASS closed stoutly from a slow beginning. PEACE LADY raced in spots. VANDAL and BETON tired, as did ROD RACK.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:21. Off at 4:25½. Winner, G. D. Two-dollar mutuels paid—IMPEACH, $13.00, $6.50, $3.80; THE CRANE, $7.30, $4.50; MASTER STROKE, $3.90.

MY FERGUS entered contention with a rush when approaching the far turn, crossed over sharply on IMPEACH when midway on the home stretch and held on stoutly, life was disqualified for a foul. IMPEACH, a strong factor the entire trip, was forced to be taken up sharply when the winner impeded his passage, was straightened out quickly and finished strong. THE CRANE, forwardly placed, finished with good speed. MASTER STROKE made up ground rapidly in the final drive. BIG PLAY followed the pace closely, but weakened when put to a drive. TUFFY G. closed some ground. DESPOIL was outrun. BYLONA refused to break.

244 RECORDS SHATTERED IN 1932

14 New Swimming Marks Claimed by Eleanor Holm.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—The Olympic year in the United States produced a total of 244 record-breaking performances by American and foreign athletes, the record committee of the Amateur Athletic Union revealed today when it completed the task of tabulating the year's applications for record recognition, which will be submitted to the A. A. U. convention here November 20-22.

Due, apparently, to the stimulus of the Olympic competition, an unusually large number of the marks were made in outdoor track and field competition, and for the first time in several years, the applications from men athletes outnumber those from women, 154 to 71. Twelve applications have been received for track and field marks which better the accepted world's records.

Miss Holm Claims 14 Records.

Eleanor Holm, of New York, displaced Helene Madison, of Seattle, as the leading record-breaker. She recorded a total of fourteen assorted record-breaking performances. Leo Sexton, of New York, former Georgetown University star, who is Olympic shotput champion, was only one behind. His list included four heaves with the 16-pound shot that beat the listed world mark of 52 feet 7½ inches.

Clarence (Buster) Crabbe, Los Angeles swimmer, applied for nine records; Miss Madison listed eight; Ben Eastman, who turned in two world-record half-miles, had seven; Babe Didrickson, Dallas, six; Stella Walsh, Cleveland, five, and Gene Genzke, Pottstown, Pa.; Katherine Rawls, Hollywood, Fla.; Paul DeBruyn, New York, and Emmett Toppino, New Orleans, four each.

The list of world-record performances included Eddie Tolan's 10.3 seconds for 100 meters; Bill Carr's mark 46.2 seconds for the 400-meter run; Eastman's records of 1 minute 50.9 seconds and 1 minute 51.3 seconds for the 880, and of 46.4 seconds for the 440 yards, and two great relay performances by United States teams, which negotiated 400 meters in 40 seconds flat and 1,600 meters in 3 minutes 8.2 seconds.

Maryland Golf Group To Hold Charity Event

Notices have been sent out by the Maryland State Golf Association with respect to a Thanksgiving charity handicap golf tournament to be held from November 19 to 27, inclusive, at all member clubs.

Suitable prizes will be awarded in class A, B and C, with association handicap cards to be used. Those not having handicap cards will be assigned temporary handicaps by the professional. Each player, the notice states, may play as many rounds as he desires during the week. An entrance fee of $1 for each round will be assessed.

The entire amount realized will be used for relief purposes in the section in which the tournament will be held, it was announced.

MARYLAND U. PREPS FOR GENERALS

W. and L. Game Gives Chance to Compare Capital Teams.

SINCE it is against the Constitution, or something, for Washington's big college football teams to play against each other, the Maryland University-Washington and Lee game Saturday at Lexington, will afford Washington fans one of their few chances to get some sort of line on the comparative merits of two of the local Big Four, Maryland and George Washington.

In the first game of the year George Washington defeated Washington and Lee, 24-0, showing close to midseason form against the Generals. The Colonials were a pregame favorite, and the actual result was never in doubt.

Maryland, despite a fine improvement in its last two games, remains an underdog against Washington and Lee, a contention based largely upon the fact that the Generals beat Virginia, which beat Maryland. But no matter what the score is Saturday it will give District fans a line on the relative strength of two local bulwarks.

Poppelman Among Honored.

Maryland continued its warming up session in preparation for the Saturday at College Park, while far to the South the Associated Press consensus of outstanding Southern football players placed Ray Poppelman as a half back on the second team and gave honorable mention to Earl Widmyer.

The so-called "first" team was Ariail (Auburn) and Leach (Alabama) ends; Grinus (V. P. I.) and Leyendecker (Vandy), tackles; Frank (Tennessee) and Davidson (Kentucky), guards; Neblett (Georgia Tech) center; Mason (Duke), quarter back; Zimmerman (Tulane) and Clary (South Carolina), half backs, and Hutson (Mississippi), full back.

Hitting the Headpin

PACED by the redoubtable Maxie Rosenberg, who reeled off games of 144, 138 and 131 for a 413 set, the Occidental bowling team last night won games from Lucky Strike to maintain its lead in the Men's District League at the Lucky Strike alleys.

Occidental rolled 627, 611 and 616 for 1,854, while Lucky Strike had 551, 645, 594—1,790.

Rendezvous made a clean sweep of its games with Columbia, shooting 578, 607 and 564. Jack Whalen, of the victors, clicked off a 139 high game and 368 high set.

Dutch Newman hit a hot pace for the leading King's Palace in the National Capital League, as his team turned back Judd & Detweiler. Newman pounded the maples for 119, 141 and 152—412. Moving over to another alley, he rolled under the colors of the Occidental and crashed through with 374. Newman claims the distinction of bowling with two league-leading quintets.

Hot games took place in the Ladies' District League. Over at Columbia the pace-setting Columbia girls lost two games to King Pins. Billie Butler, of King Pins, shot a high game of 122 and set of 327 to carry off honors for the night.

Arcade trimmed the champion Rendezvous outfit in two games, with Doris Goodall registering high set with 322 and Esther Burton high game with 124.

Effie Moore won the laurel wreath at Lucky Strike as Meyer Davis beat Recreation in two games. She shot a 314 set and 114 high game.

In the same league, Georgetown Recreation bowled over Lucky Strike in two games. Jennie Malcolm, of Georgetown, led with a high individual set of 326, and Bess Ackman, of the same team, came through with a high game of 126.

The match marked the season's league debut of Lucy Owen with the Georgetown Recreation five. Former captain of the champion John Blick quintet and ranking District feminine bowler, she turned in an initial set of 300.

In the dear old North of Washington League, rolled at Silver Spring Alleys, Wayside defeated Rock Creek, 3-0; Diplomats beat Dudley-Keeler by the same count and Buzzaro Engineering administered the same treatment to Independent Oil.

High team set was captured by the Engineering crew, 1,730, and also high game, 588. Roudabush captured individual honors with a 392 and 150.

Conger, of Labkatz, and Campana, of Dubs, tied for high individual game honors with 130 each last night in the Dynamite League at Arcade. Long, of Little

Stocks Decline Sluggishly As Buyers Become Scarce

Loss of 1.8 Points Added as Dealing Drops to 946,635 Shares.

New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—The stock market found buying thinner today, and prices resumed their sluggish decline, leaders losing generally from 1 to 3 points in a turnover of less than a million shares.

With the lines of least resistance downward, professional traders, in whose hands the market appeared to be resisting, exhibited little interest in the day's developments. Perplexity as to the debt question, which President Hoover was discussing with important administration figures, and further evidence of seasonal uneasiness in trade, doubtless contributed to the attitude of speculative aloofness which the share market reflected.

American Telephone failed to draw inspiration from the expected regular dividend. The stock was heavy prior to the announcement, firmed a little when the decision was given out and then fell back, losing more than three points. Wall street has not been enthusiastic of late about regular dividends that were not earned, although it had decided that Telephone's large reservoir of cash could stand another tapping for part of the payment.

R. H. Macy weakened severely when its directors voted for discontinuance of the 5 per cent annual stock dividend which had been a fixture for five years. The shares had a tumble of 4 points. Rails were soggy on indications that a sizable decline in freight traffic occurred last week, advance evidence thereof being given by New York Central's report. A number of carrier shares, including Central, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio and Norfolk & Western, sagged 1 to 3.

Industrials seemed to take little comfort in word that steel operations had eased only half a percentage point, or to 19 per cent of rated capacity. This estimate of Iron Age was accompanied by the statement that new business had declined in all markets except those sustained by automobile orders. Railroads, the construction industry and miscellaneous business is providing small orders and heavy melting scrap has declined. U. S. Steel yielded nearly 2 points. American Can, Allied Chemical, American Tobacco "B," Chrysler, Harvester, Case, Standard Oil of New Jersey and Loew's lost about 1 to 3. Transactions totaled 946,635 shares.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

What the Stock Market Did

	Wed.	Tues.
Advances	93	132
Declines	325	261
Unchanged	84	122
Total issues traded	502	515

Stocks.

Scarcity of buyers caused a sluggish decline in stocks. The average loss was 1.8 points. Sales volume also dropped, the total turnover being 946,635 shares. Professional trading was evident, but the interest was slight.

Bonds.

Dullness and irregularity marked sales in bonds. Average prices were unchanged. Federal issues showed some strength. B. & O. loans lost early gains. Foreign issues were lower.

Curb.

Balanced trading prevailed until near closing, when reaction resulted in losses. These declines were partly offset by moderate gains, but the final quotations let the market down from fractions to 2 points. The turnover mounted to 200,000 shares.

Wheat.

Southern hemisphere crop gains, uncertainties of British preferential tariff influences and other factors caused wheat values to sink. The loss was ½ to ⅝. December wheat sold at 44⅞ to 45 cents.

Cotton.

Quiet trading resulted in light gains in cotton prices. December sold at 6.30, or 3 points up. The general market advanced 3 to 6 points. Southern selling was limited. Liverpool offerings fell off and were easily absorbed by Bombay buying.

New York Central Car Loadings Decreased

New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Freight loadings of the New York Central System showed a sharp decrease last week. The total was 82,788 cars, compared with 91,698 in the week ended November 5. Loadings on the road's own lines were 35,880, compared with 40,013, while receipts from connections totaled 46,928 cars, against 51,685.

Rhode Island Pay Rolls Increase 12.5 Per Cent

Providence, R. I., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Pay rolls in Rhode Island increased 12.5 per cent during October over September figures, the Brown University Bureau of Business Research announced today.

The amount disbursed during the month to employes of manufacturing and nonmanufacturing concerns was $11,223,636, according to the report.

Rubber Closes Dull.

New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Crude rubber futures closed dull. December, 3.38@3.39; January, 3.44; March, 3.56@3.59; May, 3.64@3.68.

Smoked ribbed spot closed 3.41.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Trading on the stock exchange was still suffering from realizing and the lack of public support. Business was small with transatlantic issues and a few gold mining shares showing fractional advances. The movement of other shares was downward and the close was undecided.

Paris—Uncertainty over the international and internal situations reflected on the bourse which at first was inactive but later showed slightly more resistance. Rentes were lower and international shares were very irregular. The close was irregular.

Berlin—Holiday on the bourse. Atonement Day.

CURB PRICES LOWER AFTER CLOSING DROP

Early Trading Is Balanced as Sales Mount to 200,000 Shares.

New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—The scales were fairly evenly balanced in Curb Market trading today until the final hour, when they tipped slightly downward. Transfers approximated 200,000 shares against 180,000 yesterday.

Losses were offset in part by moderate gains, but the close showed most shares down by fractions to 2 points. Electric Bond & Share was again actively sold, yielding at one time to below 21, but rallied in the final moments to close off a point net. Doubt as to dividend action on the common was not cleared until after trading had ended. Directors declared the regular 1½ per cent quarterly disbursement, payable in stock, and announced that henceforth dividend action would be placed on annual rather than a quarterly basis.

American Gas & Electric lost about a point. American Superpower and Cities Service recorded negligible losses, while United Light & Power "A" was up a fraction and Niagara Hudson Power, in active trading, gained more than a point.

Approval of a plan for consolidation of Federated Metals with American Smelting attracted buying to that stock, which gained 2 points. New Jersey Zinc was unchanged.

Oils were quiet, Gulf losing about a point. Standard of Indiana was down a shade. Standard of Kentucky and Ohio and Humble Oil were slightly higher.

Aluminum Co. held steadily until afternoon trading, when it gave up 2 points. Great Atlantic & Pacific lost more than 8 in odd-lot transactions. Deere was steady.

Real Estate Bank Fails To Open in Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh, Nov. 17 (A.P.).—The Real Estate National Savings & Trust Co., on Pittsburgh's north side, failed to open today. The directors announced they conferred with J. D. Swigart, chief examiner of the State department of banking, last night and decided to turn the bank over to the State. Mr. Swigart said heavy withdrawals within the past few days was the cause for the action. On September 30 the bank had $2,699,462 on deposit.

Twenty-four county detectives were assigned to duty in the downtown and north side districts today to apprehend persons circulating false reports concerning financial institutions. Circulation of such reports is a penal offense.

Silk Orders Increased.

West Warren, Mass., Nov. 16 (A.P.). Increased orders at the Maryland Silk Mills, Inc., plant has necessitated the operation of a night shift which will start tonight.

The firm has about 100 employes.

$300,000,000 to Be Spent For Advertising Business

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—More than $300,000,000, an increase of about 33 per cent, is expected to be spent in advertising during 1933, according to a study of business conditions released through Lee H. Bristol, of New York, president of the Association of National Advertisers, at the opening session of its twenty-third annual meting here today.

The results of the business survey released by Mr. Bristol showed that over one-half the reporting companies of the association had increased total sales volumes in units during the past three months; 16½ per cent reported a decrease, and about 10 per cent that the sales volume had remained the same. The median of the increase in sales was approximately 23 per cent.

As the comparison was between the three months of August, September and October, against the three months previous of May, June and July, it is noted that about one-half of the companies reporting an increase attributed it to seasonal influence and about 82 per cent of the other half of those reporting an increase stated it was due to improved conditions in their particular trade.

The survey also showed that 35 per cent of the reporting companies plan to increase their appropriations over those of 1932; 35 per cent expect to spend the same amount and 22 per cent plan decreases. Member manufacturers of drug and toilet articles plan as large or larger appropriations in 1933 as in 1932. In the food and grocery classification, about one-half plan to increase; 20 per cent to decrease, and 30 per cent to repeat the same appropriation.

Investment Trusts In Chicago Merge

$28,000,000 in Assets Involved in Continental and Investors Plan.

Chicago, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—The merger of two Chicago investment trusts with assets totaling $28,000,000 was approved today by their directors. Continental Chicago Corporation, whose assets approximate $23,900,000, will merge with the Chicago Investors Corporation, a $4,100,000 concern, by an exchange of stock on a share for share basis. Book value of each is estimated at $33.66 a share of preferred stock.

The consolidated company will take the name of the Chicago Corporation and will have no bank loans, no debts and no accounts payable. More than 25 per cent of its total assets will be cash.

Among the directors will be Sewell L. Avery, head of the U. S. Gypsum Co. and Montgomery Ward & Co.; David A. Crawford, president of the Pullman Co.; E. H. Cudahy, jr., packer; R. Douglas Stuart, vice president of Quaker Oats; Stanley Field, Marshall Field and Charles P. Glore.

$31,625,000 Loan To B. &O. Is Voted

Way Cleared for Plan to Refund Bond Issue Due on March 1.

Baltimore, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Approval of the $31,625,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation today had cleared the way for the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad to offer a plan for refinancing its bonds maturing next March 1.

Announcement of the loan to the railway was made here late yesterday and at the same time the refinancing plan was made public. Under its terms, bondoholders of the $63,250,000 issue maturing in March, according to officials of the company, will receive 50 per cent in cash and 50 per cent in the company's refunding and general mortgage bonds.

The plan would become effective when substantially all the bondholders have assented to the proposal. The Interstate Commerce Commission gave its approval to the loan to the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad last August.

BOND PRICES STAND AT TUESDAY'S LEVEL

Dullness and Irregularity Mark Trading; Federals Show Strength.

New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Dullness and irregularity marked today's session of the bond market, with various high-grade issues holding fairly firm and semispeculative groups jumping about emphatically.

One of the bright spots was the strength of United States Government obligations, gains in this section ranging from two-thirty-seconds to half a point. The Federals were cheered by the report that the Federal Reserve System intended to maintain its open-market policy for the time being, with its Government securities holdings at around $1,850,000,000.

The B. & O. list picked up briskly at one time but, in company with a number of other secondary rail bonds, reacted later when stocks became heavy. The maturing 4½s were the heaviest traded of the day, reaching a high of 68¼, a low of 65¾, and closing at 66½ for a net loss of 1½ points.

Other weak transportation liens included some of Allegheny Corporation, Canadian National, Canadian Pacific, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island, Denver & Rio Grande, Missouri Pacific and Frisco. Firmness was shown by issues of Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Erie, Kansas City Southern and Pennsylvania.

Obligations of American Telephone, Detroit Edison, Brooklyn Union Gas, Cincinnati Gas and Portland Electric displayed a strong undertone, but loans of International Telephone, American & Foreign Power and similar securities were easy.

Amusement Co. bonds were weak. Paramount-Famous-Lasky 6s dropped 6¼ points and Paramount Publix 5½s were off 4. Loew's 6s lost 1½ points. Studebaker 6s gave up a point, while National Dairy 5½s advanced 1. The oils were steady, but Rubber Co. issues sagged.

The foreign department was rather quiet and lower. The Canadians were soft, as were the Argentines. Australians, Germans and Japanese. British 5½s closed at their day's low of 105⅛, off ⅛.

Coffee Prices Advance On Import Tax Ruling

New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Coffee continued to advance today on covering promoted by official confirmation that the national coffee council of Brazil would make no change in the coffee export tax.

Contracts were scarce and relatively small demand was sufficient to raise prices. No. 7 contracts opened nominal and closed 10 to 12 higher. Sales, 3,000. Santos opened unchanged to 4 higher and closed 9 to 32 higher. Sales, 9,000.

Crude Oil Averages.

Oil City, Pa., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Credit balance, $1.67; runs, 32,443; average runs, 29,189; shipments, 69,406; average shipments, 57,982.

Bank Acceptances Gain $15,431,223 in October

New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—The American Acceptance Council today reported an increase of $15,431,223 in the volume of bankers' acceptances in October to a total of $698,620,369.

The council said this indicated "a return to the normal seasonal use of acceptance credits, notwithstanding the prevailing counter influences of a great accumulation of unused bank funds available for commercial loan purposes and an abnormally low bank rate." This is the second consecutive monthly gain, an indication of a "slight improvement in business activity."

Steel Ingot Output Cut to 19 Per Cent

Iron Age Reports Drop in Industry Except at Cleveland.

New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Iron Age today reported a decline in steel business in nearly all markets except Cleveland, where automobile buying has given production a further lift.

The general average of ingot output has eased to 19 per cent of capacity, against 19.5 per cent a week ago, although Cleveland is up three points, to 38 per cent; Wheeling is at 40 per cent, and the Buffalo district is doing better. However, Birmingham's production has fallen to 10 per cent and smaller declines have occurred at Chicago and Youngstown, while Pittsburgh mills barely hold their 17 per cent average.

"A policy of caution among buyers, which began to affect orders adversely during the latter half of October," said the review, "has not been altered even with the election uncertainty out of the way. On the contrary, the placing of some tonnage under consideration before the election has been indefinitely postponed."

Nut and Chocolate Plant To Expand Operations

Suffolk, Va., Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Amedio Obeci, president of the Planters Nut & Chocolate Co., said today that his concern planned to spend approximately $100,000 during the next year in replacement of obsolete machinery and in plant modernization.

This will be in addition to the installation of an oil producing unit already started, he said.

WHEAT VALUES SINK ON CROP PROSPECTS

British Preferential Tariff Still Depresses Market; Oats Advance.

Chicago, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—As all immediate market influence, Southern Hemisphere reports of better than average crop prospects more than outdid today adverse conditions for United States winter wheat.

Uncertainties connected with the new British preferential tariff militating against wheat shipments by way of United States ports were also a bearish factor. Overseas buying of upward of 1,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat, however, had a somewhat steadying effect.

Wheat closed unsettled, ¼ to ⅝ under yesterday's finish; corn, ⅛ to ¼ off; oats, unchanged to ¼ up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5 cents.

Although developments concerning the United States winter wheat crop were looked upon as decidedly bullish, they were generally regarded as more of a distant than a nearby trading factor. On the other hand, advices from below the equator described the outlook for the harvest now partly under way in Argentina and Australia as being brilliant for enlarged yields. Meanwhile, setbacks in New York stock market quotations did much to handicap friends of higher prices for grain, especially wheat.

British Tariff Influence.

Particular notice was taken of Liverpool cables saying the British preferential tariff exerted a disturbing influence, and that British wheat holders were liquidating old contracts fearing that tenders on deliveries would include Canadian shipments made via the United States under disadvantageous circumstances. Wheat bulls here, though, gave stress to reports that drought regions Southwest and West had received little moisture and that with unseasonably cold weather further seeding was impossible. Predictions were current that the United States Government report next month would show a larger reduction in domestic winter wheat acreage than private forecasts had pointed to and that low temperatures would be hard on young wheat, especially where the soil was dry or the plants were fly-infested.

For the first time in a long while, corn displayed independent weakness as compared with wheat. Export corn was asserted to be 1 cent out of line for general business abroad. Oats were relatively firm owing to meagerness of receipts.

Provisions reflected hog market upturns.

A. T. & T. DECLARES REGULAR DIVIDEND

Electric Bond & Share Also to Pay Usual Returns; Pennsylvania Cut.

New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Directors of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. today declared the regular quarterly dividend of $2.25 a share, due at this time on its capital stock, thus maintaining the present $9 annual rate.

The payment, which will be made on January 15 to stockholders of record December 20, will entail the mailing of approximately $42,000,000 in dividend checks.

The company earned the equivalent of $5.92 a share in the first nine months of this year, or 83 cents a share less than dividend requirements. This figure includes dividends received from subsidiaries, which failed by $18,000,000 to earn as much as they paid out in dividends.

The difference between net income actually received by American Telephone & Telegraph in the nine months and the amount of dividends paid was $15,422,000. The company dipped into surplus to meet this deficiency.

Directors of the Electric Bond & Share Co. declared the regular quarterly dividends on the $6 and $5 preferred stocks, payable February 1, to stock of record January 6, and also declared the quarterly payment on the 6 per cent common stock, which is paid in the form of common stock. They announced that hereafter the board will consider annually instead of quarterly the question of dividends on the common.

Cities Service Co. today reported for the twelve months ended October 31, net income, after interest and discount, but before depreciation, of $14,524,769, compared with $17,438,354 for the preceding twelve months. November net income amounted to $625,574, compared with $941,467 in the same month last year.

Pennsylvania Railroad had net income of $6,273,815, after taxes and charges, for the nine months ended September 30, equal to 47 cents a share on the capital stock. This compares with $15,265,828, or $1.16 a share in the same period of 1931.

The Cincinnati, New Orleans & Texas Pacific Railway Co. today omitted the semiannual dividend of $4 on the common stock, but voted the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 on the 5 per cent preferred, payable December 1 to shares of record November 20.

Cleveland, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Directors of Chesapeake & Ohio Railway today declared the regular quarterly dividend of 62½ cents a share on the common stock, payable January 1 to stock of record December 8.

New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Mergenthaler Linotype Co. today reported net loss of $999,526 for the year ended September 30, contrasting with net profit of $936,161 in the previous fiscal year.

Directors of R. H. Macy & Co. New York City Department Store today declared a regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share, but announced discontinuance of the practice of paying stock dividends which had been in effect during the past five years. The stock payment amounted to 5 per cent annually. Today's cash disbursement is payable February 15 to stock of record January 20.

Metal Merger Voted.

New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Stockholders of Federated Metals Corporation in a special meeting today voted to accept the offer to American Smelting & Refining Co. for Federated's assets on an exchange of stock basis. Ninety-two per cent of the shares voted in favor of acceptance.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—American Sugar Refining Co. today called for redemption on January 1 at 102½ $4,000,000 principal amount of its 6 per cent bonds, due in 1937. This will reduce the amount of the issue outstanding to $3,500,000. It originally totaled $30,000,000.

Foster Wheeler's British subsidiary has received an order for oil refining equipment, costing approximately $500,000, for a company in India.

Oversubscription of the new issue of $27,500,000 of the Toledo Edison Co. first mortgage bonds, 5 per cent series, due in 1962, was announced by the Chase Harris Forbes Corporation, which headed the offering group. The loan was publicly offered today and the books closed almost immediately. The bonds were subscribed at 95½ and interest to yield 5.30 per cent.

The Iron Age composite price on steel scrap is down to $7.46 a ton, compared with $7.58 last week. Weakness in nearly all the important scrap markets accounts for the decline.

Tenders of the 7 per cent preferred stock of the Endicott-Johnson Co., to the extent of 10,000 shares at $110 will be received by Goldman, Sachs & Co., it was announced today. The company seeks the stock for retirement. Tenders will be received to November 29.

Stocks of lead in the United States at the end of October totaled 170,171 short tons compared with 171,831 at the end of September and 139,796 a year ago, the American Bureau of Metal Statistics reports. October production amounted to 28,076 tons against 22,813 in September and 41,268 in 1931. Shipments were 29,764 tons in October against 26,412 in September and 34,276 in October, 1931.

McKesson & Robbins, Inc., proposes to change its authorized common stock from 5,000,000 shares of no par to 5,000,000 shares at $5 par each.

Westinghouse Air Brake has received a $150,000 order for air brake equipment on 1,285 freight cars being built by the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Jewelry Trade Improves.

New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Indications of improvement are being reflected slowly in the jewelry trade, says R. G. Dun & Co. Thus far gains have been most pronounced in sales of silverware, clocks, novelty jewelry and in repair work, it is said.

COTTON PRICES GAIN IN QUIETER TRADING

December Closes at 6.30 as General Market Rises 3 to 6 Points.

New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Trading in cotton was quiet today and the undertone was fairly steady. Reactions from an opening advance were followed by rallies at the close. December after selling off from 6.36 to 6.24 closed at 6.30, compared with 6.27 on Tuesday, the general market closing at net advances of 3 to 6 points.

The opening was 5 to 9 points higher in response to steady cables and buying on apprehensions that cold weather in the South would tend to delay the movement. May sold up to 6.63 on the early demand which included a little buying through houses with Japanese and Liverpool connections. The latter was believed to be on the differences which widened slightly at the opening, and was soon supplied.

Little Southern selling was reported but the advance met considerable realizing or liquidation and scattered selling became more active later, probably influenced by action of the stock market. May sold off to 6.50 or about 13 points from the forenoon high, but in the continued absence of much Southern selling prices steadied in the late trading on covering and trade buying. May closed at 6.57, and the market showed rallies of about 6 to 8 points from the lowest.

December Evens Up.

A feature of the trading was the increased evening-up of December contracts. Some liquidation of that position was absorbed by trade buying, presumably to fix prices, while there was considerable switching from December to later positions, without much change in differences between months.

At the close December was 27 points under May compared with a difference of 26 points at the previous close.

Some thought the continent might be holding off for the development of international debt negotiations. Liverpool cables said light offerings in that market had been absorbed by trade and Bombay buying and reported an improving business in cotton goods at Manchester, with a good Far Eastern inquiry. Exports today, 59,434, making 2,618,523 so far this season. Port receipts, 81,880. U. S. port stocks, 4,600,667.

BUILDING CONTINUES AT WAR DAYS' LEVEL

Slump in Home Construction Is Particularly Heavy for 1932 Season.

New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Building statistics indicate that the total volume of construction in the United States this year will aggregate less than one-quarter of the average of the building boom years, 1925 through 1928.

Statistics on building contracts let in the 37 States east of the Rockies, compiled by F. W. Dodge Corporation, show this year's volume will approximate the low levels of the war years, when the shortages developed which led to the post-war boom.

How long it may take in the present period of low activity to lead to shortages which will bring new health to this major industry is a question which building statisticians would like to answer. It is pointed out, however, that active building to take up the slack presumably will await general economic improvement.

The F. W. Dodge figures indicate that the construction in the States east of the Rockies for 1932 will approximate the extraordinarily low total of $1,300,000,000. This is less than half the volume for 1931. A high record of $6,600,000,000 was reached in 1928.

The slump in residential building has been particularly severe. This year's contracts, based on the Dodge figures for the area east of the Rockies, will aggregate $300,000,000, which will be the lowest since before the World War, with the exception of 1918, which saw a volume of approximately that size.

Montreal Grain Cargo Mark Highest Since '28

Montreal, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Topping all figures since the record year of 1928, grain shipments through Montreal this season reached the 100,000,000-bushel mark late today, John C. Newman, chairman of the Montreal harbor commission, announced. This total will be considerably increased before the close of navigation, he added.

Shipments in 1928 totaled 211,000,000 bushels; last year, 89,512,312.

Goods Sales Moderate.

New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Sales of cotton goods continued in moderate volume today with additional interest noted in spring lines.

Mills that sought postponement of rayon yarn deliveries early in the month are now asking for prompt shipments. Requests for heavy wool cloths for immediate cutting continue. Burlaps hold about steady with buying quiet.

Hyattsville Firemen Prepare Officer Slate

Elections of officers of the Hyattsville Volunteer Fire Department on December 12 will be merely a form, as only one nomination has been made for each of the positions to be filled. Noble F. Rushe, the present chief, was nominated to remain in office.

Other nominations were assistant chief, J. Wells Painter; captain, Ernest A. Davis; lieutenant, James Smith; fire marshal, Charles E. Trott; secretary, Earle S. Dorrelle; treasurer, John J. Painter; superintendent of machinery, George Wilcoxen; trustee, Alfred Degges.

Hyattsville Relief Agency Explained

Urges Persons Working in Capital to Remember Home Charity.

An appeal to persons working in Washington who contribute to the Community Chest, asking them to designate that their donations go to the Associated Charities of Hyattsville, has been issued by that organization in the form of a letter which will be sent to all persons in the Hyattsville area.

The letter outlines the Charities' plans for winter relief, which will consist of direct contributions, maintenance of a woodyard and a job exchange. The organization has no overhead, the letter states.

Sufficient timber has been donated to keep the woodyard going through the winter, a wage of $2 per day being paid to the men employed in it. They are restricted to only a few days' work per week, in order that the work may go around. The job foreman has about 500 men listed with it, according to the letter.

Girl Is Injured as Auto Skids and Goes in Ditch

Miss Mildred Russell, of 612 Ninth street southwest, suffered cuts, bruises and possible internal injuries last night when the car of her escort, Calvin H. Kendall, of 718 Ninth street southwest, skidded and swerved into a ditch on the Marlboro pike, between Forestville and Meadows.

She was taken to Casualty Hospital in an undetermined condition.

Wet Stand Taken In Capitol Heights

Town Favors Repeal of County Law; Local Action Delayed.

Capitol Heights, Md., has gone on record as favoring a repeal of the Prince Georges County dry law, but a move to repeal the town's own liquor law was blocked while a committee of the town council learns the sentiment of the citizens about the local ordinance.

Only one councilman, Robert Ennis, voted against a motion to ask the county's delegation to the Legislature to repeal the county law. The motion was made by Mayor Thomas J. Luckett.

The council was more wary about appealing their own law and a proposal for repeal of the town ordinance was met with considerable discussion. Three of the councilmen were finally selected to report to the council on the repeal of the local law.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

THE medieval German city of Rothenburg-on-Tauber owed its immunity from the Swedish army in 1631 to the ability of one of the "city fathers" to drink six quarts of wine at a single draft. This strange bargain was made by Gen. Tilly, head of the conquering army, when a huge hanap of wine was set before him by the city cellarer's daughter, Anne.

Amazed by the capacity of the glass—about a gallon and a half—Tilly announced that he would spare the city if anyone could drain the glass at a single draft. He had previously sworn to burn it to the ground.

As was the custom when a civic problem presented itself, the city council got together to discuss means of saving their town. Burg

THE HEADLINE WRITER'S WIFE TRIES TO GET A LINE ON THE FOOTBALL RESULTS.

"HOW did the games come out today, dear?"

"Well, the Bears won again."

"The bears. What bears?"

"Brown University, I mean. They defeated the Lions."

"Who are the lions?"

"Columbia."

"Oh!"

"The Rams trimmed the Violet."

"How did Fordham make out?"

"That's what I'm telling you. The Rams are Fordham."

"Who are the Violets? Annapolis?"

"The Violets are N. Y. U."

"It's intricate, isn't it, dear?"

"The whomads?"

"Nomads, not Whomads. That's Notre Dame. They beat Northwestern. And the Cornhuskers held the Panthers to a draw at Lincoln."

"How did Nebraska make out in the game with Pittsburgh?"

"Didn't I just tell you? Nebraska is the Cornhuskers and Pittsburgh is always the Panthers."

"Why?"

"It's just a custom. Want any more results?"

"I might stand a few."

"I just this minute told you about Harvard and Yale."

"Did you? Don't you ever call a college football team by the name of the college?"

"What? After all my years of newspaper training! Want any other scores?"

"Yes. I want to know how Williams came out against Amherst, and, lissen—if you call them anything but Williams and Amherst I'll scream!!!"

Geyser Here

But Frightened Citizens Learn Water Main Is Cause.

A geyser of no mean proportions suddenly spouted forth, sending a spray of water 12 feet in the air, near the intersection of North Capitol street and Florida avenue last night when a 12-inch water main burst, buckling and hurling the pavement from the opening.

Alarmed citizens sent in a call for the Fire Department, but the firemen found themselves out of their element.

They called the Water Department, which detailed five men to the task of bridling the spouting water main. The men worked fast and furiously, but the unnatural geyser spouted and sprayed for about three hours before the water was restricted to its subterranean pipeway.

Elderly Trio Slightly Hurt in Auto Accident

Three elderly persons, a man and two women, suffered minor injuries last night when struck by the car of Sanford Strover, 35, 421½ Eleventh street southwest, at the intersection of First and B streets southeast.

They were Mrs. Julia Parsons, 60, Alfred Morton, 77, and his wife, Ida, 60. It is reported the car struck Morton, who was knocked against the women, bowling them over. They were treated by a private physician at the Washington Inn, New Jersey avenue and C street southeast, where they live.

Physical Training Class to Start.

A practical class in physical education for women will be organized this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in E. V. Brown School by the Chevy Chase Community Center, similar to that held last year on Monday evenings at Ben Murch Center, it is announced by Mrs. F. S. Espenschied, community secretary. This season's class is being arranged in response to insistent requests for the class.

Funeral for John Witherow, 11.

Funeral services for John Witherow, 11, who died Monday after a short illness, will be held tomorrow at the home of the child's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Witherow, 3410 Macomb street northwest. Burial will be in the Taneytown Cemetery, Taneytown, Md. John was a pupil in the John Eaton School.

CATHOLIC HIERARCHY CONDEMNS FLOOD OF 'IMMORAL' READING

Resolution Voted by Church Dignitaries in Session at University.

A condemnation of indecent literature was voted yesterday by the heirarchy of the Catholic Church in America at a meeting in Catholic University, over which Cardinal O'Connell, of Boston, and Cardinal Mundelein, of Chicago, presided.

"It would be blindness," the resolution said, "not to recognize the looseness and laxity of morals which both hastened the economic chaos of the world and now plays its part in extending laxity in public morals, loss of public decency and, consequently, a lowering of standards of citizenship."

Flood of Lewd Books.

The resolution deplored "the increasing flood of immoral and unmoral books" and other such publications, and said public opinion had "influenced the courts of the Nation to such an extent" that it was now "almost impossible to have the most obscene of books debarred from the customs or from the mails."

The corruption of public and private morals, the resolution said, "wears away more surely than any other agency the foundation" of a nation.

Sensational and Superficial.

"It is further undeniable that many writers, beggared of talent and of true literary gifts, are playing up the sexual, the sensational and the superficial, and that these books are exploited by many reviewers as literary productions. They speak of the flesh rather than of the mind."

Another resoluiton urged "sincere and effective cooperation" between the bishops of the Catholic Welfare Conference and the national welfare and relief mobilization committee.

Operator of Numbers Game Is Fined $75

Convicted of operating a numbers game, whose headquarters in Fairmont Heights, Md., used four adding machines, John R. Dodd, of Fairmont Heights, yesterday was fined $75 in Hyattsville police court on a charge of setting up a gaming table. Three other men arrested in a raid on the establishment were released.

Joseph Tally was convicted of shooting dice on the highway near Bowie and fined $1. He was fined $1 more on charges of disorderly conduct made by Constable Warren Peake. Benjamin Posey, of Beltsvillee, was fined $50 for transportation of liquor.

District Scientists Watch for Leonids

Georgetown U. and Naval Astronomers Peer Into Overcast Skies.

The watchers for the visiting Leonids took up their positions near their astronomical instruments early today in the hope that the overcast skies would clear so that a glimpse could be had of the meteoric visitors from space.

In the grounds of the Georgetown University observatory, the Rev. Paul A. McNally, director, who reported more than 50 Leonids Tuesday night, was scanning the skies with his staff and a number of students.

Out in the Northwest section were the astronomers of the Naval Observatory, who moved from the glare of street lights near their observatory to the open country in the hope that the chances of visibility would be increased.

Dr. Wilson Makes Plea For Man in Check Count

Representations in behalf of John R. Sasser, who is being sought on a warrant charging him with obtaining money under false pretenses, were made yesterday in Police Court by Dr. Clarence True Wilson, famous dry crusader.

Sasser, according to Dr. Wilson, is in Richmond, Va., promoting a dry debate in which Dr. Wilson is to appear. The man is charged with having given a draft for $59 to L. G. Bray, of 5922 Georgia avenue northwest. It came back dishonored. No decision was made on the appeal for Sasser by Dr. Wilson.

ATTEND HIERARCHY MEETING

Underwood & Underwood.

132 PLEADED GUILTY IN 139 LIQUOR CASES

67 Days Is Average Term in District for October, Report Shows.

Federal prohibition agents made arrests in 157 cases in the District during October and won convictions in 139 cases, according to the monthly report of the Federal Prohibition Bureau, made public last night.

Of the convictions seven were obtained after a trial and 132 pleaded guilty. There were 20 cases lost after trial or because prosecuting officials thought them too flimsy to take to trial atnd marked them off the books.

The average sentence meted out was 67 days, and the average fine was $122. Among the confiscations of property made in the name of prohibition were 51 automobiles and boats, one still, 141 gallons of beer, 2,257 gallons of spirits and 21 gallons of wine.

Throughout the country the bureau's agents made 7,769 arrests in October and got 7,043 convictions or pleas of guilty. This is not a direct comparison, because most of the cases tried were the result of arrests made prior to October. The bureau reported that $617,490 had been imposed in fines on persons in the course of the month.

Since July 1 the bureau said that 972 persons had been convicted of prohibition law violations and 17,402 had pleaded guilty, while 1,816 cases had been marked off the books or resulted in acquittals. A total of 5,436 years had been imposed in jail sentences, and Federal fines amounted to $1,714,047, the bureau said.

Sewer Bid Rejections Explained by Gotwals

Maj. John C. Gotwals, District Engineer Commissioner, yesterday ridiculed published reports that intervention by Secretary of Labor Doak had caused the rejection of bids for construction of the upper Potomac sewer interceptor, section 14, on Canal road.

Bids were rejected more than two months ago, he explained, because it was found that all bids were far below the appropriation available. It is the custom of the Engineer Department to utilize the entire appropriation in such projects; consequently the plans had to be redrafted, in order to extend the sewer line.

Accused by Wife, Man Posts Bond.

Judge Isaac R. Hitt in Police Court yesterday directed Lyman Leach, said to be a former policeman, to post a $500 peace bond when he was brought up in court on a charge of threatening his wife, Mrs. Daisy Leach. On a disorderly conduct charge, Leach was fined $5.

HOUSE BODY IS SEEN VOTING RELIEF HERE

Cannon Says Committee Is Receptive to District's Appeal for Funds.

The House District appropriations committee, which last year opposed appropriations for "local unemployment relief, will be "receptive" to recommendations of District officials that present relief funds are inadequate, Chairman Clarence Cannon (Democrat), Missouri, said yesterday.

Representative Cannon, just returned to Washington, said his committee would be open-minded on the question, and it would be up to the District government to "produce the facts."

It was disclosed recently that the $350,000 appropriated by Congress last year will be exhausted after the first of the year, and additional funds will be needed at the rate of $100,000 a month.

Representative Cannon said subcommittee hearings on the District supply bill will not get under way until after the Christmas holidays.

He predicted his committee will renew its fight for a $6,000,000 Federal contribution toward District expenses. The current allotment is $7,775,000, a compromise between recommendations of House and Senate subcommittees.

Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, made plain last year that this figure was agreed on to meet a temporary emergency, and that in the future the Senate group will renew its stand for a larger Federal allowance.

Senator Bingham was defeated for reelection, however, and will not be present at the next session to fight the District's battles. Offsetting his absence will be the disappearance from the House of Representatives of Representative Robert G. Simmons, Nebraska, and William P. Holaday, Illinois, Republicans, advocates of a small lump sum. They also were defeated.

Dinner to Honor Union Veterans

Col. Grant to Be Master of Ceremonies at Saturday Fete.

A banquet in honor of the Union Veterans of the Civil War will be held at the Shoreham Hotel, at 6:30 p. m., Saturday, under the auspices of Lincoln Camp, No. 2, Sons of Union Veterans, assisted by other organizations allied with the Grand Army of the Republic.

Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d will be master of ceremonies at this annual "Veterans' Night" dinner, commemorating the dedication of Gettysburg Battlefield Cemetery on November 19, 1863, by President Abraham Lincoln, when he delivered his famous address.

Among the many distinguished guests who will be present are Department Commander George T. Leech; Past Department Commnader in Chief John R King; John Joy Edson, Capt. James F Parker, Mrs. Mary Logan Tucker, daughter of Gen. John A Logan; Past Junior Vice Commander in Chief Henry A. Johnson, and Maj. Gen. John L. Clem, the "Drummer Boy of Chickamauga."

TRAFFIC TOLL

TO DATE

Shopping days toward the end of the week take the heaviest toll of pedestrians and motorists in collisions. Because you are in a hurry to return home, cross the street or board a public vehicle, do not forget to be careful. A few general rules for safety are not to "jaywalk" across a street; always exercise care while driving, and above all observe the Golden Rule, to give others the same measure of safety, which you consider due you.

To date there has been an increase of 42 deaths and 202 injuries over the corresponding period in 1931. The total number of accidents has decreased by 431. The figures are:

	1931	1932
Deaths	69	111
Injuries	3,137	3,339
Accidents	7,324	6,893

"Be Careful!"

POLICE ACT TO END WAVE OF THEFTS AS VICTIM LIST GROWS

Special Squad of Detectives and Patrol Car to Guard Residential Areas.

Determined to halt the wave of housebreaking and petty thefts in Washington, Frank S. W. Burke, assistant superintendent of police, announced yesterday that a special squad of detectives and a patrol car had been assigned to precincts 3, 7, 9 and 10, in which a major portion of the burglaries and thefts have been perpetrated.

A check of the records at Tenth Precinct yesterday showed that 26 housebreaking cases, with loot amounting to $4,544.05, have been reported since November 1. The other precincts in the residential sections have also had an unusually large number of such cases during the month.

Two apartments in the 1900 and 2000 block on Belmont street road northwest were entered by burglars yesterday, who stole cash, clothing and other articles for a loot totaling $178.

Apartment Thefts.

The apartment of Mrs. Stephen Ingham, 2009 Belmont road, was looted by burglars, who evidently used a duplicate key. They stole $8 in bills, a $50 wrist watch and other articles valued at $3.

Miss Alexinia Harring, 1910 Belmont road, reported her apartment door was jimmied and a silverware set, valued at $90, two concert tickets and $3 in coins stolen.

Mrs. LeBella Smith, 2433 I street northwest, reported that burglars entered her apartment through a rear door, stole $10 in cash and a breastpin valued at $75.

Clothing valued at $160 was stolen from the apartment of Scott G. Rigby and Paul L. Millenberg, 1128 Sixteenth street northwest. It is believed the burglars used a duplicate key.

Two Shops Are Looted.

Thieves who looted a clothing store and a bakery shop on Seventh and Fourteenth streets northwest Tuesday night obtained clothing and cash amounting to $120.

Samuel Gutz reported his store at 1335 Seventh street was entered by burglars who broke open a rear door. They stole clothing valued at $70.

Albert George, proprietor of a bakery shop at 2019 Fourteenth street, reported that a glass door in the rear of his shop was broken by burglars who stole $50 in bills from a box which he had hidden beneath the cash register.

Five suits valued at $50 were stolen from the car of Morris Scott, of Baltimore, a traveling salesman, parked at 1524 Seventh street northwest.

Samuel Karlinsky, proprietor of a delicatessen at 2901 Georgia avenue northwest, was held up late Tuesday night by two men, who robbed him of $177.

Sir Willmott Talks At Rotary Meeting

He Says Depression Has Put Cooperation and Morals to Fore.

The need for greater international cooperation and for observing simple moral principles in international relationships are two lessons which are being learned from present troubles, Sir Willmott H. Lewis, Washington correspondent of the London Times, said at a meeting of the Rotary Club at the Willard Hotel.

"The recognition of the sanctity of human life and equal justice and toleration for all must be recognized before we can look for a solution of present difficulties," the speaker said.

Attending the meeting were 40 Rotarians from other States, including Arthur Sapp, past president of the Rotary International.

Interest on Judgments Increased Under Ruling

Judgments of the United States Court of Claims will be paid by the Government with 6 per cent interest, Justice Oscar R. Luhring in District Supreme Court ruled yesterday. The Government, under a ruling by Comptroller General J. Raymond McCarl, had been paying only 4 per cent since adoption of the economy act.

Acting on the ruling, Justice Luhring directed a mandamus to Mr. McCarl ordering him to pay the higher rate of interest to John L. Alcock, of Maryland, who had a claim of $163,247.17, and William F. and Helen S. West, of California, who obtained a judgment of $91,285. Attorneys Manton M. Wyvell and Clyde L. Rogers represented the Wests, while Attorneys Carlin & Carlin, L. C. Garnett and J. A. Beck appeared for Alcock.

ENVOY VISITS OLD IRONSIDES

Underwood & Underwood.

Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador, and Lady Lindsay yesterday visited the U. S. S. Constitution, which defeated many of England's best warships and was instrumental in the defeat of the British in the War of 1812. They were accompanied by Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, wife of the Secretary of the Navy, in their inspection of Old Ironsides. Commander Louis Gulliver of the Constitution is shown escorting the visitors through the famous frigate. Left to right—Commander Gulliver, Mrs. Adams, Lady Lindsay and Sir Ronald Lindsay.

AIR ARTISTS TREAT DAHLGREN CITIZENS

Program Given at Meeting Amid Group's Shouts of Merriment.

A new and highly entertaining method of conducting citizens' meetings was introduced last night at the regular meeting of the Dahlgren Terrace Citizens Association, when nearly a score of local radio artists ascended the stage at Crosby-Noyes School and proceeded to dispel the usually formal atmosphere with a program of songs, dances and comic sketches.

Amid shouts of merriment and the blare of a radio orchestra, William H. Luers, president of the association, explained that it is the intention of his group to provide each month a program of music and fun that will tend to keep the membership of the association in regular attendance, and "make them want to come!"

The program last night was under direction of Peggy Clark, well known radio program director, and it was presented through the cooperation of Dahlgren Terrace merchants, who provided refreshments after the entertainment.

The artists in attendance were Virginia Barry and Walter Doe, of WOL; Wilton Mendelsohn, 10-year-old boy barytone, of WOL and WJSV; Rose Novak, violinist, also of WOL; Walter Doe and his orchestra, WOL; Paul F. Grove, comic sketch; Estelle Hunt Deane, WOL and WJSV; "Radio Joe" Kauffman, WMAL; James Flaherty, WRC, and Senor Rolan, violinist, WRC.

Somerville Is Elected To Willard, Inc., Board

Harry P. Somerville, recently appointed manager of the Willard Hotel, has been elected to the board of directors of the Willard, Inc., operating company of the hostelry, it was announced yesterday.

Formerly manager of the Hotel Sagamore, Rochester, N. Y., Mr. Somerville succeeded Frank S. Hight, who recently retired as president of the corporation and manager of the hotel.

Mrs. Stebbing to Talk on Books.

One feature of the Public Library's contribution to the celebration of Book Week is a talk by Mrs. Lucile Reiner Stebbing at the Mount Pleasant branch, Sixteenth and Lamont streets, tonight at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Stebbing, who is readers' adviser in sociology for the Public Library, will speak on current books for parent and teacher.

BOY WINS GAS RANGE AT FOOD EXHIBITION

Youth, 13, Says Gift Will Make Mother's Pies Even Better.

Hand a boy a gas stove and you stump him—maybe.

But not 13-year-old Thomas Bell. The food show management found that out last night at the Washington Auditorium when it sought to present him with the handsome cabinet gas range that has been on exhibition since opening night last week. Thomas opened his eyes a little wider and then his mouth drew back in a shrewd grin.

Asked what he proposed to do with such a present, Thomas snickered:

"Give it to mother. She makes great pies, you know, and this ought to make 'em greater."

Thomas' mother is Mrs. John D. Bell, of 624 Twenty-third street northwest.

While Thomas was getting his stove, Miss Margaret Flood, of 1010 Fifth street northeast, was winning the hilarious apple-eating contest for girls. Miss Flood succeeded in capturing an elusive apple in her teeth as it "fled" all over a slippery china plate, and eating it first.

Tonight's contest will be a cracker-eating race, the hard part of which will be the whistling after the dry cracker is eaten. This competition, too, is for girls.

Tomorrow night will witness the final competition of the show. Couples will compete in the fancy fox-trot contest and the boy and girl of the winning team each will receive a $5 gold piece.

Little Elizabeth Eleanor Kelly, 27-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Kelly, of 805 L street northwest, won the popularity contest for babies yesterday afternoon. Similar contests will be held this afternoon and tomorrow.

Tonight's major gift will be a gas refrigerator. This afternoon an Italian linen luncheon set, valued at $40, will be given away.

Boy Is Severely Injured When Struck by Auto

George P. Siras, 11 years old, 707 Newton place northwest, suffered severe injuries last night when struck by the car of Lawrence E. Towles, 21, 3323 Channing street northeast, on Georgia avenue near Newton place.

The boy was taken to Emergency Hospital where it was found he had suffered a fracture of his left leg, a dislocated wrist, bruises and cuts.

DR. JOHNSON URGES IMPROVED SUPPORT FOR HOME MISSIONS

Speaker Cites Grid Player as Example of Courage Under Fire.

Stirringly exhorting Baptists of America to stave off impending disaster to its home mission projects, the Rev. J. C. Johnson, of St. Louis, president of the Northern Baptist Convention, last night told the Columbia Association of Baptist Churches that never in his memory "had the home missions been in such a serious condition."

The modern football player was held up to Baptists as an example of how to tackle adversity by Dr. Johnson. He asked his audience if it had ever seen a football player cry out in objection because the game was rough.

Example of Nehemiah.

"No," he thundered, "you didn't, but the other day I saw a young lad burst into tears because the coach took him out of the game. He wanted to keep on taking punishment and cried because the coach wouldn't let him."

The example of Nehemiah, scriptural character, who urged his countrymen on to rebuild their destroyed cities, was continually cited by Dr. Johnson. The story of Nehemiah, sword in one hand and trowel in the other, building the ruined walls of his home, was graphically retold by the speaker.

Activities During Day.

The address closed the two-day session of the local Baptist group.

During the day the association heard Dr. Johnson speak on the need of greater cooperation among churchgoers; Dr. J. W. Cammack described the work of Averett College at Danville, Va., a Baptist institution for young women, and heard reports of various officers of the association.

Driscoll Joins Staff Of Bus Lines Firm

A. J. Driscoll, well known Washington civic leader, who was recently retired from the railway mail service of the Postoffice Department, has been appointed a special representative of the Greyhound Bus Lines, it was announced yesterday.

Mr. Driscoll was retired under provisions of the economy act, following many years of service in the Postoffice Department. For more than 20 years he has been president of the Midcity Citizens Association and is a member of the Washington Board of Trade.

Man Snatches Woman's Purse Containing $147

Miss Fannie Deckelbaum, 4405 Twenty-eighth street northwest, reported to police last night that a colored man snatched her purse from under her arm while she was standing in front of the Burleith Market, 1832 Thirty-fifth street northwest.

She said the purse contained $147 in cash, several checks payable to the Burleith Market, and one to cash, a pair of glasses and other articles, including a driving permit.

Mrs. Ford Plans Farm Scholarship

Course Would Be Named in Honor of Lou Henry Hoover.

A discussion of the theme, "Significant Teamwork for Farm and City Women," will feature the luncheon meeting of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association at the Willard Hotel today. The annual meeting of the association opened yesterday at the hotel. Mrs. Henry Ford, wife of the automobile manufacturer, is president.

It was learned that Mrs. Ford plans to have a horticultural scholarship named after Mrs. Herbert Hoover. She disclosed that the association will endeavor to establish a scholarship, to be known as the Lou Henry Hoover scholarship, for a Girl Scout to study at the School of Horticulture for Women at Ambler, Pa.

The discussion at today's luncheon will include such activities of the association as wayside marketing and the beautifying of roadsides and farm home grounds. Members of the luncheon committee are Mrs. Charles D. Walcott, Mrs. Merritt O. Chance, Mrs. Cary Grayson, Mrs. Frederic Delano, Mrs. Wallace Radcliffe and Mrs. M. B. Berryhill.
